This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Report of the State Auditor.

STATE OF VERMONT, AUDITOR'S OFFICE,
LUNENBURG, JULY 1ST, 1898.

To His Excellency, the Governor:

Under the requirements of the law, I have the honor to submit to you my report for the biennial term ending June 30th, 1898; it being my third biennial report, and the fourteenth since the adoption of the biennial system.

The natural and legal province of the auditor is to examine carefully all claims against the State, to allow and pay by proper order all such as are just and legal, rather than to question of or reason why the law is as it is. It is his duty to see that under the law, justice prevails as between individuals presenting claims against the State and the State. It is also his duty to show by his report, to all who may desire the knowledge, just what it costs to run the various branches of the State government, and to show plainly for what the large sums of money collected by means of taxation, are expended. This I faithfully attempt to do in this report.

The general remarks I made in my report two years ago, touching the large amount of expenditures; and, considering the condition of the times and the people of our State; the necessity of exercising as great a degree of economy as is consistent with the best and most progressive results in all our public interests, are as pertinent to-day as then. The highest interests of the State as seen in the prosperity of her citizens, should be close to the heart of all her servants; especially those who biennally meet to alter and make laws. I trust the items of this report may be such as will call the close attention of all concerned to some changes which seem almost imperative. I have followed the usual method and order of itemization, and in the various classifications and combinations I have endeavored to present such relations as would call attention to the most vital points, and make it easy for any one so desiring to inform himself touching the work of this department. I have to report that the Honorable Inspector of Finance and I, have at the close of each fiscal year examined the books and papers of the State Treasurer; that we have found them faithfully kept, and proper vouchers to cover all payments of money from the State treasury, the same being cancelled by us. I have also made settlements with the State Librarian and find proper vouchers for the expenditures made by him officially. Settlements have been made with the superintendents of public institutions granted special appropriations, and proper vouchers have been filed in this office for all monies paid out for the maintenance of these institutions, In the line of suggestions which I made in my report two years ago touching probate fees, certain changes in the law were made by the Legislature of 1896. In my examination of the books of the Probate Judges, and from talking with the Judges, I am convinced that the legislation was in the right direction and that in the future the expense of the Probate system to the State will not be as great as in the past. The financial reports of the several probate districts, which appear in detail in this report, show the excess of fees over salaries for the year ending May 31st, 1897, to be $322.50; and for the year ending May 31st, 1898, $884.50.

As will be noticed in the general classification, the expense of Probate Courts other than the Judges' salaries, was for the first year of this biennial term, $1,626.50 and for the second year, $2,683.34. This expense is principally for record books, blanks, stationery, and heating and lighting the offices.

The total amount of orders issued at this office for the year ending June 30th, 1897, is $560.561.27, and for the year ending June 30th, 1898, $552,032.23, a total for the term of $1,112,593.50; this is about $28,000.00 less than last term

As is usual, in some lines the expenditure has been less and in others greater. A close analysis of the classification tables will be of interest to all taxpayers. Approximately, $75,000.00 has been expended during the term on new buildings, provided for by appropriation, and for necessary repairs and furnishings. The Vermont Asylum, the State Prison, the House of Correction, the Industrial School and the Capitol have all had a share in this item of expenditure. It will be further noticed that during the last two years there has been expended in round numbers about $300,000.00 for the insane poor of the State; $25,000 of this was for an addition to the plant, under the appropriation of 1896. A further explanation of this large item is proper. It has always been customary not to pay for the board and care of the State patients at the Brattleboro Retreat till after the close of the fiscal year; that is, the bill for the year ending June 30th would not be paid until after July 1st, thus making the bill really contracted in one year, appear in the next year's account. Early in this term a very large number of the patients were moved from Brattleboro to Waterbury, and their support was then provided for in the monthly requisitions of the State Asylum; while the bill of the Brattleboro Retreat for the full year previous to the removal appears as one of the items of this fiscal year, so during this term we have principally supported the insane at Waterbury, and also paid $56,616.74 for their support the previous year at Brattleboro. One new item of expense appears herein. The war with Spain has cost us about $18,000.00, the larger part of which I think in time will be paid to the State by the United States government. In expending this money in the mobilization of the Vermont regiment, the necessary steps have been taken, so that we may be prepared to present a proper claim whenever the general government expresses itself ready to consider the same. Of the total amount expended during the term as shown herein, approximately $650,000.00 has been on account of Insane, Penal Institutions, the Militia and Education. It must be remembered that the figures here given are all on one side of the account, and that the Asylum, the State Prison and the House of Correction should be credited with such sums as they have paid into the State Treasury for labor contracted for, or for balances of monthly requisitions and property sold; these amounts will appear in detail in the reports of the superintendents and trustees or directors of these several institutions. The tuberculosis law has cost during this term about $35,000.00, making in all since it went into effect about $54,000.00; the exact figures appear in the classification of current orders. To answer inquiries often made I continue tables from my last report with the proper additions for this term:

Digitized by Google

	1893.	1894.	1895.	1896.	1897.	1898
Amount paid to counsel for the State	$1,984 60	$2,136 95	$3,071 59	$1,572 03	$2,808 94	$4,308 90
For the respondent	2,022 06	2,110 43	4,152 06	5,704 20	4,118 96	4,244 62

The expense of the State Militia for the past ten years is herewith given: 1887, $20,650.47; 1888, $28,016.18; 1889, $33,825.44; 1890, $23,992.02; 1891, $25,098.13; 1892, $27,560.89; 1893, $19,958.37; 1894, $19,843.17; 1895, $22,767.28; 1896, $24,385.08; 1897, $27,297.62; 1898, $22,283.34.

The total amount of court expense orders for the year ending June 30th, 1897, was $105.444.60, and the same for the year ending June 30th, 1898, $93,274.81 a total of $198,-719.41.

This total is practically the same as two years ago. During the last two years there have been a number of very expensive criminal trials, which by lengthening terms of court increase the expense in various lines.

I continue tables of fines and costs paid in, from last report, with the necessary additions. I also continue table "C" and "D" from last report, as a guide to those who may desire to inquire into the matter of court expenses. In this report and corresponding to pages 124–127 of the report of 1895–6, I show the net expense to the State of the courts. For the fiscal year of this term it is $117,917.26 and for the second year it is $118,322.49.

It would be no easy matter to determine exactly what proportion of this amount is directly chargeable to the prosecution of crime, but from a careful consideration of the matter, I think it safe to say, that were it not for apprehending and punishing criminals the State would save at least three-fourths of this amount. The item of Judges' salaries and expenses is not included in this summary of expenses.

With this report I practically close my term of service as State Auditor, and I desire here to thank all those with whom I have officially come in contact, for the courtesy and kindness which they have always shown me. The duties of the office are critical, exacting, and ofttimes perplexing, but I can say that with few exceptions I have been met with an apparent desire on the part of the servants of the State, to be faithful to the trusts imposed by the law, and to have at all times at heart the best interests of the State. The duties of the auditor are much less burdensome when this spirit largely prevails. For my successor in the office, to whom for a time at least, the work will be new and to some extent trying, I ask the same kind consideration and courtesy which has been accorded me during my term of service.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANKLIN D. HALE,

State Auditor.

TABLE SHOWING FINES AND COSTS PAID IN SINCE 1886.

1894	39,266 32	70,899 48	31,633 16
1895	44,185 42	67,922 60	23,737 18
1896	41,371 26	61,110 37	19,639 11
1897	42,619 64	67,796 91	25,177 27
1898	32,994 18	52,230 70	19,236 52

These figures show that the fines and costs paid in each year exceed the bills of costs in liquor cases, and the amount of the balance has been called a revenue from the liquor traffic. This is misleading and an error, for the extra expense made by increasing the length of terms of court and adding to the number of docket cases, increasing the accounts of Sheriffs, County Clerks, Jailers, County Judges, etc., would undoubtedly more than offset this amount, and all these items legitimately chargeable to the liquor traffic.

PROFITS OF LIQUOR AGENCY SALES.

1897 AND 1898.

Under the provisions of Sections 4456 and 4457 of Vermont Statutes, towns are required to pay into the State treasury any excess of profits over ten per cent of the total sales of liquor for the year, and it is made the duty of the Auditors to report to the State Treasurer the condition of the liquor agency account in the several towns and cities within fifteen days after making a settlement of such accounts.

From the settlements reported for the year ending in February, 1897, the total excess appearing to be due the State was		$730 87
The amount paid into the treasury was	*$335 41
Leaving a balance due from four towns of	396 46
		731 87
Three towns have since paid into the treasury $236.46 of this amount, which appears in the treasurer's annual statement for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898.
The settlements for the succeeding year, ending in February, 1898, indicated an excess due the State of		1,443 48
And of this sum the treasurer has received	$1,117 00
Leaving due from four towns	326 48
		1,443 48

The following tables exhibit the details of the reports received as to total sales, profits, ten per cent of sales and the amount of excess due to the State:

REPORT.

STATE OF VERMONT.

OFFICE OF INSPECTOR OF FINANCE,
WILMINGTON, VT., Sept. 6, 1897.

In accordance with law, I herewith publish the sworn statement of the officers of the Savings Banks, Savings Institutions and Trust Companies, Investment Companies and Building and Loan Associations organized under the laws of this State, and the Investment Companies and Building and Loan Associations organized under the laws of other states that are licensed to do business in this State, showing the condition of such institutions on the 30th day of June, 1897.

Since the last annual report of the Inspector of Finance a Savings Bank has been organized at Barton and a Savings Bank and Trust Company at Swanton, making a total of twenty-three Savings Banks and nineteen Trust Companies in the State.

The number of Building and Loan Associations and Investment Companies organized under the laws of the State remains the same, there being three of the former and one of the latter.

DEPOSITS AND DEPOSITORS.

The aggregate deposits in the Savings Banks and Trust Companies June 30th last was $32,600,627.49, which was an increase for the year of $429,884.61, having been acquired within the last six months of the year, and $141,176.70 in addition, which the December 31st last statement shows the aggregate deposits to have then been less than June 30th, 1896.

$27,321,006.44 was deposited by 93,941 resident depositors, and $5,279,621.65 by 12,228 non-resident depositors, showing an increase for the year of 2,757 in number of resident depositors and $524,700.81 in amount of their deposits, and an increase of 231 in number of non-resident depositors, but a decrease of $94,816.20 in amount of their deposits.

While the aggregate deposits have increased, the increase in number of depositors and the withdrawal of some large deposits by non-resident depositors has decreased the average amount to each depositor from $311.48 to $307.19.

The average amount to resident depositors is $290.83, a decrease of $3.04, and $431.76 to non-resident depositors, a decrease of $12.51 in the year.

There are 2,494 depositors who each have over $1,500 in a bank, and the total amount of their deposits is $4,969,935, an average of $1,993.56 to each depositor, which is a decrease of 83 in number and $38.33 in average amount.

INVESTMENTS.

A very careful investigation of the investments held by the Savings Banks and Trust Companies has impressed me with the caution and intelligence with which they have been selected, which seems especially true of mortgage loans outside the State, the larger part of which are choice six per cent mortgages in prosperous localities, and so far as I can discover they are, with few exceptions, fairly worth their book value, and many municipal bonds owned, if sold today, would bring a price considerably above the value at which they are carried on the books.

The amount invested in mortgages of real estate in this State is $6,749,467.60, an increase in the year of $136,334.07. Real estate mortgages elsewhere, $10,852,787.30, a decrease of $232,640.61.

Personal security, $2,674,830.78, a decrease of $134,171.86.

Loans with bank stock as collateral security, $243,884.65, a decrease of $875.

Loans on other collateral security, $1,109,597.74, an increase of $34,770.50.

Loans to towns, villages, etc., $546,150.50, an increase of $37,936.47.

United States government bonds owned, $1,293,588.50, an increase of $506,557.50. Having been strongly of the opinion that banks in the selection of quick assets could do no better than purchase U. S. government bonds to hold to the extent at least of the 10 per cent which the law authorizes the banks to deduct from the deposits subject to taxation, in May last I sent a circular letter to all the Savings Banks and Trust Companies in the State advising this, and it is gratifying to observe that the holdings of U. S. government bonds have been so largely increased.

State, city, county, town, village and other bonds owned, $8,526,381.18, a decrease of $419,992.59.

Real estate owned for banking purposes, $303,660.46, an increase of $6,673.35.

Real estate acquired by foreclosure, $562,815.56, an increase of $138,302.68.

Bank stock owned, $432,880, an increase of $22,395.

Miscellaneous assets, $371,174.69, an increase of $71,853.10.

Deposits subject to check in National and other banks, $1,523,430.62, an increase of $386,966.88.

Cash on hand, $335,371.04, a decrease of $19,435.77.

The percentage of assets in the several classes of investments held by all the Savings Banks and Trust Companies from 1888 to 1897 inclusive will be found in the following table:

	1888	1889	1890	1891	1892	1893	1894	1895	1896	1897

9 Cash on hand	.76	.71	.67	1.00	.98	1.53	1.05	1.19	1.01	.94

SURPLUS, TAXES AND EXPENSES.

The special reserve fund required by law to be set aside by the Savings Banks and held to meet losses and depreciation of securities, together with the special reserve of the Trust Companies now amounts to $1,054,275.67, to which if we add other surplus and accumulations of all the Savings Banks and Trust Companies makes a total of accumulations of $1,829,912.48, an increase for the year of $63,523.47.

The Savings Banks and Trust Companies have paid taxes to the State during the year of $214,076.98, an increase over the preceding year of $6,501.20.

The expenses of all the Savings Banks and Trust Companies for the year, except taxes, were $165,088.87, an increase over the preceding year of $11,238.71.

DIVIDENDS.

The depositors in the Savings Banks and Trust Companies have been credited with interest on their deposits for the year of $1,188,994.89. All the Savings Banks have paid four per cent (two per cent semi-annually, which is the legal limit) per annum, one Trust Company has paid three per cent one three and one-half per cent, one four and one-half per cent, and the other Trust Companies four per cent per annum.

On their capital stock two Trust Companies have paid no dividends, one has paid four per cent, eleven have paid six per cent, two have paid eight per cent and two have paid 10 per cent per annum. The total dividends to stockholders were $55,466.80.

The limitation of dividends on Savings Bank deposits to two per cent semi-annually until a reserve fund of ten per cent has been accumulated, which was advocated by my predecessor, Hon Fred G. Field, and made a law by the Legislature of 1896, has been accepted by the Savings Banks and their depositors generally as a wise provision. While the Trust Companies were not included in this restriction, all but one have kept within that limit, and the fact that the deposits in all the Savings Banks and Trust Companies have increased in the six months ending June 30th last over half a million of dollars would seem to indicate that no considerable amount of deposits have been withdrawn because of reduction of dividends. The thoughtful depositor begins to recognize, what has become very apparent to bankers, that rates of interest are tending downward, a fact quite noticeable in regard to high grade municipal and other bonds, which class of quick assets banks must have if they would fortify against financial storms, and which cannot be carried to any extent if attempt is made to maintain high rates of dividends.

TABLES.

Farther on will be found tabular statements showing as follows:

FOREIGN INVESTMENT COMPANIES.

The following named Mortgage Investment Companies have been licensed to do business in this State for the year ending December 31st, 1897:

Iowa Loan and Trust Company of Des Moines, Ia.

New England Loan and Trust Company, Des Moines, Ia., and New York city.

Vermont Loan and Trust Company, Grand Forks, N. D.

FOREIGN BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS.

Only one foreign Building and Loan Association has complied with the law passed by the last Legislature and been licensed to do business in the State; that is the Connecticut Building and Loan Association of Hartford, Conn.

H. K. Bush of Barre has been appointed receiver for the assets in this State of the insolvent Granite State Provident Association of Manchester, N. H., and is collecting them—about $35,000—as fast as possible, which he will hold subject to direction of the Vermont courts. David A. Taggart, general assignee at Manchester, informs me that decisions so far rendered in the courts require the return of the general assets scattered through several states to him for general distribution, and he expects this decision in all courts where the question is raised. He is attempting to secure the return of the special deposits held by several states for general distribution also, and has recently secured a decision in the State of Michigan by the United States Circuit Court to the effect that the law of that State which places a lien on all the assets of said Association in that State for the benefit of the stockholders thereof living in that State, is unconstitutional because of preference to citizens of Michigan over those of other states.

VERIFICATION OF DEPOSIT BOOKS.

Next year the law requires the banks to call in their deposit books for verification. It seems to me it is essential that this be done in as thorough a manner as possible. It may be emphatically said, "if worth doing at all it is worth doing well," and I shall expect hearty co-operation from the officers and depositors of the banks, that every book possible to be secured be brought to the bank for verification with the books of the bank. The law requires me to fix the time for this work, and I shall endeavor to fix a date which will give the most general convenience to the banks and depositors, and am now inclined to think the month of May will be named. The trouble occasioned some banks at a former verification of depositors' books by a misapprehension of depositors as to the reason for it will not be likely to arise again, provided the purpose of and date for verification is well advertised.

On the 7th of July last I assisted the State Auditor to examine the books and accounts of Hon. Henry F. Field, State Treasurer, which were found correct, with proper vouchers for all moneys expended.

On the 19th and 20th of July, at Lunenburg, I examined the books of Hon. F. D. Hale, State Auditor, and found proper vouchers for all orders drawn on the State Treasurer for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1897.

I wish to acknowledge the courtesy of Hon. Elisha May, National Bank Examiner; in so arranging the dates of his examinations that the law requiring State Banks doing business in offices with National Banks to be examined at the same time that the National Banks are, could be complied with.

I also wish to acknowledge the kindness of my predecessor, Hon. Fred G. Field, in furnishing me all necessary information at his command in regard to this department.

It is my sad duty to record that two faithful treasurers of two of the oldest Savings Banks in the State have been stricken down by the hand of death when at their posts of duty.

J. Carey B. Thayer, treasurer of the Northfield Savings Bank, when in apparent health, died suddenly June 18, 1897.

He was one of the oldest Savings Bank treasurers of the State, both in age and time of duty. He was 73 years old and had been treasurer of the Northfield Savings Bank since its organization, 28 years ago.

Milon Davidson, treasurer of the Windham County Savings Bank, while on a business trip in the interests of the bank, met death as did Mr. Thayer, with little if any warning. He was 63 years old and had been treasurer of the Windham County Savings Bank for 23 years. To the faithful efforts of these men the institutions of which they were treasurers and the State of which these institutions are no unimportant part, owe much. May their faithful example be a guide to their successors.

Respectfully submitted,

HOSEA MANN,

Inspector of Finance.

On the 6th of July last I assisted the State Auditor to examine the books and accounts of Hon. Henry F. Field, State Treasurer, which were found correct, with proper vouchers for all moneys expended.

On the 21st and 22nd of July I examined the books of Hon. F. D. Hale, State Auditor, and found proper vouchers for all orders drawn on the State treasury for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1898.

VERIFICATION OF DEPOSIT BOOKS.

In compliance with the statute requiring me to fix a date this year for the verification of deposit books, I named the month of May and urged upon the banks the desirability of earnest endeavor to comply with the spirit as well as letter of the law. I advised not only advertising in the State papers for deposit books, but also that personal notices should be sent to all who did not respond within a reasonable time to advertisement. Seventeen banks both advertised and sent personal notices; seventeen banks advertised only, and six sent notices only.

The result was the verification of 56,128 books out of a total of 106,233, or 53 per cent. With the exception of one bank just organized which had out only twenty books, nineteen of which it verified, the Chester Savings Bank verified the largest percentage, verifying 1026 out of a total of 1093, or 94 per cent. Nineteen per cent was the smallest percentage reported by any bank. The total number of errors reported was 262, mostly small items. The total cost of verification was $2,607.38.

The average percentage of verification is hardly satisfactory, but it is doubtful if better results will be secured at future verifications unless the law is made effective by the addition of some penalty for depositors who do not observe the request to bring in their books to the bank.

Bradford Savings Bank and Trust Company.

In compliance with section 4123, Vermont Statutes, on the first day of February last I applied to Chancellor James M. Tyler for an injunction to close the Bradford Savings Bank and Trust Company at Bradford, which was granted, and James B. Hale of Newbury was appointed receiver.

To understand the causes that made this action necessary it will be necessary to go back in the history of the trust company to 1889, when a small mortgage loan was made upon the real estate of the Ely Copperfield Mining Company, which was increased by advances until about $40,000 was loaned upon said property, which at the time was considered ample security for that amount. Reverses overtook the mining company, and accrued interest and money advanced to protect the trust company's interest increased its claim against the mining property to $51,000, a sum greater than the entire capital of the trust company. The mining enterprise, which had become dormant, was revived about two years ago by Boston promoters, and $200,000 of bonds, secured upon the property, were issued to supply means, of which the trust company received $100,000 as security for its claim of $51,000. A leading promoter of the new movement borrowed money from the trust company, from time to time, until it was discovered that he was upon $18,000 of the trust company's paper. Trouble arose between said promoter and the trust company and its officers, resulting in several attachments instituting costly litigation, now pending in State and U. S. courts. The mining company stopped operations and was adjudged insolvent. The litigation in which the trust company became entangled—having had its bank building attached in one suit in which damages to the amount of $200,000 were alleged because of the failure of said trust company to perform certain alleged agreements by which said promoter hoped to make that amount—naturally caused alarm among depositors, who made such heavy withdrawals that the trust company rapidly became crippled in its attempt to meet them. Upon hasty consultation the directors, with my approval, passed a vote limiting the payment of withdrawals, over a limited sum, to ten per cent per month, believing this the only expedient that would prevent the immediate closing of the bank.

While the claim against the mining property had been previously carried on the books of the trust company at par, and the statement of the trust company consequently indicated a fair surplus, it now became apparent that the affairs of the mining company were in such condition that the claim of the trust company against it would have to be discounted considerably to approach a marketable value, and the directors, at a meeting held Jan. 22nd last, voted to scale down said assets to $25,000, and at the same time it was voted to charge off to profit and loss the entire claim of about $18,000 against the Boston promoter before referred to, and also a balance of $9,000 (about) claim against the Arthur bondsmen, which had been a dead asset on the books of the bank for several years, but the collection of which I had advised be vigorously pushed, and which is now in litigation. This reduction of the book value of the assets wiped out the surplus and a considerable part of the capital stock, and it was voted to make an assessment of fifty per cent upon the capital stock for the purpose of making good such impairment.

This assessment was opposed by part of the stockholders, and a committee appointed by the stockholders to make careful and detailed investigation of the assets, to ascertain if possible their actual cash value, that a decision might be reached as to the advisability of paying said assessment. This committee met Jan'y 25th, and continued several days in session. I was present at the investigation. The result did not materially change the figures of the bank statement as scaled down by the directors, as referred to. Before the report of this committee was made to the stockholders, news came of the burning of a flouring mill in the West, causing the trust company a loss of several thousand dollars, sufficient to probably wipe out the remaining capital of the trust company. Until this time I had been hopeful that prompt, energetic measures and harmonious action on the part of the stockholders might avert threatened disaster and restore the confidence of the public, but now, with the capital completely exhausted, as would at least appear by the report, with disagreement among the stockholders as to whether the institution should be wound up or continued, and no prospect that they would, if they could, respond promptly to an assessment, there appeared no other way to protect the interests of depositors except the prompt appointment of a receiver.

I am glad to be able to state that Receiver Hale, whose report appears elsewhere, is hopeful that the assets will prove sufficient to pay the deposits in full.

It may not be out of place to call attention to the fact that this is the only trust company in this State that it has been necessary to place in a receiver's hands for fifteen years, and only one trust company ever failed in the history of the State before, and no mutual savings bank of the State ever failed.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

DIVIDENDS LIMITED TO 3½ PER CENT UNTIL 15 PER CENT SURPLUS ACCUMULATED. EXEMPTION FROM TAXATION OF 5 PER CENT INTEREST BEARING VERMONT MORTGAGES. SEMI-ANNUAL EXAMINATIONS.

The Savings Banks and Trust Companies of the State owned July first last $8,394,009 municipal securities, mostly carried at par, and yielding an average of about 5½ per cent yearly income. These securities are rapidly approaching maturity, and at present interest rates cannot be replaced with as desirable municipal securities that will yield over 4 per cent per year income. In consequence banks are gradually decreasing their line of municipal securities. It will be noticed that they have decreased $552,363 within the past two years, when they should have increased to have kept the percentage of this class of investments good. If banks would maintain their strength it seems clear that this class of securities should be increased instead of diminished, but the question many a banker is struggling with, is, how can a large percentage of securities paying only four per cent or less be carried, seven-tenths per cent tax paid and forty-nine-one-hundredths per cent expenses and a four per cent dividend rate to depositors maintained? It evidently cannot be done without purchasing foreign securities bearing high interest, which it is not the policy of the State to encourage.

That our banks may be kept in condition to purchase and hold a good line of quick assets of the nature of municipal bonds, U. S. Gov't bonds, etc., and at the same time accumulate a surplus which conservative banking seems to require, I recommend that Savings Banks be limited to a dividend rate to depositors not exceeding 1¾ per cent semi-annually until a surplus of 15 per cent of deposits is secured to meet losses and depreciation; and that Trust Companies be limited to a similar rate of interest on deposits, and a dividend rate to stockholders of not more than three per cent semi-annually until a surplus be accumulated, which together with the capital stock and liability which it carries shall equal 15 per cent of deposits.

If it should seem that this recommendation follows too closely the limit to four per cent made two years ago, it should be borne in mind that interest rates all over the country have suffered a radical reduction, with the strong probability that this reduction will be permanent. Savings Banks throughout other states are rapidly adapting themselves to this lesser interest rate by a reduction of dividends. The Savings Banks of Maine, New Hampshire, New Jersey and California average only 3½ per cent, New York, three and forty-six one-hundredths per cent; Illinois and Louisiana, 3 per cent and Michigan about 2½ per cent.

The situation seems to have been pretty well grasped by a prominent banker of an adjoining state who recently said: "With a government bond issue floated on a practically 2½ per cent basis, with city four per cent bonds selling on an income basis of 3.08 per cent, with mortgages negotiated at such low rates of interest as now prevail, depositors in Savings Banks can hardly expect to make more interest on their deposits than the bank itself is making."

How large a permanent surplus fund should be maintained for the protection of depositors is, of course, debatable, but a careful study of the strongest Savings Institutions of the country indicates that ten per cent is not considered sufficient by many conservative bankers. It may be of service in determining this question to note the fact the Savings Banks of the great states of New York and Pennsylvania have an average surplus of over 13 per cent of deposits and many are carrying over 15 per cent.

Savings deposits are generally for a long time, many in youth deposit to insure against want in old age, and those having to do with savings institutions should have especial care to the future that the hopes of depositors may not be disappointed. As the Savings Banks have found the accumulations of the past of great service in maintaining satisfactory rates of dividends to depositors, so will the accumulation of a larger surplus and the ownership of high grade, long time municipal securities, with all premium sunk in profit and loss, help the continuance of satisfactory dividends in the future.

It is becoming quite apparent that the downward tendency of interest rates will soon make a general reduction in interest on mortgage loans within the State a necessity. As a matter of general public benefit this is not to be regretted, and would doubtless have come before this had the banks not have been obliged to do all they could to keep up those rates in order to pay dividends demanded by depositors. With five per cent money on every hand it is only a question of a very short time when banks must drop their rates to five per cent or not invest in Vermont mortgages. Recognizing this fact, should not such legislation be enacted as will enable the Savings Banks and Trust Companies to take a leading position in this matter instead of being forced a little later to follow to their detriment? I believe it would be wise to pass a law allowing Savings Banks and Trust Companies to deduct the seven-tenths per cent tax required on deposits on all loaned upon mortgages within the State at a rate not exceeding 2½ per cent semi-annually. A measure of this kind seems necessary if we would not leave our banks at a disadvantage in competition with those of surrounding states. New Hampshire has such a law. Massachusetts, which taxes deposits only five-tenths per cent, authorizes all loans made on mortgages within the state at whatever rate to be deducted from amount of deposits taxed. New York does not tax Savings Bank deposits at all, whether loaned upon mortgages or not, its superintendent of banking, answering in his last report a suggestion of taxation, after calling attention to the fact that the large majority of deposits of savings banks are the few hundred dollar accounts laid aside for a rainy day, says: "While out of the abundance of the rich so little is taken, shall the state wrest from the poor a percentage of the little that is their all."

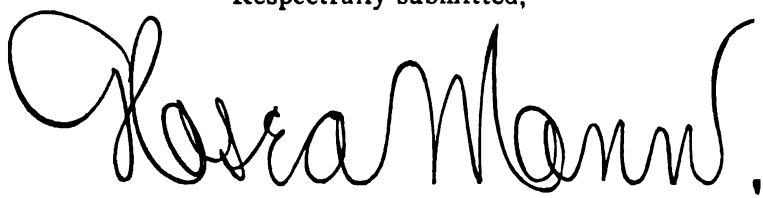
Should it appear that a law exempting Vermont five per cent mortgages from taxation would deprive the State of needed income, such loss could doubtless be largely made good by removing some of the present restrictions on the amount that Savings Banks may take on deposit.

The double taxation problem with which many legislalatures have wrestled but none ever solved, would be practically settled by the passage of the law proposed, as mortgages within the State are or should be largely held by the Savings Banks.

To keep in touch with the business of a bank and promptly detect changes in its condition, examinations should be made as often as once in six months This fact is recognized in the national banking department, and semi-annual examinations required, but no provision exists under our State law for more than an annual examination of the State Banks. This should be remedied, as a great deal can happen within a year.

Respectfully submitted,



Inspector of Finance.

STATE OF VERMONT.

ADJUTANT AND INSPECTOR GENERAL'S OFFICE,
BURLINGTON, August 1st, 1898.

To His Excellency, Josiah Grout,

Governor and Commander-in-Chief:

SIR—I have the honor to submit my report for the two years ending July 31, 1898, as follows:

The National Guard of this State to May 16, 1898, consisted of 68 officers and 680 enlisted men, organized into one three-battalion regiment (12 companies) of infantry, one four-gun battery of light artillery, and the Norwich Cadets, designated by statutes, the Section of Artillery.

PERSONNEL.

The personnel of the command is excellent. The system of examining officers, commenced some two years ago, has had a most beneficial effect upon the service. Study among officers and those aspiring to commissions has been increased, and the responsibility of those positions leading up to a commission has been thoroughly realized. Whenever vacancies have occurred among the non-commissioned officers examinations have been held, and those having the highest standing appointed.

TARGET PRACTICE.

The last two years have shown a gradual improvement in rifle firing, and the competitions which have stimulated this practice at the home stations of the companies have been beneficial. The Light Battery has also improved in this direction.

DRILL.

The drills of the Companies, Battalions and Regiment of Infantry, as well as the Light Battery show a marked improvement since my last report.

OFFICERS' SCHOOL.

The Officers' School authorized by statutes was held at Brattleboro in January, 1897, and at St. Johnsbury in January, 1898. These meetings were well attended, and much interest shown by all present. The two days' sessions are so conducted that regulations and tactics are thoroughly gone over, and also all matters in which commissioned officers should be instructed so far as the time would permit. The attendance and hearty co-operation of the United States army officers serving in the State were of the greatest benefit to the Vermont officers.

ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT.

The annual encampment authorized by law was held at Camp Webb, near Burlington, in August, 1896, and at Camp Governor Grout, Chester, in August, 1897, with Brigadier-General Julius J. Estey in command. His detailed reports are hereto appended. With Gov. Urban A. Woodbury and staff in 1896, and your Excellency and staff in 1897, I was present during these encampments, making very careful inspections of the troops, and witnessing all their manoeuvres.

The National Guard of this State never did better, I believe, than at Chester. The presence of His Excellency, William McKinley, President of the United States, Hon. Russell A. Alger, Secretary of War, the Vermont Senators and Congressmen, and other distinguished guests, was a great feature of this encampment. The first squadron of the 3rd U. S. Cavalry, Brevet Brigadier-General Guy V. Henry in command, and also two companies of the 21st U. S. Infantry, Captain and Brevet Lieut-Colonel E. W. Stone commanding, were of great service to our people. The Third Cavalry escorted President McKinley from the village of Chester to Camp Governor Grout (some three miles), and the review of the entire command by the President of the United States was most excellent, and received the highest praise from the distinguished gentlemen present.

It has been the good fortune of the Vermont troops to have the officers and men of the United States army with them at several of the late encampments, all of which was most beneficial and truly appreciated.

PERMANENT CAMP GROUND.

The permanent camp ground adjoining Fort Ethan Allen is in good condition. The result of the grading and seeding has given a good field of grass, and the buildings which the Quartermaster General of Vermont has erected, as well as the fence around the premises are most serviceable. The $2,000 contributed by the patriotic citizens of Burlington and that of Col. W. Seward Webb has aided largely in putting the camp ground in first class order.

MILITARY COLLEGES.

The University of Vermont and State Agricultural College at Burlington, Norwich University at Northfield, and Vermont Academy at Saxton's River have military instruction under officers of the United States army, detailed by the War Department as professors of Military Science and Tactics. In pursuance to the Army Regulations the names of three graduates most proficient in military subjects have to be reported to the Adjutant General of the Army, and also to the Adjutant General of the State.

The following were so reported:

University of Vermont, Burlington, by 1st Lieut. Charles J. Bailey, 1st U. S. Artillery, professor of Military Science and Tactics.

Merton Corey Robbins.
Perley Orman Ray.
Julius Spear Turrill.

In addition to the above Lieut. Bailey presents the following names of students of the class of 1898, who showed great aptitude for the work and stood high in the Military Department:

1. Harris Hard Walker,
2. Roy Leonard Patrick,
3. John Cutler Torrey,
4. William Silas Bean,
5. Henry Farnham Perkins,
6. Charles Strain Van Patten,
7. Warner Jackson Morse,
8. Samuel Warren Hamilton,
9. Walter Towne Mott,
10. William Julius Russell,
11. George Campbell Hubbard.

All the above named are especially recommended for your consideration should occasion demand the services of Volunteer troops.

Norwich University, Northfield, by 1st Lieut. Henry W. Hovey, 24th U. S. Infantry, professor of Military Science and Tactics.

Cadet Captain,
Arthur Ellsworth Winslow.
Cadet Captain,
Paul Addison Dinsmore.
Cadet Lieutenant,
Frank Winslow Denison.

Vermont Academy, Saxton's River, by Major Joseph M. Wolfe, Brigade Inspector of Rifle Practice, professor of Military Science and Tactics.

Cadet Captain, A. F. Locke.
Cadet Captain, H. H. Fiske.
Cadet Lieutenant, A. E. Best.

I enclose herewith reports of 1st Lieut. Henry W. Hovey, 24th U. S. Infantry, on the year's work of the Military Department of Norwich University, ending June, 1897, and the annual encampments of the cadets held at Northfield in June, 1897, and June, 1898.

It gives me great pleasure to say that the interest in the military art in all colleges seems to be increasing.

ALBUM OF VERMONT SOLDIERS IN WAR DEPARTMENT LIBRARY.

Through the kindness of Brig. General A. W. Greely, chief signal officer of the United States, in charge of the War Department Library, the State of Vermont has been furnished with an album in which cabinet-size photographs of the officers of the Vermont Regiments have been carefully placed. Vermont is the first State in the Union to avail herself of this opportunity of handing down to future generations the pictures of her soldiers. I am told that other States are doing likewise.

VERMONT SOLDIERS' HOME AT BENNINGTON.

Colonel Robert J. Coffey, superintendent, reports as follows: Whole number of veteran soldiers admitted and cared for to June 30, 1898, 352. Whole number of deaths, 89. Membership present, 72. Membership present and absent, 30. Total, 102. Thanks to the efficient management of Colonel Coffey as superintendent and Mrs. Coffey as matron everything connected with the Home is in good condition.

MILITARY EXPEDITIONS.

On the 4th of March, 1897, Colonel George H. Bond and staff with Companies A, I, K, and M, 1st Regiment Vermont National Guard, participated in the ceremonies of the inauguration of William McKinley as President of the United States, at Washington, D. C., and on the 27th of April, 1897, Col. Bond and staff, with Companies B, C, D, E, F, G, K, L, and M of the First Regiment of Infantry acted as escort to your Excellency at the Grant Memorial parade in New York city.

Through the kindness of Colonel W. Seward Webb, who furnished the Wagner palace cars for the Washington expedition, and also contributed largely toward the New York trip, and the payment of the balance of the expenses by the officers and men personally, Vermont was well represented on both of the above occasions. President McKinley expressed himself as highly pleased with the presence of the Vermont troops in Washington and New York, and spoke most complimentary of their fine appearance.

June 22nd, 1897, Company B, First Regiment of Infantry, St. Albans, Captain Frank L. Greene commanding, participated under arms in the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, at Montreal, Canada. By their soldierly bearing and gentlemanly behavior the members of Company B upheld the honor of the Union and State on this occasion.

July 4th, 1898, a brigade of Canadian Volunteers residing at Ottawa, Ontario, visited Burlington. These troops numbered about 500 officers and men and were in command of Lieutenant-Colonel Sherwood. The troops consisted of the 43rd Battalion of Ottawa and Carleton Rifles, Major Bell commanding; the Princess Louise Dragoons, Captain Brown commanding The second field Battery, Major Hurdman commanding. And the Maxim Machine Gun detachment, Lieut. Bell commanding. Colonel The Honorable M. Aylmer, Adjutant General of Canada was also present.

The Mayor and citizens of Burlington did everything in their power to make the visit of our guests pleasant. An address of welcome was delivered by the Hon. D. J. Foster and entertainment offered by the Algonquin and Ethan Allen Clubs, as well as feeding of the men at Hotel Vendome and of the officers at the VanNess House.

If anything can draw the mother country and Americans together it is the interchange of courtesies of this kind. The Ottawa troops left for home at about 11 o'clock the same evening, carrying the national standard of the United States as a token of good will of the people of Burlington.

I should have said that during the parade the Stars and Stripes and Union Jack of Great Britian marched side by side in the column of the Canadian Volunteers, and the Adjutant General of Canada had command of the column while passing in review before the Mayor of Burlington at the close of the parade.

The reports of the commanding officers are hereto appended:

WAR WITH SPAIN.

In accordance with General Orders No. 5, dated April 19, 1898, in anticipation of the National Guard of this State being soon required for active duty in the war with the Kingdom of Spain, it was ordered that preparation therefor be at once instituted by enlistments to increase to the maximum of fifty-one officers and men each company of the First Regiment of Infantry, not already at that strength, and the First Light Battery to a personal aggregate of eighty. It was also ordered that volunteers to the number of fifty for each company and one hundred for the light battery be conditionally enrolled, the work to be performed under the direction of the Brigade Commander and commanding officer of the First Regiment of Infantry, captains of companies and of the First Light Battery. On the 23rd of April, 1898, the President of the United States by proclamation called for 125,000 volunteers, and on May 2, 1898, General Order No. 6 was issued, directing the mobilization of the First Regiment of Infantry, Vermont National Guard, and also civilian volunteers, temporarily enrolled at the State camp near Fort Ethan Allen, Vt.

In pursuance to the above Orders the mobilization of the troops was effected, and on May 16, 1898, the Regiment was mustered into the United States service as the First Regiment of Infantry, Vermont Volunteers, under command of Colonel Osman D. Clark, with 1,028 officers and men.

Although the quota from Vermont under this call was 627 men, you directed that a full regiment of 1,030 officers and men should be raised; by so doing the State was saved great expense, as a second call for 75,000 men was made shortly after, to which Vermont was not asked to contribute. It is proper to mention that applications from towns and individuals from all parts of the State were made for service to defend the flag and our country's honor, all of which are on file in this office. Especially gratifying were the tenders of service, in any capacity, by those who served in the war for the Union. The payment of $7 per month to the enlisted men from Vermont has created much attention in the different States of the Union and most favorable comment.

This patriotic act on the part of the State is as thoroughly appreciated by the soldiers of the War with Spain as it was by those who served in 1861-66.

I quote below an extract from General Orders, No. 8, dated May 10, 1898:

The following acts of the General Assembly of the State of Vermont, passed at the special session convened May 5, 1898, are published for the information and guidance of all concerned:

I. An Act to provide for the payment of officers and men who have volunteered, or may hereafter volunteer, from this State to serve in the Army of the United States in its war with the Kingdom of Spain.

II. An Act to authorize the Governor to fill any further quota of troops that may be required of this State in the war of the United States with the Kingdom of Spain.

III. An Act to provide for certain returns to be made to the Adjutant and Inspector General and State Treasurer.

IV. An Act to provide for the re-instatement of the First Regiment National Guard of Vermont.

Through General Orders No. 9, dated May 16, 1898, the temporary withdrawal of the First Regiment of Infantry from the National Guard organization of this State is announced, and the men recently belonging to the regiment who did not enter the service of the United States with it as volunteers are entitled to honorable discharge from said National Guard service. By General Orders No. 10, dated July 6, 1898, all members of the Vermont National Guard, who did not volunteer into the United States service, and all of those who were rejected by the surgeon on account of physical disability are honorably discharged.

The arrangement of the camp and the feeding of the men were in charge of General William H. Gilmore, Quartermaster General, until the date of muster into the United States service, after which the United States Government provided for the troops.

Major Stephen P. Jocelyn, 19th U. S. Infantry, on duty in this State, had charge of the muster-in of the troops and 1st Lieutenant Henry W. Hovey, 24th U. S. Infantry, was associated with him as Acting Commissary of Subsistence and Assistant Quartermaster.

On Saturday, May 21, 1898, by order of the War Department, the First Regiment of Infantry, Vermont Volunteers, left the State for Chickamauga Park, Ga., and I believe no finer body of men ever left our borders for the war, every man being present.

For a report of the regiment I respectfully refer you to report of Col. Osman D. Clark, the Commanding Officer, herewith attached.

Through the kindness of Dr. and Mrs. W. Seward Webb, Colonel O. D. Clark received a check for $500 to be expended for the sick and wounded Vermont soldiers in the regimental hospital, with the request that when this amount was exhausted the donors might be allowed to send another check for a similar amount, it being understood that they would continue this as long as the war lasted. By this most charitable act many Vermont soldiers have been favored with luxuries and delicacies, and spared much suffering, all of which will be most truly appreciated by our people.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

The First Regiment of Infantry having volunteered for the war, the National Guard organization of this State now consists of the First Light Battery. I would respectfully recommend that steps be taken to organize a regiment of eight companies (two battalions) of infantry, to be known as the Second Regiment of Infantry. As the four guns and equipments of the First Light Battery have been taken by the United States Government, I would suggest that said Battery be transferred to the infantry arm of the service, and made one of the companies of the Second Regiment.

I would also recommend that the money expended by the officers and men of the Vermont National Guard in the Washington and New York trips be repaid to them by the State.

I would further respectfully recommend that the State of Vermont pass a law placing flags upon all public school houses in the State, and beg to call your attention to the following Act of the State of New York, Chapter 222, Laws of 1895:

"An Act to provide for the purchase and display of United States flags in connection with the public schools of the State.

"SECTION 1. The school authorities of every public school in the several cities and school districts of this State shall purchase a United States flag, flagstaffs and the necessary appliances therefor, and shall display such flag upon or near the public school building during school hours, and at such times as the school authorities may direct. The necessary funds to defray the expense incurred by this act shall be assessed and collected in the same manner as moneys for public school purposes are now raised by law."

Captain Herbert E. Tutherly, 1st U. S. Cavalry, having been ordered by the War Department to his Regiment, was relieved from duty on the Staff of your Excellency by Major Stephen P. Jocelyn, 19th U. S. Infantry, September 1, 1897. Captain Tutherly was a most thorough and efficient officer, and did excellent service with the Vermont National Guard.

Major Jocelyn served upon your Staff from the above date until the muster of the troops into the United States service, when he was ordered by the War Department to report to His Excellency, Governor Black of New York, as chief mustering officer. Like his predecessor, Major Jocelyn has been a most painstaking and able officer and his instruction has been of the greatest benefit to the troops, and I can congratulate you most sincerely in having this courteous gentleman and thorough soldier upon your staff. I am under deep obligations to both Captain Tutherly and Major Jocelyn for assistance rendered.

First Lieut. Henry W. Hovey, 24th U. S. Infantry, First Lieut. Stephen M. Foote, 4th U. S. Artillery, and the officers of the 3rd U. S. Cavalry at Fort Ethan Allen have also rendered the Vermont troops every assistance in their power, all of which is most truly appreciated.

I desire to make special mention of the patriotic spirit shown by Private E. M. Deschenes of Company B, First Regiment of Infantry, St. Albans, who underwent an operation on his foot in order that he might join his company in the U. S. service; also that of Second Lieut. Harry W. Ferris of Company C, Brandon, who was rejected by the medical board on account of physical disability, which has since been removed.

The unfortunate wounding of First Lieut. Eugene J. Stratton, Company K, Bennington, which necessitated the amputation of his leg, and who is still in the Fanny Allen Hospital, is a sad reminiscence of "Camp Olympia."

It gives me great sorrow to announce the first death in the First Regiment since its entry into the U. S. service, that of Trumpeter W. C. Spafford, of Company K, which occurred at Camp George H. Thomas, Chickamauga Park, Ga., on June 1, 1898. This gallant young soldier was a graduate of Norwich University and Second Lieutenant of his company. Failing to pass the medical examination as an officer, he was taken as a trumpeter in Company K. A brave, patriotic young man, a representative Vermont soldier and a thorough gentleman has gone to his rest. I am also pained to report the deaths of the following Vermonters who answered their last roll-call at Chickamauga Park, Georgia: Private George Smith, Company D, West Concord; Private W. F. Marsette, Company C, Brandon; Private A. H. Leach, Company B, Fairfield, Private Clifford A. Place, Company B, St. Albans.

In closing this report I desire to congratulate your Excellency upon the prompt manner in which the recruitment, mobilization and sending to the war of the First Regiment was accomplished, and to thank you for the consideration shown me at all times in the performance of my duty. I also appreciate the many courtesies received from Brevet Major-General William H. Gilmore, Quartermaster-General, and the officers of your staff. To Mrs. James S. Peck and Mr. Truman C. Phinney, my assistants at the Montpelier office, many thanks are due for faithful and devoted attention to the perplexing details connected with the work. The officers and men of the Vermont National Guard have ever been steadfast and patriotic in the duties which require so much time, patience and energy, and which has been so well shown by their promptness in responding to their country's call.

Adjutant General.

STATE OF VERMONT.

QUARTERMASTER GENERAL'S OFFICE,
FAIRLEE, July 23, 1898.

To General T. S. Peck, Adjutant and Inspector General of Vermont:

SIR—I have the honor to submit to His Excellency, Josiah Grout, Governor, and Commander-in-Chief, the biennial report of this department.

The work during the year 1897 was changed somewhat from previous years. The regular June drill with each company for one-half day, and in September each company had one-half day at target practice, receiving pay for one day only.

In company with Capt. H. E. Tutherly, U. S. A., in June, we inspected the armory, uniforms, arms and equipments of each company, and found the military property, with few exceptions, in very good condition. Since that inspection five Companies and Battery have been provided with new U. S. regulation dark blue overcoats.

In September, in company with Major S. P. Jocelyn, U. S. A., we visited each Company and were present at their target practice. Good work was done at the range, results of which will be reported by the Inspector of Rifle Practice.

In February, 1898, I arranged for and secured of the War Department an exchange of rifles, so that when the First Vermont Regiment left the State for Chickamauga Park each company was armed with forty-six latest model Springfield rifles, caliber .45.

Improvements have been made as follows upon the permanent camp ground: The entire ground is enclosed by a board fence four feet high with three wires above making fence six and one-half feet high.

Store house, six double and one single kitchens have been erected and the ground improved with expense as follows:

Building store house, six double and one single kitchen, fencing the ground	$3,302 74
Fertilizer and grass seed	184 60
Total	$3,487 34

Received by subscriptiyn for improvements upon camp ground	$2,015 00
For hay cut upon the ground	35 00
Total	$2,050 00

The first of May the National Guard with recruits were ordered to mobilize upon the permanent camp ground near Fort Ethan Allen.

After being mustered into U. S. service and ordered to leave the State, by request of the Secretary of War, they were allowed to take their arms and equipments, fatigue uniforms, overcoats and wool blankets.

The State also, by request, turned over to the Regimental Quartermaster two hundred and eight wall tents complete.

For further report of mobilization Adjutant and Inspector General T. S. Peck will give it in detail. Also that of the Encampment and Officers' Schools.

It is impossible to make a report of expense of mobilization at this early date.

I desire to express my gratitude to you as Commander-in-Chief for your advice and kind encouragement in all matters pertaining to military affairs, and to acknowledge my obligation for many courtesies received from Adjt. and Gen. T. S. Peck, Gen. J. J. Estey, and all the officers connected with our National Guard, through whom a large share of the credit, if any, is due this department.

Very respectfully,

W. H. GILMORE,

Quartermaster General.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE,
VERMONT NATIONAL GUARD,
BRATTLEBORO, VT., Aug. 25, 1896.

Gen. T. S. Peck, Adjutant and Inspector-General, Burlington, Vt.

DEAR SIR:—I have the honor to report that in compliance with G. O. No. 15 from your office, dated June 27, 1896, the first Brigade V. N. G. went into camp at Burlington, Vt., from Monday, Aug. 17, to Saturday, Aug. 22, inclusive.

The grounds selected were what is known as "Oak Ledge," the property of Col. W. Seward Webb. They were very picturesque and beautifully located, but very poorly adapted for our purpose, as the Camp was obliged to be so badly scattered.

The Camp was named Camp Col. Webb, in honor of Col. Webb of the Governor's staff.

In compliance with G. O. No. 3 from these headquarters, dated July 6, camp was pitched by Co. M, First Regt. Infantry. The troops arrived very nearly on schedule time and all were in camp by two o'clock. As far as practicable the routine of duty laid down in G. O. No. 3 from these headquarters was complied with. The work done by each battalion of the 1st Regt. Infantry and the First Light Battery, showed constant improvement from the beginning and we really were in splendid shape to do good work when we had to leave camp and go home.

The First Battalion under command of Maj. O. D. Clark and a section of the Light Battery were detailed to take part in the dedication of the Gov. Chittenden monument at Williston on Wednesday, Aug. 19. I am very happy to say that they did credit to themselves and the State.

As will be seen by the report of Lt. Col. C. E. Nelson, I. R. P. for the Brigade, the competition for the Centennial trophy this year was by company instead of by team as heretofore. It resulted in its being won for the fifth time by Co. I.

The Brigade was inspected on Thursday morning by yourself, Capt. Tutherly, 1st Cav. U. S. A., detailed from the War Department, and Col. Lillis, Asst. Adjt. Gen. on my staff.

On Friday afternoon the command, including companies F and D, 21st Infantry, U. S. A., together with the squadron of the 3d Cavalry, U. S. A. from Fort Ethan Allen, were reviewed by His Excellency, Gov. Woodbury. After review we were entertained by an Exhibition Drill by the Companies of the 21st Infantry and the noted troop of 3d Cavalry under Capt. Dodd, which was very greatly enjoyed by the men and all who witnessed it.

The weather was delightful with the exception of Tuesday, when we had a very heavy hail and rain storm and, as the ground was so clayey, it retained the moisture the entire week which made it rather disagreeable for work.

Sickness in camp was very rare, policing was admirably done, and every man seemed intent on doing his duty.

We are under great obligations to the War Department for permitting the two companies, 21st Infantry, U. S. A., from Plattsburgh Barracks and Troop C, 3d Cav. U. S. A. from Fort Ethan Allen to camp with us, as they were an object lesson both in deportment and in work. We are also under great obligations to Capt. H. E. Tutherly, 1st Cav. U. S. A., Lt. Hovey, 24th Infantry, U. S. A, and the officers and men from the 21st Infantry, and Maj. Morris and the officers and men of the 3d Cav. U. S. A., for their untiring efforts in assisting in every way the officers and men of the Brigade.

I herewith transmit the reports of Col. G. H. Bond, First Regt. Infantry, Capt. F. D. Weld, 1st Battery Light Artillery, Lt. Col. Chas. E. Nelson, Inspector Rifle Practice First Brigade, Lt. Col. W. D. Huntington, Brigade Surgeon, and Lt. Col. James A. Lillis, Asst. Adjt. Gen. First Brigade.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

JULIUS J. ESTEY,

Brigadier General Commanding.

The percentage present for duty was 96.4 per cent of the entire command for the week.

RUTLAND, August 31, 1896.

Gen. Julius J. Estey, Brigade Commander.

Sir:—I have the honor to report that in compliance with your orders I made a thorough inspection of the Brigade, in connection with Adj. Ins. Gen. T. S. Peck and Asst. Ins. Gen. Capt. H. E. Tutherly, 1st Cavalry, U. S. A., detailed from the War Department, on Thursday, August 20th.

For a detail of the condition of the troops, I respectfully refer to Capt. Tutherly's report. In general, I will say we found the Brigade in very good shape, and I think it compares favorably with former years.

I am, Sir,

Very respectfully,

JAMES A. LILLIS,

Lt. Col. and Asst. Adj. Gen.,

First Brigade, V. N. G.

DERBY LINE, Aug. 29, 1896.

Gen. Julius J. Estey, Commanding 1st Brigade, Vermont National Guard, Brattleboro, Vt.

General :—I have the honor to submit the following report of the result of the rifle shooting contest for the Washington Centennial Trophy during the tour of duty of the Vermont National Guard, at Camp Colonel Webb, near Burlington, Vt., August 17th to 22d, inclusive.

In compliance with Special Orders No. 2, dated Headquarters 1st Brigade, Camp Colonel Webb, Burlington, Vermont, August 17, 1896, the 1st Battalion were ordered to report to me at the Fort Ethan Allen range on Tuesday afternoon, August 18, in the following order : Company I to leave camp at 12 o'clock noon, by special car from Howard Park to Fort Ethan Allen ; Company F following at 1 o'clock P M.; Company E at 2 o'clock P. M., and Company H at 3 o'clock P. M. On arrival at the range, Companies were divided into squads and assigned to targets. As soon as the scores of, five shots per man, at 200 yards, were completed, the Companies wereimmediately marched to the cars and returned to camp.

Wednesday morning, August 19th, the 2nd Battalion, Companies D, G, B and L, were ordered to report at the range, as follows: Company D to leave Howard Park at 7 A M.; Company G. at 8 A. M.; Company B at 9 A. M., and Company L at 10 A. M. Wednesday afternoon, the 3d Battalion were ordered to report at the range in the following order: Company C to leave Howard Park at 12 o'clock noon ; Company A at 1 P. M.; Company M at 2 P. M., and Company K at 3 P. M. The Companies of the 2nd and 3d Battalions returned to camp in the same manner as the Companies of the 1st Battalion, as soon as their scores were completed.

There was very little delay in the firing after the Companies reached the range ; some of them completing their scores and leaving the range within thirty five minutes.

I herewith enclose the result of the firing compiled by Capt. G. O. Webster, A. D. C., and you will notice a gratifying increase in the percentages over last year.

Lieut. Francis J. Kernan, 21st Infantry, U. S. A., was at the range during the firing of all the Companies, he being detailed to mark the different organizations on their military bearing while coming to and going from the range, and conduct while at the firing point, and his presence was in no small degree conducive to the soldierly bearing of the men.

Capt. G. O. Webster, A. D. C., acted as statistical officer in his usual efficient manner. Capt. T. A. Davis, A. D. C., assisted at the butts, and Capt. B. C. Senton, Surgeon 1st Regiment, was detailed as Medical Officer.

I am very much gratified with the result of the firing, and believe the system adopted, of having every man, as far as possible, in all the Companies, fire a score of at least five shots at the 200-yard range during the encampment, a decided success.

I am under obligations, and desire to thank Maj. L. T. Morris, Commanding Fort Ethan Allen, for the use of the range, and Lieut. J. W. Heard, 3d Cavalry, U. S. A., acting Quartermaster at Fort Ethan Allen, for many courtesies extended to me during the competition. I also desire to thank Brev. Lieut.-Col. E. W. Stone, Captain 21st Infantry, U. S. A., for the detail of six non-commissioned officers of his command, who acted as scorers during the tour of duty at the range.

I have the honor to be, General,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

CHARLES E. NELSON,

Lieut.-Col. and I. R. P., 1st Brigade, V. N. G.

BRATTLEBORO, VT., Aug. 25, 1896.

Gen. Julius J. Estey, Commanding 1st Brigade, V. N. G.

Sir:—I have the honor to report that, in compliance with General Orders No. 15, A. G. O., dated June 27, 1896, and General Orders No. 3 from your headquarters, dated July 6, 1896, my regiment went into camp at Burlington, from Monday, August 17, to Saturday, August 22, inclusive.

Camp was pitched in compliance with your orders by Company M. and, notwithstanding the very heavy wind on Sunday, the 16th, which blew down a large part of the camp, it was ready for the troops on the r arrival, which was practically on schedule time, as given by the Quartermaster General.

Guard Mounting and Evening Parade were the only duties performed on Monday afternoon. Tuesday morning was devoted to the regular drills, as prescribed in the routine of duty. Tuesday afternoon the First Battalion was sent to the range at Fort Ethan Allen, notwithstanding a very severe hail storm and rain, which delayed the departure slightly. Wednesday morning the First Battalion were detailed to take part in the dedication of the Gov. Chittenden monument. The Second Battalion was sent to the range in the morning and the Third Battalion in the afternoon. Thursday the regular routine of duty was followed, with the exception of a part of the morning hour, which was devoted to the inspection by Adjt. Inspector-General, Capt. Tutherly, of the 1st U. S. Cavalry, and Col. Lillis of your staff. Friday morning the Regiment took part in illustrating battle movements in connection with the Battery, the Battalion of the 21st U. S. Infantry and the troops of the Third U. S. Cavalry. Friday afternoon, at the hour for Battalion Drill, the Regiment, with balance of Brigade, were reviewed by His Excellency, Gov. Woodbury, Commander-in-chief.

The competition for the honor of being the banner company resulted in the banner being awarded to Company M, with Company D second and Company I third.

The several companies left camp Saturday morning, and report safe arrival home.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to Capt. H. E. Tutherly, 1st Cavalry, U. S A.; Lieut. Hovey, 24th Infantry, U. S. A., and the other officers from the 21st Infantry and 3rd Cavalry, who were untiring in their efforts for the interest of the Guardsmen. I think, in many respects, the duty was performed much better than ever before.

I feel that we are also under obligations to the War Department for having permitted the Battalion from the 21st Infantry and the troop from the U. S. Cavalry to encamp with us.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

GEO. H. BOND,

Col. Com'g. 1st Regt. Infantry, V. N. G.

BRATTLEBORO, VT., Sept. 1, 1896.

Gen. J. J. Estey, Commanding 1st Brigade, V. N. G.

SIR :—I have the honor to report that, in compliance with General Orders No. 15, A. G. O., and General Orders No. 3 Brigade Headquarters, this Battery went into camp at Burlington, August 17th to 22nd, leaving Brattleboro at 7.40 A. M., by special train, horses in Burton horse cars attached, arriving at Howard Park at 12.45 P. M. The cannon having been sent ahead were at the station and were immediately unloaded with the horses, the battery hitched up, and arrived in camp about one hour later. A small detail having been sent ahead, a good dinner awaited us, and the camp was nearly made. This would have been entirely done, but for a gale the night before, which laid many of the tents flat, and the large horse tents had to be lowered to the ground to prevent their being ruined.

Camp Colonel Webb, as it was called, was situated on the shores of Lake Champlain, south of the city of Burlington, the land being owned by Col. Webb. The ground not being entirely level, the camp was not laid out according to regulations, but in such a manner as to bring the battery in close connection with the Regulars, both Infantry and Cavalry, which I soon observed to be of great advantage to us, as we could closely observe their manner and custom of regular camp life, and the men mingling together as they did when off duty, was as good as a school for the Battery boys. Two companies of U. S. Infantry were on our right, one troop of U. S. Cavalry on our left, and Brigade Headquarters and 1st Vermont Regiment upon a rise of ground in our front.

Upon the arrival of the Governor, we fired a salute of seventeen guns.

Tuesday, our drill was somewhat broken by rain and a severe hail storm.

Wednesday, by orders from Brigade Headquarters, I ordered the Fourth section, under command of Lieut. Waterman, to report to Chief Marshal Gen. Greenleaf at Williston, to assist in the unveiling of the Gov. Chittenden monument. Lieut. Waterman left camp with this section at 8 A. M., with forage and rations, reported to Gen. Greenleaf at 11 A. M., formed in the procession at 12.30 P. M., fired a salute of seventeen guns, and, returning, reached camp at 6 o'clock, making a march of about twenty-four miles. The remainder of the battery were drilled in camp.

Thursday, we were inspected by Gen. T. S. Peck, A. I. G., and Capt. H. E. Tutherly, of the 1st U. S. Cavalry, A. I. G.

Friday forenoon, the Battery, in connection with the Regulars and the Regiment, participated in representing an attack upon an imaginary enemy, and about 11 o'clock placed the guns in position for target practice. The day before arrangements had been made, and a target 12x18 feet placed upon Rock Dunder (a rock rising up out of the lake about twenty-five feet), for this purpose about one and three-quarters miles away. The morning was calm, but just as we had gotten into position, the wind arose and blew the target into the lake. This caused delay, and as it was difficult to communicate with the signal station which had been placed upon Juniper Island, about one mile to the right of the target, no attempt was made to replace it on account of the high wind, and we commenced firing at Rock Dunder. The first shot struck the water about three rods in front of the rock, and in a direct line. Only eight shots were fired, all striking close in, although not so good a target was made as at Fairlee one year ago, but I called it good considering the high wind we had to contend with. In the afternoon we were reviewed, and passed in review before the Governor and Staff, and drilled in cannonading, firing by piece, platoon and battery.

Saturday we broke camp about 9 A. M., marched to the station and loaded the cannon and horses upon the cars, but had to wait some time before our train left, which was not until nearly noon, and we arrived home at 5.45 P. M.

No accidents occurred with us during muster, nor was there any sickness of any account, although just before going to camp two of my sergeants, and one or two of my men, were detained from going on this account.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

FRED. D. WELD,

Capt. Commanding 1st Light Battery, V. N. G.

BURLINGTON, VT., Nov. 7, 1896.

To Gen. Theodore S. Peck, Adjutant General of Vermont.

Sir:—In compliance with paragraph 6, general orders, from your office, of June 27th, 1896, I have the honor to submit a report concerning the encampment of the Vermont National Guard, at Burlington, Vermont, August 17th to August 22nd, 1896.

ATTENDANCE.

His Excellency, Gov. Woodbury, and his staff, encamped with the troops. Brig. Gen. Julius J. Estey and staff, Col. Bond's regiment of infantry, comprising three battalions of four companies each, and Capt. Weld's battery of light artillery, constituted the National Guard force present. The percentage present for duty for the week was 96.4 of the maximum strength of the command, which speaks of itself the military spirit and interest in the service. The largest attendance was on Governor's Day, August 21st, when the report shows the "aggregate present" 711, and the "aggregate present and absent" 734.

REGULAR TROOPS.

Maj. Lewis T. Morris, 3rd U. S. Cavalry, with troop "C," 3rd Cavalry (Lieut. Dade commanding), Co. F. (Stone's), and Co. D (Eltonhead's) of the 21st U. S. Infantry were in camp throughout the week, and Troop F (Dodd's), G (Hardie's) and E (Ripley's) of the 3rd U. S. Cavalry, joined in the exercises of Governor's Day and those attending the dedication of Chittenden monument at Williston. Lieut. Henry W. Hovey, 24th U. S. Infantry, also served on the staff of the Governor, by invitation.

This is the third year in succession that a contingent of regular troops has, by War Department orders, joined the state encampment, and the consensus of all reports confirms my own convictions that such an assimilation of military organizations is far-reaching in its benefits. The words of the Brigade Commander, Gen. Estey, in his report, are expressive of my own views upon this feature of the encampment: "We are under great obligations to the War Department for permitting the two companies of the 21st Infantry, U. S. A., from Plattsburgh, and Troop C, 3rd Cavalry, U. S. A., from Fort Ethan Allen, to encamp with us, as they were object lessons both in deportment and work—and we are under great obligations to the officers and men for their untiring efforts in assisting the officers and men of the brigade."

CAMP GROUND.

Awaiting the preparations of the permanent camp ground, recently purchased by the state, the private grounds of Col. W. Seward Webb of the Governor's staff, known as Oak Ledge on Lake Champlain, just south of Burlington, were offered to the troops free of charge, and served as a most picturesque camping place.

Digitized by Google

The irregular, uneven surface necessitated an irregular plan of camp, and offered some obstacles to movements, but the excellent discipline that the companies have attained enabled them to overcome this objection, and the troops accommodated themselves to the situation and worked out a very successful encampment.

The infantry target range was six miles away, and companies were in turn transported there by electric cars for rifle practice. This occupied four hours for each company. Another year the permanent camp ground adjoining Fort Ethan Allen can be in readiness so that drilling and target firing can go on simultaneously under the eye of the camp commander.

It appears that since the purchase of this permanent camp ground a sentiment has grown up against it, the cause for which I do not fully comprehend; but, it is my opinion, that after the troops once encamp there the advantages of the location will become so obvious that this adverse sentiment will be dispelled. In view of the great effort that the prominent officials of the State and War Department have made to bring the two services together, it seems to me that it will be a mistake to abandon this site adjoining the U. S. reservation, purchased by authority of the last legislature, and since grubbed and graded at quite an expense.

The opportunity to use the target range, without expense to the state, is, in my judgment, a sufficient advantage in itself to justify the location of the permanent camp ground beside it; but there are other potent reasons for centering military exercises here. The daily routine duties at the U. S. garrison will serve as object lessons for the establishment of an administrative service in the National Guard camp, such as no theoretical methods of instruction can accomplish, and over the extensive tract of ground, owned by the government and the state, the National Guard can hold a series of manoeuvres in conjunction with regular troops already on the ground, and those which can be inexpensively assembled from Plattsburgh, which will broaden the scope of instruction and attract to the service an intelligent military element. The companies have now attained such a degree of proficiency in the school of the soldier and company at their armories that, when together for the encampment, their time should be occupied in larger movements pertaining to the practical operations of warfare, including battle tactics, advance guard, outpost and reconnaissance duty; and there is no other place in the state, coming within my knowledge and observation during numerous inspection tours, which so well fills such a purpose as the vicinity of Fort Ethan Allen.

GUARD DUTY.

Judging from personal nightly inspections of the Guard during the encampment this year, I am of the opinion that the camp commander may, another year, enforce any regulations concerning "passes" that he may choose to adopt. I could relate many instances of as efficient sentinel service as at our regular garrisons, and it is due to the credit of company commanders to say that in many of these instances the individual sentinels were performing their first tour of guard duty.

TROPHY FLAG.

I fully agree with Col. Bond that the trophy flag has had much to do with stimulating proficiency in discipline and soldierly attainments within his regiment. I have seen, upon my several visits to companies during the year, that nearly all of them were preparing to meet the competition, for the flag at the August muster. "M" company won it this year, as did "E" company last year through hard effort, and, in my opinion, the competition raised the standard of every company in the regiment, It would not be well to announce the poorest company, or to bring to public notice the comparative merits of all the companies, because they have been working under unequal conditions, but I am of the opinion that, as the companies now stand, any one of them may, another year, attain the proficiency of the banner company this year, which won the flag by a higher figure of merit than was attained last year.

TROPHY CUP.

Company "I" still holds the lead in rifle firing. It was a higher honor to win the cup this year than ever before. Under the new system of competition, requiring every officer and man to fire, the aggregate percentage of the regiment was raised ten per cent. over that of last year. Those familiar with rifle practice will realize that this is a large percentage of gain. If, at the next officers' school, it might be decided to include 300 and 500 yard firing in this competition, the trophy would accomplish still greater results. Upon the Fort Ethan Allen range, each company could fire at the three ranges, 200 yards, 300 yards and 500 yards, within two hours' time, so that the drills would not be very much interfered with by the target practice. It is due to Col. Nelson, the brigade inspector of rifle practice, to say that his conduct of rifle practice has marked his proficiency as an officer in a very high degree.

CLOTHING.

The clothing is generally in good condition. Some of the companies, however, need new overcoats and forage caps. The lack of uniformity in these articles mars the appearance of the regiment. Company commanders should make such requisitions that each man will have a good overcoat and one of the new pattern forage caps, with the brass ornaments, and each officer should have an "officer's overcoat."

ARMS AND EQUIPMENTS.

The infantry breechloading Springfield rifles were in serviceable condition; but many of them were not kept clean in camp. The custom of having a company armorer clean the guns at home precludes the necessary knowledge among the men for the proper care of their guns in camp. It has been a noticeable fact at my several inspections that in the company habitually having the cleanest guns, each man has been required to clean his own gun. I would advise this course in every company, as it is an important part of the soldier's education. Immediately after firing or using the gun, the man himself should clean it, and never be allowed to put it away dirty. Guns will then always be in condition. Cosmoline or sewing-machine oil should be used, and a small quantity applied at the proper time will keep the gun free from rust, without gumming the piece or soiling gloves. The cartridge belts are new and in good condition. In some instances, officers wear them, while they are not a part of an officer's equipment. Each man should have a canteen and haversack, and the haversack should contain a meat-ration can, knife, fork and spoon. Each man should also have a tin cup to keep with his other equipments, and the half of a shelter-tent, so that the company may be in readiness to take the field at short notice, and there should be occasional company drills through the year, "in heavy marching order"; the company moving out for a short distance from the armory, making camp and cooking coffee, just as for actual service. This would interest the men and prepare them for field movements. The artillery pieces, equipments and harnesses were in good condition. Several shots were fired from each piece at a target about a mile and three-quarters out in the lake, with very good results.

The cannoneers should have pistols and holsters. At least, there should be a sufficient number in the battery for pistol practice; pistols being the regulation small arms for cannoneers, while non-commissioned officers should have both sabres and pistols.

DRILLS.

Most of the companies came to the encampment proficient in company drill, and one of the battalions (Maj. Clark's), through having had a meeting of three of the companies with the Norwich Cadets on June drill day, well understood battalion movements upon arriving in camp. It would be well if other companies might come together in some way for June muster. Col. Bond's visits to the companies in June have shown good results, and I would advise that the majors meet their companies on June drill day, as far as practicable.

The State of Vermont is to be congratulated upon its small but proficient National Guard. The officers are intelligent and studious, and the enlisted personnel is soldierly and reliable. It has been gratifying to me to be so loyally sustained in every scheme of instruction that I have proposed, and the splendid discipline and accomplishments of the troops at the last encampment were highly pleasing to me. I wish to express my hearty appreciation of the courtesy and consideration shown me by the Governor of the State, by yourself and by all officers and men within the service; and to extend my thanks for the hearty co-operation of Maj. Morris, and the officers and men under his command in camp, coming from Fort Ethan Allen and Plattsburgh Barracks, and especially to Lieut. Hovey, who has rendered most valuable personal assistance to me in the discharge of my duties on this and many occasions during the year.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST INFANTRY,
VERMONT NATIONAL GUARD,
BRATTLEBORO, VT., March 10, 1897.

To His Excellency Josiah Grout,

Governor and Commander-in-Chief, V. N. G.:

In compliance with General Orders No. 6, Adjt. General's Office, Burlington, Vt., February, 23d, 1897, the troops that were to take part in the Inauguration Ceremony at Washington, March 4th, 1897, assembled at Rutland, Tuesday evening, March 2d. Through the kindness and generosity of Col. W. Seward Webb, Wagner palace cars were furnished for the round trip, also for their occupancy while in Washington. The command, consisting of Co.'s K, M, A, and I, with Col. Bond and Staff, left Rutland about 1 o'clock via Troy and over the West Shore and Penn. R. R., due in Washington at 8 P. M., but owing to some delays arrived in Washington at 7:30. We were met at the station by Maj. E. R. Campbell and Staff of the 4th Battalion, District Columbia National Guard, who extended the kind offices of his command.

Owing to the lateness of the hour of arrival but few of the command attended the reception tendered by Senator and Mrs. Proctor; those who did received every possible courtesy at the hands of the hosts.

Thursday morning was spent by members of the Guard in visiting nearby places of interest. At 12 M. the Vermont Battalion were in readiness for their position in column, right resting on 2d and East Capitol streets.

FORMATION.

Governor Grout and Staff, 21st Infantry Band, Col. Bond and Staff, Co.'s K, M, A and I forming the Vermont Battalion, preceding the Ohio Troops.

The march was through First street, B street, Pennsylvania avenue, reviewed by the President at the executive mansion, thence to Washington Circle, through K street to 15th street, where they were reviewed by the Grand Marshal, Gen. Horace Porter; following they were reviewed by Governor Grout and Staff at the Arlington. We then proceeded to our place of rendezvous, corner of 12th street and Maryland avenue.

The march was accompanied by one continuous ovation, and every Vermonter must have felt proud of his native State, for the honors and courtesies shown them on this occasion. The following day was spent in visiting the many places of interest. Col. Webb, who provided the special train of seven sleepers and two baggage cars, showed the men every possible attention during the trip.

The return was made without accident or incident. Leaving Washington at midnight we arrived in Rutland at 7:30 Saturday evening, all well pleased with the journey. I am informed that credit is largely due to Gen. T. S. Peck for bringing about this pleasing and most interesting event, as he was an early and earnest advocate for the Vermont Troops to take part in the Inauguration of Major William McKinley, President of the United States.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

GEO. H. BOND.

COMPANY B, FIRST REGIMENT,
VERMONT NATIONAL GUARD,
ST. ALBANS, VT., June 25, 1897.

Maj. Gen. Theodore S. Peck, Adjutant and Inspector General:

SIR:—I have the honor to report that my command, by special invitation, participated in the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria in Montreal on Wednesday, June 22nd, under arms and bearing colors.

We were generously entertained by the city and people of Montreal and by the Canadian militia, and our flag was everywhere greeted by gratifying manifestations of respect and regard.

The commander of the company was given a post of honor at the grand military lunch in the Windsor Hotel and privileged to respond to the toast of His Excellency, the President of the United States.

The command returned to its quarters in St. Albans the evening of the 22nd, without casualty or any occurence to mar the pleasure of the occasion.

Very respectfully,

FRANK L. GREENE,

Captain Company B.

SECTION OF ARTILLERY,
CAMP GOVERNOR GROUT,
NORTHFIELD, VT., June 19, 1897.

Adjutant General State of Vermont, Burlington, Vermont:

SIR:—I have the honor to report upon the camp of the Section of Artillery (Norwich Cadets) held in compliance with S. O. 23, A. G. O. Vermont, June 4, '97.

The camp was established June 14th, the Cadets putting up their own tents under my direction, and the methods of erecting tents in various ways and under various conditions were explained to them, also the need of sinks and the disposition of garbage in camps while on the march.

Guard was mounted, and the camp, named after the honored executive of this state, was established under rules and conditions as nearly approaching those of the regular service as possible.

Tuesday the 15th artillery drill and small arms practice were held in the morning, and in the afternoon company drill in close and extended order, bayonet drill, guard mounting and parade were had.

Wednesday the 16th a battalion drill was had, followed by target practice in the morning, and in the afternoon company drill close and extended order, bayonet drill, target practice and guard mounting finished the day.

Thursday the 17th artillery drill and small arms practice occupied the morning, company drill, close and extended order, bayonet drill, guard mounting and parade filled the afternoon.

Friday the 18th battalion drill followed by target practice filled the morning, and in the afternoon review, inspection and muster, followed by a company drill, guard mounting and parade, were considered sufficient.

Saturday the 19th artillery drill was had and later in the day camp was struck in proper form.

Guard was maintained only a part of the time, because there were not enough men to allow of a continuous tour without undue fatigue, but while sentinels were on post, which was at night, the proper performance of duty was insisted upon, and was, I believe, carefully carried out in every particular.

The tents were daily inspected by me and my personal attention was given to every detail necessary to a successful tour of duty. I remained in camp during the entire time, leaving it only for two meals daily, and to supervise target practice on the range, distant about one-half mile.

To the best of my belief nothing was left undone by officers or men to make the camp as near as possible what I would have had it in the service under similar conditions. The conduct of the cadets was beyond criticism, and no unpleasant incident occurred to mar an excellent and pleasant tour of duty.

Very respectfully,

HENRY W. HOVEY,

1st Lieut. 24th Infantry,

Professor of Military Science and Tactics.

NORWICH UNIVERSITY,
NORTHFIELD, VT., July 1, 1897.

The Adjutant General, State of Vermont, Burlington, Vermont:

SIR:—I have the honor to report as follows on the year's work of the military department of this institution:

Infantry drills, school of soldiers, squad, etc.	74
Infantry drill, company, close and extended order	53
Infantry drill, battalion	12
Reviews and inspections	5
Street parades	1
Battalion parades	5
Artillery drills	12
Inspections, battalion 3, company 26, in quarters 7	36
Guard mounting during camp and at other times	9
Pointing and aiming drills	10

During the year lectures were delivered on drill regulations, guard duty, advance and rear guards, out post duty, fire discipline, camps and camping, administration, customs of service, duties of officers, and many others of which no note has been made.

The senior, junior and sophomore classes have recited in drill regulations, and the seniors on other subjects during fall and winter terms, and at these recitations much explanation was given upon the lessons of the day.

Target practice has received much attention, all but three of the cadets have attended and an average of 85 rounds per man has been fired at 200 yards.

The need of a drill hall in which during the winter months the necessary military work could go on, is urgent, and in these days when so much is expected of an officer, who must know about gymnastics as well as guns, it is most unfortunate that no way is seen of providing suitable accommodations, wherein these cadets may be educated to a military standard which will be expected of the officers of a state, whose record during the last war was such as to demand of her troops in the next, should it unfortunately occur, an equal efficiency under the new conditions.

The officers and members of the corps have manifested a creditable interest in their work during the year, and have done as much, and indeed, more, than could be expected of them under adverse conditions and continued unfavorable weather.

The three cadets of the senior class who have in my opinion shown the greatest proficiency in the military department are Winfred B. Carr, Georgia Plains, Vermont.

Charles E. Walker, Deering Center, Maine.
Henry V. Dunham, Northfield, Vermont.

The losses since last report have been heavy for various causes, and this has of course made the work harder in every way, since a small corps cannot be taught many things as well as a larger body.

The corps was inspected June 3 and 4, 1897, by Col. R. P. Hughes, Inspector General U. S. army, a copy of whose report is enclosed, and was inspected by Capt. H. E. Tutherly, Asst. Ins. Gen. State Vermont, June 7, 1897, whose report will probably be made to you at his convenience.

The election of a president, Commander Allan D. Brown, U.S. Navy (retired) who assumed his duties in December, 1896, has already given an impulse forward to this splendid institution, which has during years of adversity continued to turn out men whose military education cannot fail to make them valuable citizens in peace, and is certain to make them soldiers worthy of Vermont in the event of war. No other state in the Union can be congratulated as can the state of Vermont upon having within it a military institution, second only to the U. S. Military Academy, and every dollar spent upon it will some day be returned a hundred fold.

It is due the civil and military authorities of the State to say, that every facility for advancing the interests of this University in its military capacity has been afforded during the year, and to you in particular is it much indebted for continued encouragement and help.

I am, sir,

Very respectfully,

HENRY W. HOVEY,

BELLOWS FALLS, VT., June 4, 1897.

The Inspector General, U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.

SIR:—I respectfully submit the following report of the annual inspection of the military department of Norwich University which is located at Northfield, Vermont. The department is in charge of Lieut. H. W. Hovey, 24th U. S. Infantry, who is very thoroughly interested in his work and in the institution to which he is attached. He is very ably supported by Commander Brown, U. S. Navy, retired, who has accepted and assumed the duties of president of the University since my inspection here in 1895.

An inspector finds himself out of place here except in so far as his commendation may be found of some use. Parents having undisciplined sons, who are in search of some institution where self-control and self-discipline (all-important factors in future success) are made prominent features and receive special attention in the education, might do well to visit Norwich University.

The system of discipline as inaugurated by Captain Partridge in 1834 is still in force here and is only modified to suit the higher condition of cultivation of the students. The discipline is still as strong, and the cadet is under a strict military regime every day and every hour that he spends at the University. He is marched to his meals, to prayers, to class room and to church. He is taught to be neat in his person, regular in habits and methodical in work.

The number of students at present is 41. They seem to be conscious of the fact that it is necessary that they should do their work well in the military department in order to hold their place against institutions having a larger body of students, and they certainly are succeeding in doing so. The state of Vermont has experienced the benefit of this institution in the past, and it would be appreciated again should the occasion arise for utilizing it.

The United States arms in the possession of the University are in excellent condition. The leather waist-belts are much worn through a service of years, and in my opinion they ought to be replaced. The wear is entirely "fair wear and tear in service" and as the military professor is desirous of procuring thimble belts, I would recommend that authority be granted the institution to turn in the present equipments and that they be replaced by the thimble belts.

Respectfully submitted,

True Copy: (Signed.) R. P. HUGHES,

1st Lieut. 24th Infantry.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE,
VERMONT NATIONAL GUARD,
BRATTLEBORO, VT., Aug. 31, 1897.

T. S. Peck, Adjutant and Inspector General, Burlington, Vt.

SIR:—I have the honor to report that in compliance with General Orders No. 10 from your office, dated May 12, 1897, this Brigade went into camp near Chester, Vt., from Monday, August 9th, to Saturday, August 14th, inclusive.

The 1st Light Battery, which came overland from Brattleboro, arrived in camp about nine o'clock. The companies of the 1st Infantry arrived about on schedule time. The ground was very pleasantly located about a mile and a half south of Chester depot on a rather uneven meadow, but which answered the purpose fairly well for our use. The camp was named "Camp Governor Grout," in honor of his Excellency, our Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

In compliance with General Orders No. 4 from these headquarters, dated July 1, 1897, camp was prepared by Company I, 1st. Regiment Infantry, and all tents were pitched except those for the companies, which were pitched upon the arrival of each battalion, in conformity to the new regulations. As far as possible the routine of duty laid down in General Orders No. 4 from these headquarters was conformed to.

On Tuesday the 1st Battalion under Major Clark was detailed for outpost duty, and left camp in the morning, remaining out until quite late in the afternoon. They took rations and cooked and served their own lunch. Wednesday it rained nearly all day, thus preventing the 2nd Battalion from going out on the same duty, as was planned. On Thursday the 2nd and 3rd Battalions took each a half day for this duty. The officers in command reported that the work was well done, and very much enjoyed by both officers and men.

On Thursday the troops were inspected by yourself, Capt. Tutherly and my Assistant Adjutant General, Col. Lillis.

On Friday the morning was devoted to drill and to practice review. In the afternoon we had the honor of being reviewed by the President and Commander-in-chief, Hon. William McKinley, also Vce President Garrett S. Hobart, Secretary of War Gen. Russell A. Alger, as well as by His Excellency the Governor. This, of course, was the crowning event of the encampment, and conspired to make the day one long to be remembered by the National Guard of Vermont.

Camp was broken on Saturday morning according to regulations. Company I being left to pack and ship the camp equipage.

With the exception of Wednesday the weather was delightful throughout, and I am very sure that all feel that it was the pleasantest and one of the most profitable encampments ever held. The conduct of the men was most excellent. The health, I think, was equal to that of any of our encampments. Only fourteen were reported as excused from duty on account of illness during the entire time in camp, an average of only 2.8 per cent. The sanitary inspection showed a slight improvement over last year, the average for the entire encampment being 99.65 per cent. The attendance at camp was not quite equal to that of last year, there being only 94 per cent of the entire strength of the Brigade.

We are under great obligations to the War Department for having permitted the two Companies of the 21st Inft., U. S. A., from Plattsburg Barracks, and the three troops of U. S. Cavalry from Fort Ethan Allen to encamp with us. They both rendered efficient service in acting as escort to our distinguished guests, the President of the United States and party, and in exemplifying drill regulations.

We are also under great obligations to Capt. H. E. Tutherly, 1st Cavalry, U. S. A., our very efficient Assistant Inspector General, who has been so untiring in his efforts for the advancement of our troops during his detail, and I am sure I voice the sentiment of all the officers and men when I say that in parting with him on account of the expiration of his detail, we all feel a profound sorrow. We consider him to be a highly efficient officer and perfect gentleman, and hope to hear of his preferment in the future.

We are also under obligations to Lieut. S. M. Foote, 4th Artillery, U. S. A., for his kind assistance during the encampment, as well as to Col. and Brevet Brig. General Guy V. Henry, commanding the 3rd Cavalry, U. S. A., and the officers and men of the three troops and two companies of the 21st Infantry.

I am, sir,

Your obedient servant,

JULIUS J. ESTEY,

Brig. General Commanding.

MUSKOGEE, INDIAN TERRITORY,

To the Adjutant General of Vermont:

SIR:—The following extracts from my report upon the National Guard of Vermont for 1897 are respectfully furnished as you have requested. The report was made under headings as directed by the War Department, and so voluminous that I have omitted many of the headings in this extract, as they contain details which it seems quite unnecessary to repeat to State officials already familiar with them.

2. Strength.—(a) Authorized. (b) Organized.

The organized strength is the maximum strength authorized by law as follows: Governor's staff, 14; general staff, 5; non-commissioned staff, 14; brigadier general of the line, 1; brigade staff, 8; brigade non-commissioned staff, 5; 1 battery of light artillery, 8 officers and 72 enlisted men; 1 regiment of infantry (3 battalions of 4 companies each), 51 officers and 587 enlisted men; section of light artillery (Norwich Cadets), 3 officers and 48 enlisted men; total 816—90 officers and 726 enlisted men. Ninety-four per cent. of the organized strength attended camp in 1897. (The Norwich Cadets encamped by themselves at Northfield in June.) There are 44,164 men, according to the census of 1890, liable to military duty within the State.

3. Number, Organization and Stations of Brigades, Regiments, Battalions and Separate Companies.

The National Guard is organized and stationed as follows: First Brigade (headquarters at Brattleboro); First Regiment of Infantry (headquarters at Brattleboro).—Field and staff, 1 colonel, 1 lieutenant-colonel, 3 majors, 1 adjutant (captain), 1 quartermaster (captain), 1 surgeon (major), 1 assistant surgeon (captain), 1 assistant surgeon (first lieutenant), 1 inspector of rifle practice (captain), 1 chaplain, and 3 battalion adjutants (second lieutenants); non-commissioned staff, 1 sergeant major, 1 quartermaster sergeant, 1 hospital steward, 1 drum major, 1 chief trumpeter, 2 color sergeants and 3 battalion sergeant majors, one orderly to the colonel; Company A stationed at Rutland, B at St. Albans, C at Brandon, D at St. Johnsbury, E at Barre, F at Northfield, G at Bradford, H at Montpelier, I at Brattleboro, K at Bennington, L at Newport, and M at Burlington; each company has a maximum strength of 3 officers and 48 enlisted men. First Light Battery—8 officers and 72 enlisted men, stationed at Brattleboro Section of light artillery (Norwich Cadets)—3 officers and 48 enlisted men, stationed at Northfield.

4. General Officers—Number and Manner of Appointment.

The State has 1 brigadier general of the line who is elected by the legislaure biennially and commands the First Brigade.

5. Brigade, Regimental and Battalion Field and Staff—Number and Manner of Appointment.

The brigade commander appoints his staff subject to the approval of the Governor, viz: 1 assistant adjutant general (lieutenant-colonel), 1 assistant quartermaster general (lieutenant-colonel) 1 brigade surgeon (lieutenant-colonel), 1 provost marshal (major), 1 engineer officer (major), 1 inspector of rifle practice (major), and 2 aids-de-camp (captains). The regimental field officers are elected by the company officers. Assignments of majors and companies to battalions are made by the brigade commander. The regimental staff (number given under heading 3) are nominated by the regimental commander subject to the approval of the Governor. The battalion adjutants are nominated by the battalion commanders subject to the approval of the Governor. All field and staff officers, except chaplains, are examined by a board of officers appointed by the Governor previous to receiving commissions.

6. Company Officers—How Selected or Appointed. Examination of.

Captains and lieutenants of companies are elected by the members of the company in which they are to serve. They are examined by a board of officers appointed by the governor before receiving commissions.

8. Ambulance Corps and Hospital Corps—Organization, Equipment and Efficiency.

The State has no ambulance corps. A hospital corps has been organized the present year (1897) consisting of 2 hospital stewards, 2 acting hospital stewards and 6 privates. The equipment consists of 3 hospital tents, 8 cots, 12 blankets, 1 set of litters (old style), 1 operating case (containing as far as possible what is required by the U.S. regulations), 1 supply chest, 1 oil stove, 1 lantern, 1 lamp, 1 orderly pouch, and 1 hospital corps pouch. The hospital service in camp was efficient. There was but little sickness, owing largely to the systematic supervision of camp police and camp cooking by the medical officers. The State owns no ambulance, but one was borrowed from the U. S. Government for use on practice marches at the encampment.

9. Signal Corps—Organization, Equipment and Efficiency.

The State has no signal corps. I think there might be a signal service, organized under the direction and supervision of the engineer officer on the staff of the brigade commander, without any extra enlistments or material expense to the State, by procuring 1 signal kit, 1 heliograph outfit, and 1 field telegraph outfit for use during the annual encampment. There are telegraph operators in every company, and one of these might be made the instructor in signaling for his company, and bring to camp a few men sufficiently instructed by the use of "wands" and improvised telegraph appliances at the armories, so that the engineer officer could conduct flag and heliograph drill in camp and connect the several headquarters by telegraph service.

12. Encampment—Regimental, Brigade or Divisional—Period of Duration. Ground owned by the State? If so, Location. Regular Troops Encamped with State Troops.

The brigade encamped for six days—Agugust 9-14—on a low meadow hired for the purpose two miles southeast of the village of Chester. The ground contained about one hundred acres, having a small stream of clear water for animals and bathing on one side and the Rutland railway on the other side available for transportation purposes. Good spring water was brought to the camp in pipes for drinking purposes. The soil was a sandy loam, but the surface was broken and uneven and the meadow contained so many "runs" and depressions filled with water that manoeuvres were very much obstructed and the symmetry of the encampment materially disturbed. The State owns an excellent permanent camp ground adjoining Fort Ethan Allen which will be ready for occupancy next year. This permanent camp ground has been selected adjoining the United States military reservation with a view to using such facilities as the National Government may offer for joint manoeuvres and meeting the broader ideas of military instruction suggested by the War Department with the least possible expense to the State and National Governments.

Governor Grout and staff passed the week in camp with the troops, and the President of the United States accompanied by the Secretary of War visited the encampment on Governor's Day. Colonel Guy V. Henry, commanding the Third U. S. Cavalry, with headquarters, band, and three troops of that regiment and two companies of the Twenty-first U. S. Infantry encamped with the State troops during the week. Major Stephen P. Jocelyn, Nineteenth U. S. Infantry and Lieutenant Stephen M. Foote, Fourth U. S. Artillery, also served on the staff of the Governor by invitation. This is the fourth year in succession that a contingent of regular troops has, by War Department orders, joined the State encampment, and the consensus of all reports confirms my own convictions that such an assimilation of military organizations is far-reaching in its benefits.

16 Armament—Cavalry, Artillery, Infantry.—Character and Condition of.

The State has no cavalry. The artillery battery has four 3-2 inch B. L. steel guns with iron carriages. The caissons are the old pattern (of wood). The artillery men have sabers. The artillery armament is generally in good serviceable condition. The infantry is armed with the calibre .45 Springfield B. L. rifles. The rifles generally are free from rust, but many of them have in times past been rusted and it is difficult to tell to what extent their shooting qualities have been impaired. The rifles in the hands of two of the companies, "B" at St. Albans and "L" at Newport are new and there are some new rifles in the hands of the other companies, but I think it would be advisable to have fifty per cent of the rifles turned in to the National armory for repairs and other rifles of the same pattern and calibre issued in their stead.

17. Equipment—Cavalry, Artillery, Infantry.—Character and Condition of.

The only cavalry equipments are a few saddles and bridles used by the staff and mounted officers of infantry. The harness and equipments of the artillery are nearly new and in good condition. The infantry is equipped with the Mills field belt with bayonet scabbards attached, canteens and haversacks, but have no shelter tents, blanket bags, or meat ration cans. A light tin cup is issued but not the kind suitable for cooking coffee.

18. Uniform Clothing—Character and Condition of.

The troops have practically the same dress and undress uniform as the U. S. army, substituting State buttons and badges. No uniform shoe has been prescribed or issued. The men wear such black leather shoes as they may see fit to purchase. The clothing is generally kept in good condition.

19. Horses Owned or Hired.

The State owns no horses; they are hired as occasions require.

21. Camp and Garrison Equipage.—(a) Tentage, etc. (b) Mess Outfits.

(a) The State has an abundant supply of small tents in excellent condition, but no conical wall tents, common tents or shelter tents. (b) In former years the companies have owned or hired large "marquees" for use as mess tents, and have brought to camp portable kitchens, stoves and cooking utensils and large outfits of table furniture. Some did the same this year but several of the companies made the experiment of messing and field cooking as U. S. troops do in campaign, using the buzzacott oven, tin plates and cups. The experiment was entirely satisfactory to the companies. I would advise that hereafter all companies live in this way in camp and that the State furnish each company with a buzzacott oven and conical wall tent for covering supplies.

22. Property Accountability.—Nature of. Are Regulations in Regard to, Strictly Enforced?

All State property is issued by the quartermaster-general upon requisitions and company commanders make returns to him annually. The regulations pertaining thereto seem to be complied with.

23. Subsistence.—Rations.—Component Parts of. How Furnished. How Prepared.

Subsistence is not furnished by the State. The $2.00 per diem pay covers all allowances except transportation. The companies usually hire a caterer to furnish their food, cooked.

24. Pay and Allowances.

Each officer and enlisted man receives $2.00 per day during the period of authorized service and the State pays the railroad transportation to and from camp. The necessary riding horses and wagon transportation are hired by the State.

25. Stores.—(a) Purchase of.

Military stores are purchased by the quartermaster-general upon the order of the Governor, except those received under allotment from the national appropriation.

26. Drills and Ceremonies.—(a) Number and Nature of. (b) Proficiency in. (c) Field Exercises.

The first day of the encampment, Monday, was mainly occupied in assembling the troops and making camp. There was, however, a regimental parade for infantry at sunset. The infantry companies assembled from their home stations on that day by rail, pitched their tents and had their camps in order at 3 p. m. During four days of the encampment there were two hours drill each forenoon and afternoon for all the troops that were in camp and a parade each evening when the weather permitted. The infantry companies came to the encampment well drilled in company movements and the drill hours in camp were devoted to battalion close and extended order movements, ceremonies and practice marches. At the end of the encampment the troops were able to execute all movements in the drill regulations pertaining to a battalion very creditably and the regiment of twelve companies presented an excellent appearance at reviews and parades, but no other regimental manoeuvers were attempted. Each of the three battalions made a practice march, going from three to five miles out from the main encampment, moving with advance guard, rear guard, ambulance and wagon train, making temporary camp and cooking a meal while enroute. The discipline of the troops was good. The light battery marched to and from camp. Each journey, being about thirty-six miles, was made in two days. The battery was drilled during the encampment in all the movements of drill regulations comprised in the school of the battery and practiced firing with blank cartridges and also with shells at a target about 2,500 yards distant. The marching, drilling and firing of the battery were conducted in a very creditable manner. The condition and appearance of the horses were especially worthy of mention, the best I have witnessed in five succeeding encampments.

27. Personnel and Discipline.

The personnel of the command, as a whole, is excellent; it has greatly improved during the past four years; a class of young men, many of them students and graduates of colleges and high schools, and others filling responsible business positions, have been attracted to the ranks, and both officers and men have awakened to a new military spirit throughout the National Guard service in the State, reaching almost to enthusiasm in some of the companies. The discipline of the camp was good, and attention of the men to military courtesies was especially noticeable.

28. Theoretical Instruction.

Officers' schools were held each evening during the encampment; regular officers attended with the others. The errors of the day were pointed out and the succeeding day's work planned and discussed. Officers have a two-day's meeting for theoretical instruction in January of each year, and the companies hold officers' and non-commissioned officers' schools in their armories during three months of the year, once each week. A system of examination of officers upon promotion has been inaugurated during the past two years, with very beneficial effect. It has stimulated study and prevented uneducated men from becoming candidates for commissions.

29. Guard Duty.—How Performed. Officers and Non-Commissioned Officers Well Instructed. Sentinels Well Instructed. Any Outpost Duty.

The companies had practiced guard mounting and sentinels' duty in their home armories to such an extent that the ceremony of guard mounting was very well executed throughout the encampment, and guard duty generally was well performed. With but few exceptions officers and non-commissioned officers and sentinels were well instructed and performed their duties in a soldierly manner. There was no outpost duty.

30. Target Practice.—Cavalry, Artillery and Infantry.—Range and Gallery.—Any Held at Stations of Troops? Any held in Camp? Quantity of Instruction, System and Classification.

The infantry companies had no target practice at the annual encampment this year. Each company has a range at its home station and all members of the company practice there at intervals during the summer months and in the month of September the companies fire in competition for a cup which is held for one year by the company making the highest aggregate percentage—all members firing. Blunt's Small Arms Firing Regulations is followed as far as practicable. The infantry companies all have gallery practice at their home stations. The short range firing of the regiment is good, but mid-range and long-range firing have been held for but few members of each company.

Artillery practice with 3 2-inch breech-loading steel rifles was conducted at the encampment over a range of about 2,500 yards with very good results.

Gatling gun practice was held at the encampment in the presence of all the troops at six hundred and eight hundred yards by a detachment of the Twenty-first U. S. Infantry under the direction of First Lieutenant A. L. Parmerter of that regiment.

32. Military Code.

The Vermont Statutes of 1894 have embodied in one chapter entitled "Militia, the Revised Military Code" in conformity with which a book of regulations for the National Guard of the State was promulgated by the Governor as Commander-in-Chief in 1897. The book was prepared by me at the request of the Governor and authorized by him upon the recommendation of a board of officers appointed from the National Guard of the State. The State Laws provide for State troops being called into the service of the United States.

34. Maps.

There are good State and county maps in the Adjutant General's office. On the map sent for file in the Military Information Division with my report three years ago I indicated the location of brigade and regimental headquarters and the companies and batteries of the National Guard of the State, and the only arsenal. There have been no changes in these locations since that time.

35. Armories.

No armory buildings are owned by the State, but rooms or buildings are hired by the State for each company and the light battery at their home stations.

36. Arsenals.

There is but one arsenal, located at the capital of the State—Montpelier. It is a large brick building adequate to its purpose, located on high and dry ground, apart from other buildings, and the stores therein are well cared for.

37. Independent Commands Within State.

The section of artillery (Norwich Cadets) at Northfield constitutes the only separate or independent command of the State militia and is a valuable adjunct, as nowhere in the State are military, drill and discipline at the present time so perfect, and the graduates will, as times goes on, be found in the list of officers of State troops, and greatly help the service.

38. Recommendations.

I would advise that the State supply each company and battery a buzzacott oven, the regulation allowance of camp kettles and mess pans, a conical wall tent, and each man a tin cup, meat ration can, knife, fork and spoon, and that companies do their cooking in camp the same as regular troops. Four companies did so this year with satisfactory results. I would advise that the drills of the encampment be confined to battalion, regimental and brigade movements in conjunction with regular troops so far as practicable; and that these movements comprise, in addition to the ceremonies laid down in the drill regulations, a series of practical field exercises which will become interesting and much more valuable to the troops, as they will form the basis of much discussion after the officers and men return home, and will, it is believed, prove an incentive to hard preparatory work on the part of all, in order that they may, before coming to the next encampment, overcome the defects which have been made evident by the field exercises held this year. The manual of arms, alignments, wheeling by four, etc., are important elementary training, but should all be worked up at the home station, as they are merely the means by which to attain the end of making men practical soldiers in the field. I would advise that when new tentage is procured, conical wall tents with Sibley stoves and pipe be secured, that the State may have the kind of camp equipage necessary for actual service. There should also be provided shelter tents for the men. I would advise the completion of the facilities for holding the annual encampment on the grounds already purchased by the State adjoining Fort Ethan Allen, that the target range and other facilities belonging to the National Government at that place may be available for the State troops. There is, in my opinion, a fine opportunity to conduct manoeuvers jointly between the two services in this locality even for more troops than are located within the limits of the state of Vermont. Strategically Essex Junction is the natural place to assemble troops in Vermont, and also from the northern New England states. There is quite a tract of country between Fort Ethan Allen and Essex Junction, some of it not now used for agricultural purposes, that probably could be hired and very likely could be purchased for an inconsiderable amount, and so well and harmoniously have the National Guard of Vermont and the regular troops stationed on Lake Champlain united and assimilated instruction upon the lines of practical soldiering, during the past few years, that I think a more extensive plan in this direction worthy of consideration.

39. Remarks.

It has been my pleasure to serve four years on duty with the succeeding Governors of the State, to assist in such military instruction to the National Guard as would develop their methods in the direction of those of the regular army, and through these years I have observed a most commendable soldierly spirit and a progressive improvement. And I wish to express my appreciation of the courtesy and consideration shown me personally and officially by all those with whom I have been associated.

Respectfully submitted,

H. E. TUTHERLY,

Captain 1st Cavalry.

NORTHFIELD, VT., June 30, 1898.

Adjutant General, State Vermont, Burlington.

DEAR SIR:—The encampment of the Cadets began on June 3d, in compliance with orders, and closed June 11th, a period of 9 days. During that time I was present but two days, as on June 4th I was ordered away and was therefore unable to give any more attention to the duties usually falling to the Commandant of Cadets. This report will be very brief, and made from data obtainable only after the session had closed.

There were but 41 available for duty during camp, a number too small to present the corps as well as its friends would like, but a number had enlisted in the volunteers or naval reserve, and various causes kept others from participating in this important duty.

There were six company drills in close order, 3 in extended order, 1 battalion drill, 1 battalion review, 3 artillery drills, the balance of available time being used for target practice, of which all had some, considerable attention being given to instruction of men in their first year.

The work of this spring has been hampered by the absence of the President and Commandant, and has prevented a systematic course of instruction such as is needed to make the camp a greater success.

As the Adjutant General himself inspected the Cadets during the encampment, his knowledge of their condition is better than mine, and any report of mine can have but little weight in the matter of their efficiency.

It is hoped that the opening of a new school year will find enlarged numbers, and if the war ceases, a renewal of the military relations with the Government.

Very respectfully,

H. W. HOVEY,

1st Lieut. 24th Infantry.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE,
VERMONT NATIONAL GUARD,
BRATTLEBORO, VT., July 12, 1898.

Gen. T. S. Peck, Adjutant and Inspector-General.

SIR—I have the honor to report that the 1st Regiment, Vermont National Guard, which forms the major part of the Brigade, was mustered into the United States service May 16th, 1898, at Camp Olympia, near Burlington, Vt. There is therefore only left under my command the Battery of light artillery located at Brattleboro, under command of Capt. F. D. Weld. By order of the Governor their guns were shipped to Watervliet Arsenal at the request of the general Government for the use of the Army. They are therefore without any equipment except their caissons, uniforms and side arms.

It will hardly be necessary for an encampment to be held this year, and I would suggest, under the circumstances, that the Battery be re-organized as a Company of Infantry, and that three more Companies be organized, making a battalion of four Companies while the 1st Regiment is in the service of the general Government; and on the return of the 1st Regiment, that a reorganization be effected making two Regiments of eight Companies each, and do away entirely with the Battery. This will not entail very much more expense to the State than under the present arrangement, as the Battery, of course, is very expensive to maintain.

I am very happy to add that all reports from the front show that our troops are bringing honor to our State by their soldierly bearing and gentlemanly demeanor.

I am, sir,

Your obedient servant,

JULIUS J. ESTEY,

Brigadier General Commanding.

July 31, 1898.

The Adjutant-General, State of Vermont, Burlington:

SIR—I have the honor to submit a brief report covering the period since September 1, 1897, upon which date, in pursuance of orders of the Secretary of War, I reported to His Excellency the Governor for duty with the National Guard of Vermont.

By courteous invitation of the Governor, extended by the Adjutant-General, I had the good fortune prior to entering upon duty with the Guard to attend its annual encampment held at Chester, August 9 to 14, 1897. While my presence there as a guest of the State becomes a bar to official comment, I gladly embrace the opportunity of this report to express a soldier's appreciation of camp hospitality graciously extended. The visit enabled me to form a considerable first acquaintance in the National Guard as well as to meet many civil officials of the State, with all of whom, in the course of subsequent duty, my relations have been most agreeable.

CENTENNIAL TROPHY.

The competitive firing of the infantry companies for a prize known as the Centennial Trophy, which had heretofore been a feature of the drill season authorized by law in the month of June, was deferred for the year 1897 to the autumn to enable the companies participating in it to have the opportunity of previous practice on their ranges during the summer. The competition was held soon after I arrived in the State and reported for duty, being directed in orders of the Commander-in-Chief, dated September 6th, 1897, which read as follows:

"Upon the recommendation of the Brigade Commander, the Centennial Trophy competition, in completion of the annual company drill and inspection of the National Guard of Vermont, as contemplated in General Orders Nos. 9 and 11, current series, from this office, will be held for the several companies of the First Regiment of Infantry as nearly as practicable upon the following dates:

Company F, Northfield, Monday afternoon, September 27, 1897.
Company H, Montpelier, Tuesday forenoon, September 28, 1897.
Company E, Barre, Tuesday afternoon, September 28, 1897.
Company G, Bradford, Wednesday afternoon, September 29, 1897.
Company D, St. Johnsbury, Thursday afternoon, September 30, 1897.
Company L, Newport, Friday afternoon, October 1, 1897.
Company I, Brattleboro, Saturday afternoon, October 2, 1897.
Company A, Rutland, Monday forenoon, October 4, 1897.
Company K, Bennington, Tuesday forenoon, October 5, 1897.
Company C, Brandon, Wednesday afternoon, October 6, 1897.
Company M, Burlington, Thursday afternoon, October 7, 1897.
Company B, St. Albans, Friday forenoon, October 8, 1897.

The competition will be under direction and supervision of Major George O. Webster, Brigade Inspector of Rifle Practice, assisted by Captain John D Wyman, Inspector of Rifle Practice First Regiment of Infantry, and by battalion adjutants as statistical officers for the companies of their respective battalions.

Medical officers are hereby directed to be present at the firing of the companies as follows:

Brigadier-General James N. Jenne, Surgeon-General, Companies B, St. Albans, and M, Burlington.

Lieutenant-Colonel W. D. Huntington, Brigade-Surgeon, Companies E, Barre; F, Northfield, and H, Montpelier.

Major Henry H. Lee, Surgeon, First Regiment of Infantry, Companies D, St. Johnsbury; G, Bradford, and L, Newport.

Captain Benjamin C. Senton, Assistant Surgeon First Regiment of Infantry, Companies A, Rutland; C, Brandon, and K, Bennington.

First Lieutenant C. S. Pratt, Assistant Surgeon First Light Battery, Company I, Brattleboro.

Colonel Charles E. Nelson, Inspector of Rifle Practice, and Major S. P. Jocelyn, 19th U. S. Infantry of the staff of the Commander-in-Chief, will attend the competition.

The Quartermaster-General will arrange for payment of the troops and the necessary transportation."

The contest was admirably conducted by Major Webster, his assistants and associates named above, report of which in detail to the Brigade Commander was duly published to his command.

Through the courtesy of the commanding officer of Plattsburg Barracks a disinterested non-commissioned officer, Corporal Wiebold, of the 21st U. S. Infantry, was present at the butts during all the firing. I believe that absolute impartiality in marking and legitimacy of the scores recorded remain unquestioned.

OFFICERS' SCHOOL.

The school for commissioned officers was held this year at St. Johnsbury, January 11 and 12, 1898, in the new and commodious armory of Company D of the First Regiment of Infantry. It was well attended, such officers of the brigade as were prevented from participating in the exercises of the school submitting cogent reasons for their absence. The scheme of instruction devised by the Brigade Commander involved for the infantry considerable attention to the School of the Battalion and Evolutions of the Regiment, both in close and extended order. (See copies of General Orders 18, and Memorandum dated December 20, 1897, appended.) Without exception the student officers evinced a lively interest in the exercises, the study and discussion of which, in the light of subsequent events, cannot have proved otherwise than timely and profitable.

The officers of the First Battery of Light Artillery formed a separate class under the direction of First Lieutenant Charles J. Bailey, First U. S. Artillery, Professor Military Science and Tactics, University of Vermont. By such exercises as were practicable in the armory, blackboard drawings and familiar talks upon the science and art of the effective use of field artillery, Lieut. Bailey early gained the interest of his class and held it to the close of the school. In conducting the various school exercises for the infantry First Lieut. (now Captain) Henry W. Hovey, 24th U. S. Infantry, Norwich University, was of invaluable assistance. At its closing session, to the assembled classes of the school, he delivered a most instructive lecture in his well known felicitous vein upon the topic of the military art. It is an agreeable duty and no less a personal pleasure to be the medium of extending to each of these gentlemen the thanks of their fellow soldiers of the National Guard of Vermont.

NORWICH UNIVERSITY.

The annual Company Drill and Inspection, together with the yearly Parade for Drill, Discipline, Inspection and Review of the Section of Artillery, Norwich University, prescribed in Sections 4416 and 4417, Vermont Statutes, was held at Northfield June 3rd to 11th, 1898. Near the close of the encampment, in company with the Adjutant-General, I visited the University and inspected the Cadets. The corps occupied a properly arranged and well policed camp on the plain at the foot of University Hill, under command of Cadet Captain Arthur E. Winslow, in the absence of Lieut. Hovey, the permanent commandant. Captain Winslow paraded his command for inspection organized as a battalion of two companies, the inspection being preceded by a review correctly conducted according to prescribed U. S. Army Drill Regulations. Immediately following the ceremony of review and inspection the battalion was consolidated and drilled before the inspector as a company, first in close order movements and subsequently in extended formation for attack.

I desire in unequivocal terms to record the impression gained from my inspection that professional work of the best sort is being prosecuted in the military department of this University. It was exemplified in the instruction, discipline and bearing of the Cadets as a corps as well as individual familiarity with and correct observance of small details, not calling for enumeration in a report of this nature, but which at once arrest attention and command the approval of an inspector.

FIRST REGIMENT OF INFANTRY, VERMONT VOLUNTEERS.

The all-absorbing event in the history of the Guard for the current year was the call for Volunteers to serve in the existing war with the Kingdom of Spain. The President's Proclamation, making requisition upon the several States for troops to the aggregate number of 125,000, was issued April 23rd, 1898. It was not until some days later that specific legislation by Congress enabled the Secretary of War to indicate to the Governors of States the strength and organization of the several units to compose the quota of each. Although her apportionment was less than two battalions, Vermont promptly and wisely offered to raise a complete regiment, which, being consented to by the War Department, enabled the sturdy Green Mountain State thus early to meet in advance and in full her quota under the second call for troops that followed a month later.

The First Regiment of Infantry, Vermont National Guard, was permitted to offer itself as an organization for service in the Volunteer Army, and did so with great unanimity, additions to the ranks to increase the enlisted strength to 81 men being soon made in each company at its home station. The first companies reached the regimental rendezvous at Burlington, May 4th, and all were in Camp before Saturday, May 7th. The critical physical examination to which officers and men were alike subjected consumed the following week, and on Monday, May 16th, the fully organized regiment was mustered into the United States service. It left for Chickamauga the following Saturday.

The duty of inspecting and accepting the regiment for the Volunteer Army and of mustering it into the United States service fell to me under orders of the Secretary of War, and I have already had occasion officially to express to the proper authorities "the high standard of excellence" reached by the regiment in its personnel, both officers and men.

REMARKS.

As stated already, this report is necessarily brief. It is prepared amid the pressure of other and distracting public duties and, as will appear from the caption, at a distance from needful data and records to which I would gladly refer to render it more complete.

During the autumn, winter and early spring seasons I had opportunity to visit on one or more occasions all of the organizations at their several home stations, and in some of these instances an evening was utilized for an informal lecture to the members of a command upon an appropriate military subject. More ably to the purpose in this direction were the excellent professional papers read before many of the companies in their armories during the same seasons by Captain Hardie and Lieut. Rivers, 3rd U. S. Cavalry; Lieut. Bailey, 1st U. S. Artillery, and Lieut. Hovey, 24th U. S. Infantry. That these essays were listened to with close attention and were usually followed by discussion and inquiry are the best evidence of their useful effect.

While the true military spirit pervades all organizations to a commendable degree, it is to be regretted that closer attention has not been paid to the physical qualifications of officers and men for the stern requirements of actual service. Fully 20 per cent of the National Guardsmen volunteering for the present war were rejected by the United States examining Surgeons, while many of those accepted fell far below the standard fixed for the permanent establishment. The splendid physical perfection of the United States troops in the recent operations before Santiago, their self-reliance, discipline and resourceful adaptation to critical conditions have received not only the commendation of foreign military observers but are acclaimed admiringly by the whole civilized world. These qualities have been attained by adherence to rigid rules in the selection of recruits, followed by systematic, physical and disciplinary training that render the American soldier of today the acknowledged superior of his fellow in any European Army. It is not assumed that the citizen soldiery composing the National Guard of a State should be restricted to rules so severe either of selection or subsequent administration. It is a part only, and usually a very small fraction, of his time that the Guardsman can devote to military affairs, but it seems clearly evident that the National Guard of Vermont is entitled to have its ranks filled in the future with men selected with greater care as to their physical fitness than has heretofore been the case.

Vermont is to be congratulated upon the "touch of elbow" and intimate sympathy existing between her Chief Executive and the State Military forces, and I wish officially to acknowledge the interest and cordial support of the Commander-in-Chief in whatever duties have devolved upon me to perform under his direction.

To all connected with the State Military service, especially to yourself, to Quartermaster-General Gilmore and Brigadier-General Estey I am deeply indebted for continuous evidence of kindly consideration in all official or personal relations.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

S. P. JOCELYN,

Major 19th U. S. Infantry.

APPENDIX B.

MEMORANDUM.

The course of instruction for Officers' School, to be held at St. Johnsbury, January 11 and 12, 1898, will be substantially that pursued at the last term, practical exercises in the service manuals being taken up progressively.

Four sessions of the school are contemplated. At the first, to be held Monday evening, the 10th, exercises will be held in the Schools of the Soldier, including the Manual of Arms and Bayonet Exercise, and also in the Manual of the Sword and Saber and the Trumpet Calls.

The second and third sessions of the school will be devoted principally to exercises (by means of the system of blocks as heretofore) in the Schools of the Company, Battery and Battalion and Evolutions of the Regiment, both in close and extended order.

The subject of Guards and the conduct of Outposts, Patrols and Reconnaissance will be brought up at the fourth session.

Armory exercises appropriate to light artillery, assimilated to those for the infantry, will be separately conducted by First Lieut. Charles J. Bailey, 1st U. S. Artillery, Professor of Military Science and Tactics, University of Vermont, who has courteously consented to act as instructor in that department.

The school this year is to be again congratulated upon the instructive aid and co-operation of First Lieut. Henry W. Hovey, 24th U. S. Infantry, Commandant of Cadets, Norwich University, whose invaluable assistance at previous terms has been gratefully appreciated.

It is desired that by previous study officers become as thoroughly conversant as possible with Drill Regulations of their arm of service, and they should also be familiar with Articles III, XLV and XLVI, U. S. Army Regulations of 1895.

At any session of the school, as time and opportunity are afforded, there will be recitations at the discretion of the Brigade Commander upon the various text-book sub-heads, such as "Ceremonies," "The Color," "The Band," "Camping," "Marches," "Organization and Transportation of Artillery," "Stables and Stable Duties," etc., etc.

Officers having in possession at their home stations sets of the blocks used at the last Officers' School are desired to bring them to St. Johnsbury without fail for the exercises at the approaching term. A. G. O.

HEADQUARTERS 1st REGIMENT INFANTRY,
VERMONT VOLUNTEERS,
CAMP GEORGE H. THOMAS,
CHICKAMAUGA PARK, GA., July 1, 1898.

T. S. Peck, Adjutant and Inspector General, Burlington, Vt.

SIR:—I have the honor to report that pursuant to orders from the Commander-in-Chief on the 4th day of May I established headquarters at the State camp grounds near Essex, Vt, and took command of the organizations of the 1st Infantry, V. N. G., as they came into camp with their recruits. The camp was christened "Olympia" in honor of Admiral Dewey's flagship.

Some days were taken up in the physical examination of the officers and men and filling vacancies caused thereby, and on the 16th day of May the regiment was mustered into the service of the United States. Pursuant to orders from the War Department, the troops, consisting of 47 officers and 980 men, left Fort Ethan Allen station in four sections Saturday morning, May 21st, the last section leaving at 11 A. M. We proceeded via New London, Jersey City and Washington and reached Battlefield Station, Chickamauga Park, about noon May 24th, but owing to numerous delays did not get into camp until about 6:30 P. M. Our camp was located about 2½ miles from the station in a grove, and fairly well situated. May 26th I was assigned to the command of the 3d Brigade, 1st Division 3d Army corps, made up of the 1st Vermont, 8th New York and 3d Tennessee Regiments of Infantry, and remained in command until I was relieved June 28th by Brigadier General Colby, a civilian appointee from Nebraska. During my temporary absence Lieutenant-Colonel Mimms took command of the regiment, but I gave it what attention my other duties would admit of.

There has been but little sickness of a serious character and but one death (Musician Spafford of K Co.) The men have gradually become accustomed to camp life and army fare and are at the present time in prime condition.

We are fairly well equipped, as well in fact as any regiment which was not clothed and armed by its State authorities before entering the United States service.

I desire to place on record the appreciation of the officers and men of the generosity of Colonel and Mrs Webb in placing in my hands a fund for the relief of the sick.

Very respectfully,

O. D. CLARK,

Col. Commanding 1st Infantry, Vt. Vols.

FIRST VERMONT INFANTRY,
UNITED STATES VOLUNTEERS.
CAMP THOMAS, LYTLE, GA., July 16, 1898.

General T. S. Peck, Adjutant General, Burlington, Vt :

SIR—I have the honor to make the following report in regard to the present condition of the regiment. The health of the command is very good. We have no cases that are dangerous, most of the suffering is from diarrhœa ; the cause of this I am at a loss to find. It is not the water for we are now getting absolutely pure water in sufficient quantities ; it is doubly filtered and the work of filtering is done in our own camp. We have eleven filters and the work is done by a detail of 12 men. I have talked with the men freely and I find that there is more immunity from disease among the men who drink beer in moderation. I am convinced the canteen, run under restrictions as it is, is beneficial. We are not all uniformed yet, and many of the old National Guard uniforms are worn out. We expect the coming week to be wholly uniformed. I am happy to say the conduct of the men has been very exemplary. There are about 16 in the guard house—of these 13 are for overstaying leaves on pass, or going away to the city without a pass; three only are for drunkenness.

We are in a peculiar condition in one respect ; under the orders of the War Department we are not allowed to recruit to the maximum strength of other regiments. Our original strength of 81 men per company has been reduced as follows:

	Transferred			Total
Co. A	Div. Hospital Corps	3 men.		3
" B	" "	" 3 "		3
" C	" "	" 2 "	Promotion, 1 Original Shortage, 1	4
" D	" "	" 3 "	Death, 1 Discharged, 1	5
" F	" "	" 2	Promotion, 1	3
" G	" "	" 2		2
" H	" "	" 2		2
" I	" "	" 3		3
" K	" "	" 2	Death, 1	3
" L	" "	" 3		3
" M	" "	" 3	Transf'ed to Engineers, 1	4
			Making a total reduction of	37 men.

In view of the permanent detachments made, the government having reduced our numbers, we should be allowed to fill our ranks or else we should have been exempted from any call that would permanently reduce us. I made application through military channels, in this behalf, asking leave to recruit to our original numbers—81 enlisted men per company. In case we have a band our numbers will be still further reduced 2 men per company. In reply to my request the Department said I might recruit "on the field," but would not allow us to send a recruiting party to Vermont; nor pay expense of transportation. If we had some young men here, we could recruit, but we know nothing of our "material" in such case. Something should be done about this. It is apparent that by resignations and promotions we shall in the near future have five more vacancies. In such case recruits should be sent from Vermont because the five vacancies will remove five men of those receiving extra state aid. I have observed the several sergeants and am ready at any time to recommend a list from which his Excellency the Governor may choose commissioned officers.

In this connection I respectfully suggest that Lieut. Stratton, Co. K., should send in his resignation if, as I understand, he is permanently disabled. Capt. Burnham is on sick leave and 2d Lieut. Worthington, an excellent young officer, has to do all the work that falls to the commissioned officers of a company. This vacancy in Co. K. should be filled.

The men as well as the officers are all desirous and eager to go to the front, and hope to get the order to proceed to Porto Rico—it would be obeyed with alacrity and gladness.

Col. Clark is absent on sick leave. He was for the first four weeks in command of the brigade as Senior Colonel; on his return he had the command for a few days and obtained leave of absence on account of sickness. This leave has been extended. The command has devolved upon me since we came here, except the few days stated above.

Other officers on sick leave are Q. M. Creed, 30 days; Capt. Burnham, 10 days; Lieut. Tilden, 2 weeks.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN H. MIMMS,

Lieut. Col. Comd'g.

REPORT.

To His Excellency, Josiah Grout, Governor of Vermont.

SIR.—I have the honor to present herewith my report for the biennial term ending June 30, 1898, embracing an inventory of the property of the State as for December 1, 1896, together with a schedule of expenditures on the house and grounds.

Touching one item of expenditure during the last biennial term, it may be proper for me to make a special explanation. Under the statute it is the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms to care for and keep in proper repair the State Capitol, grounds and all things connected therewith, to the end that the best interests of the State may be subserved, and all persons having business at the State Capitol be granted all reasonable accommodations. Looking toward this end, I have during the past year had the State Capitol, including the State Library and Supreme Court rooms wired for electric lights, at an expenditure which is given in detail hereafter in this report.

I was led to make this great improvement in the Capitol (all members of the special session of 1898, together with many leading men of the State here at that time recognizing that it was a great improvement) for the following reasons: For a number of years and since the introduction of electric lights into this city, my attention has been repeatedly called to the fact that the introduction of an electric lighting system into the Capitol was not only greatly to be desired, but almost a necessity, considering the convenience and health of the members of the Legislature, Supreme Court and others doing business at the Capitol.

Having been often urged by many leading men of the State to make this change before the regular session of 1898, after consultation with the governor, State officials and many other prominent citizens of the State, I have introduced such a system, fully believing that in view of all the conditions, my course in making this greatly needed improvement, will receive the full approval of your excellency and all having at heart the highest and best interests of the State.

The system of wiring introduced into the Capitol buildings is what is known as the iron armored system, whereby the building is first piped with insulated iron conduit, after which insulated rubber covered wire is drawn in. All pipes being concealed and laid in such a manner that any and all wires can be drawn out or in without disturbing either floors, walls or ceilings.

The buildings are wired with what is known as the low tension system, the high tension current being transformed into the low tension by transformers placed in a separate building situated at a distance from the main building. When completed, the work was inspected by a competent electrical engineer, from whose report I quote: "All materials used are of a high grade, the work is done in a thorough and workmanlike manner, and the whole work reflects credit upon those who designed and those who executed it."

Respectfully submitted,

T. C. PHINNEY,

Sergeant-at-Arms.

The Board of Supervisors of the Insane respectfully submit the following report for the biennial period ending July 1st, 1898.

The duties of the supervisors have materially increased since the completion of the asylum at Waterbury. In 1890 there were four hundred and ninety-six insane patients under treatment in the State of which one hundred and sixteen were private and three hundred and eighty were State patients. We have at this time under treatment 738, of which 149 are private and 589 are State patients, an increase of 242; 209 private and 33 State patients.

This number could be very readily increased by fifty or more if there was room for them in the asylum.

In 1890 your board made inquiries, by means of circulars, issued to the overseers of poor of the various towns in the State, for the number of insane poor in each town. It was found at that time that there were ninety-five who were cared for in the almshouses and in private homes.

In the institutions of our State there are about seventy incurable demented patients. They are usually quiet and harmless, but if disturbed are liable at times to become excited and dangerous. Such people, many of them, might be cared for in the almshouses, still it would be very disagreeable and inconvenient. They can be cared for better by the State and with but a small extra expense. Such people, leading sedentary and inactive lives both of the body and brain and free from the annoying and disturbing elements of life seem to have a new lease of life and many live to a good old age. A man died a few years ago who had been an inmate of an asylum for 53 years. As far as practical this class of patients should be kept by themselves.

A radical change has been going on for the past fifty years in the care of the insane. Formerly it was the custom to confine an insane patient in a dark cell securely held by chains until the Angel of Death came to his relief. But we are glad that this brutal and barbarous treatment has been gradually wearing away. The chains have been broken, sunshine and well-ventilated rooms are given the patient instead of the dark cell. Kindness and scientific treatment have taken the place of cruelty.

It is now a recognized principle that persons bereft of reason, whether rich or poor, are entitled to the kindliest care that we are able to give them.

We are glad to notice that there has been an advancement in the past ten years in institutions of our State along this line, and that the present managers are fully alive on this subject and are pushing this line of improvement as far and as fast as the best good and safety of the people will allow. It has been found that employing a larger number of trained or experienced nurses, giving the patients some active employment, plenty of fresh air and sunshine, with attractive surroundings and pleasant amusements, will help in a great measure to throw off their morbid tendencies, to make them more quiet and tractable, will allow a larger liberty in every way and to a large extent the abolishing of mechanical restraints. In our visits through the institutions it is now a rare sight to see a patient wearing a muff, a camisole or any other restraint. Occasionally a patient becomes excited and violent and for a short time is restrained or secluded in his room.

At our last visit to the Waterbury Asylum we were told that a patient, feeling that one of his violent spells was about to seize him, made the request that the muff be placed upon his hands as he feared that he might injure himself or some one else, and that this case was the only mechanical restraint used for the past six months. At the Brattleboro Retreat they report only one man, a homicidal patient, secluded a part of the time, and a woman with acute mania restrained for surgical reasons occasionally.

THE VERMONT STATE ASYLUM.

The board of supervisors have visited the State Asylum at Waterbury each month for the past biennial period.

At the time of our last report, two years ago, the new building had just been completed and filled with patients, two hundred and fifty having been transferred from the Retreat at Brattleboro.

Such a large increase to the population of the asylum—in numbers equal to its former membership—must of necessity require a vast amount of study and hard work. Each individual case must be thoroughly investigated to discover the peculiar mental as well as the physical condition in order to make a proper classification, that the patient may be placed in a ward best adapted to his class.

Before this had been fully accomplished the superintendent, Dr. Giddins, resigned, and Dr. F. W. Page was appointed his successor. Dr. Page entered upon his duties amid a great many discouragements, but he proved himself equal to the occasion. He has been very zealous in his work and has succeeded in establishing a hospital for the insane in which the people of our State may well take pride.

Among the many changes and improvements that have been made at the Vermont State Asylum the supervisors would especially mention a few which we believe are very commendable and which we heartily approve. Several courts have been made by enclosing parcels of ground adjoining different wards by fences for both the male and female patients, and all save a few feeble and bed-ridden ones are taken out into these courts to spend a portion of each day. By a large majority, these privileges are greatly enjoyed, and we are pleased to mention this improvement because we believe it is conducive to the health as well as the mental benefit of the patient, and hope that this will be but the beginning of more extensive plans for establishing additional out-door facilities.

The grounds in front of and around the buildings have been graded, walks and driveways laid out. Fountains have been planned to be placed in front of each wing. Shade trees and other shrubbery have been planted around the lawn and outside the driveways.

A large and commodious building has been erected in the past year for pathological work. It will be found very useful and profitable to the medical staff for study and investigation.

A room has been fitted up in this building to be used as a lecture room for nurses. It is the intention of the superintendent to give a course of lectures each season upon the duties and responsibilities of the nurses, which we believe is a move in the right direction.

During the last biennial period the trustees have purchased a large two-story brick house situated on Main street in front of the Asylum grounds, which has been thoroughly repaired. The inside has been papered and finished in hard wood and furnished in good style with modern upholstered furniture. This will accommodate some sixteen female patients besides the attendants and cook. The patients here enjoy all the privileges ordinarily attached to a genteel boarding-house. They are at liberty to play games, read, sew or walk on the grounds. The inmates are selected from the convalescent and quiet ones, who are capable of self-control and of making themselves agreeable to each other, without reference to their pecuniary circumstances.

The criminal and convict insane of the State are all at the State Asylum. There are now twenty-six men and six women; four less men and two more women than at our last report. These people come from the different courts of the State, from the prison and the house of correction. The men occupy a ward by themselves, separated from the main building by a corridor. A goodly sized yard connected with this ward has been surrounded by a solid brick wall where these people spend much of their time in the open air, playing ball, pitching quoits and in various other amusements.

A female criminal, who was committed to the asylum by order of the court some nine years ago, had, in our opinion, recovered from her malady and was given a discharge. She left the asylum a few months since and we are glad to learn that she is getting along very well among her friends in a neighboring state.

Divine services are held in the beautiful little chapel each Sabbath afternoon by the different clergymen of the village, alternately. Here, too, are held lectures and various other entertainments weekly during the winter season which are greatly enjoyed by those patients who are able to attend.

At Christmas time, the attendants, assisted by many of the patients, spent much time and labor in decorating the halls and dining rooms with mottoes, bunting and artificial flowers. Some of the designs were very beautiful and artistic, especially those in the chapel, which were very appropriate and attractive.

We are also pleased to notice that curtains have been furnished for the windows, large rugs placed on the halls, pictures and mottoes hung on the walls, thus giving the rooms a homelike appearance, rendering them attractive to the inmates and helping to make them contented and happy.

BRATTLEBORO RETREAT.

In our monthly visits to the Brattleboro Retreat it was not considered necessary to have the full board present at each meeting, but one or more have visited the Retreat each month. In the last two years the buildings have undergone a thorough repairing. They have been painted on the outside and outside blinds furnished to all the windows facing on the street, removing as much as possible the asylum appearance. The Marsh building has undergone a radical change. All the rooms have been increased to twice their former proportions, arranged in suites and furnished in good style.

The parlor hall in the women's department and also the corresponding hall on the male side have been remodled, refurnished and finished in hard wood. Most of the rooms have been enlarged to double their former size. These halls and rooms have been furnished with rich and elegant furniture and bedding. Eight new bath rooms have been put in, each with marble floors, enameled bath tubs and back vent siphon closets. All of these improvements have been carried on as rapidly as possible and they are planning to carry them to all parts of the building.

The usual number of entertainments and amusements have been provided. All the patients except a few invalids spend much of their time out of doors, the more quiet ones going by themselves over the grounds and parks.

The doors to several of the halls are not locked during the day and the patients are at liberty to go out where and when they please upon the grounds of the institution. The superintendent reports that they are getting on practically without the use of Mechanical restraints, although they employ them occasionally when the best good of the patient would thus be conserved.

LAKE VIEW RETREAT.

The Lake View Retreat is a private institution owned and managed by Dr. J. M. Clark.

It is situated on a high bluff bordering on Lake Champlain, in Burlington, Vt. During the past two years it has had about the usual amount of business except that they have excluded the more violent and excited cases and have been taking those suffering from nervous troubles and the milder forms of mental diseases.

During the present summer Dr. Clark built an addition of 40x40 feet, three stories high, of solid brick walls. The inside is finished in hard wood and will be fitted with new dining-rooms, bath rooms, steam heat and electric lights. It has sun baloonies on each story enclosed in glass for winter use. This addition with the older building will afford excellent arrangements for the care of their special cases. This institution from its beginning has enjoyed gradual, healthy growth and prosperity, and with its new and better facilities will be able to do more and better work in the future.

Trustees' Report.

To His Excellency, Josiah Grout, Governor of the State of Vermont:

The Trustees of the Brattleboro Retreat, pursuant to the requirements of law, herewith respectfully submit their report for the biennial period ending June 30, 1898, being the sixty-first and sixty-second years of its incorporated work.

The period closes with one hundred and twenty-seven private patients and ninety-three State patients, a total gain of fifty-eight in the two years.

Forty-three State patients were committed by order of the courts, and six by revocation of the State Board of Supervisors orders.

The act of 1837 required that in admissions to this institution, preference should be given to resident citizens of Vermont, which requirement has been strictly observed to the rejection of numerous applications for the reception of private patients from without the State; indeed, so many such applications were refused that the impression finally went abroad that we were exclusively a State institution.

This fact, and the springing up of many private asylums in neighboring States, has prevented the rapid occupation of the wards of the Retreat that were vacated by the removal of State patients to the State Asylum upon its completion, though the number of private patients has slowly but steadily increased; consequently we have accommodations for, and should be pleased to receive a part of the State patients.

It necessarily requires considerable time to adapt the income and expenses of the Retreat to each other, in the changed condition.

It is our present aim, as in the past, to not only maintain the general standard of the institution, but to improve it from year to year. With the greatly reduced numbers, however, and consequent high per capita cost, we have already considerably exceeded our income as shown by the abstract of receipts and expenditures appended to the Superintendent's report.

The total number of admissions for the two years ending June 30, was one hundred and sixty-one.

Of these, one hundred and twelve (sixty-one men and fifty-one women) were committed by friends and supported by private means.

Forty-nine (twenty-five men and twenty-four women) were committed by order of the Probate Courts and maintained at the expense of the State.

One hundred and twenty-six were suffering from the first attack, fifteen from the second, twelve from the third, two from the fourth, one each from the fifth, seventh and eighth.

The prevailing forms of disease were chronic delusional, mania, delusional melancholia, acute mania, and acute melancholia.

Heredity was a factor in thirty per cent of those admitted; masturbation in ten per cent; intemperance and epilepsy twenty per cent.

The average age of those admitted was forty-six years, seventy-nine per cent were residents of Vermont, and fifty-four per cent were born in the State.

The whole number of patients treated in the two years was three hundred and twenty-three, viz.: one hundred and seventy-nine men, and one hundred and forty-four women.

The total number of discharges in the two years was one hundred and three, viz : recovered, fifty; improved, nineteen; not improved, two; died, thirty-two.

The percentage of recoveries on the whole number admitted was: men, thirty-six per cent; women, twenty-five per cent.

The average duration of insanity before admission in those discharged recovered, was eighteen weeks.

The percentage of deaths on the whole number under treatment was: men, nine per cent; women, ten per cent.

It is an interesting fact that six of the men who died had been continuous residents of the Retreat as follows: one, fifty-two years; one, fifty years; two, forty-eight years; one forty-five years; one, forty-three years.

One woman had been a resident thirty-three years, and another twenty-five years.

The average length of residence of those who died was thirteen years and one month; the average age being sixty-five years.

Lawrence F. Patton, a graduate of Dartmouth Medical College, was appointed second assistant physician in August,

ADMISSION OF PATIENTS.

Blank forms necessary for the admission of patients will be furnished on request, and it is especially important to remember that medical certificates are not valid, under the present law, if executed more than ten days prior to bringing the patient to the Retreat.

Patients can be received only when accompanied by physicians' certificate of insanity complete in all particulars.

Those seeking admission from without the State, and those brought with defective papers, may be examined by physicians residing in this town, after their arrival at the institution.

The terms for private patients vary according to the accommodations and attentions demanded.

The ordinary rates include one room, medical attendance, medicine, board, nursing, and the service of attendants at all times. Handsomely furnished suites can be had at moderate rates. A bond for support is required to be executed at the time of admission.

Applications for admission of patients and letters of inquiry should be addressed to the superintendent,

Trustees' Report.

To His Excellency, the Governor of the State of Vermont:

The Trustees of the Vermont Asylum for the Insane, present this, their Fifth Biennial Report, for the information of the General Assembly.

During the past two years much has occurred worthy of your attention.

An appropriation of twenty-two thousand dollars was made by the last General Assembly for the construction of a pathological laboratory, a cold storage plant, a new ventilating system for the south wing of the Asylum, and other improvements.

Reference to the statistical tables will show that the expenditures have exceeded the sum appropriated by four thousand four hundred and ninety-seven dollars and fifty-eight cents.

Our buildings were originally erected to hold four hundred and fifty patients. Since our last report the Annex (Shepley Cottage) has been completed and accommodates twenty-five additional patients

Reference to the statistical tables will show that the average number of patients during the biennial period has exceeded five hundred; so that the Asylum has been to that extent overcrowded.

We believe the biennial period which has just closed has been one of remarkable success. Many reforms have been introduced in the management; physical restraint has been practically abolished; the dietetics of the institution have been greatly improved; the danger of fire has been materially lessened by the new water system; the grounds have been improved by grading and the planting of shrubbery; the attendants secured have been men and women of greater intelligence and better training than formerly.

Feeling the need of more land, in the spring of 1897 we leased the farm of James Somerville for a term of two years at an annual rent of one thousand dollars, and at the same time took a bond for the purchase of the property for eight thousand dollars, the rental in excess of the interest of the purchase money to be deducted from the purchase price, provided the State consummates the terms of the bond. The farm is the only one convenient to our property that can at the present time be purchased at a reasonable price. Estimates have been made of the amount of the wood and timber now standing on it—and we think the estimates reasonable—as follows: Three hundred and seventy-five thousand feet of hemlock lumber, seventy-five thousand feet of spruce and one thousand two hundred cords of hard wood. If this was sold the price of the farm would be very low. The land is well suited for garden purposes, and land of this sort is much needed.

The religious, social and intellectual exercises at the chapel have been a force to divert the minds of the inmates and have acted favorably upon their physical constitutions, and, together with the increased amount of outdoor exercise, have proved a potent factor towards restoring their diseased minds to a normal condition.

In order to secure the most competent nurses possible, a training school in connection with the Asylum is being established.

Reference to the statistical tables will show that the movement of population has been toward our State Asylums.

In 1889–90, the average number of inmates of the State Asylums was less than five hundred. In 1897–98 this average was over seven hundred, thus showing an increase, during the past eight years, of over two hundred.

The Trustees feel that unless the laws referring to the support of the State insane and dotards are radically changed, the influx to the State institutions will steadily continue to increase.

The towns and cities have found how easy it is under the statute to have their defective wards committed to State care. The people, themselves, also, are learning to appreciate the advantages of the modern mental hospital.

Furthermore, the decrease of infantile mortality of recent years tends to the survival of the unfit, and consequently the number of defective individuals will probably increase, rather than diminish. The strain and stress of modern civilization undoubtedly does and will continue to contribute to our nerve hospitals.

A class of feeble minded persons above the condition of the recognized idiot, in the community, is a matter of public concern, since without special guidance they are apt to drift into immorality and crime The supervision of this class by the State would diminish the number of insane, paupers and criminals.

The Trustees feel that they cannot too highly commend the services of their Superintendent, who has been ably seconded by officers and employes.

For the expenditures and income of the Asylum, reference may be made to the statistical tables.

The rules and regulations of the institution are also appended.

Superintendent's Report.

To the Board of Trustees:

I have herewith the honor to submit the following report, comprising the fifth biennial period of work accomplished in this Asylum, to wit, from July 1st, 1896, to June 30th, 1898.

Within this period two superintendents have had charge. The report covers, therefore, six months of administrative work not my own, and in regard to which I have no personal knowledge other than that of a statistical character, which is a matter of record, and which also appears in the tables found in the appendix. Since January 1st, 1897, the work has been wholly under my own supervision and hence my information respecting it is definite.

Great as have been the magnitude and responsibilities of the work undertaken; conspicuous and notable the changes made; laborious and trying the difficulties overcome, all incidental to an original faulty organization and superadded mistakes, the progress made and the results attained are as satisfactory as can be reasonably expected. None but those who have been intimately associated with me in the work, and those who absolutely know what was required and what has been done can fully or justly appreciate the obstacles surmounted or the measure of success achieved. Despite all the anxieties and disappointments with which we have had to contend, the growth for the better has been steady. Yet had I not had your most earnest co-operation and cordial support, I am sure that the results could not have been as gratifying as they now appear. For this unanimity and liberality with which you have seconded every effort to raise the standard of the Asylum, I am deeply grateful.

During the period there were thirteen re-admissions. Of these two were admitted and discharged twice; thus the total number of 715 cases treated represented 702 persons.

Of the total number of patients admitted within the period 63 were regarded as curable, 3 were not insane and 138 were chronic or incurable. Of the 63 curable patients 25 have recovered and 38 are still under treatment with every prospect of ultimate recovery. Notwithstanding the general belief in the incurability of insanity, facts incontestably prove that the majority of the insane do recover if proper treatment is early instituted. Unfortunately, for various reasons, the friends of patients refrain from sending their insane to a properly constituted hospital, such as this Asylum is intended to be, until the hope of cure is well nigh, if not wholly lost. Care, therefore, seems to be the end sought, not cure; at least, care only can be afforded those 138 persons who are absolutely incurable, not the cure that was their right, if justice had not been denied them under a mistaken idea that hospitals for the insane should be a last resort.

The statistics relative to the duration of insanity previous to admission prove the truth of these observations, for out of the 217 admissions, representing 204 persons, insanity had existed from less than one month to over ten years. Deducting those whose duration is unknown, and those whose insanity existed one year or more, we have only 85 persons whose mental disturbance was of less than one year's duration. Yet we find that only 63 persons of the total number were regarded as curable, and of these 25 recovered. By referring to Table No. 15 it is observed that the inception of insanity in 28 persons was of less than one month's duration. The obvious discrepancy is apparent only, not real, and is easily explained by the fact that one-half of those admitted were beyond 45 years of age, in many of whom brain degeneration had already begun. On reference, however, to another table we find that of the 25 recoveries within the period, the duration of insanity of 17 had existed less than one month, thus substantiating the claim advanced that the curability of this disease is reasonably certain if early undertaken under advantageous surroundings. In the remaining 8 recoveries, the insanity had existed two, three, five, twelve and twenty-four months respectively. Of the 25 recoveries of recent cases, the duration of stay in the hospital of 20 was six months and under; while 5 recoveries necessitated a sojourn of seven, eight, eleven and eighteen months respectively. One of these, a female, would have recovered earlier, and thus come within a year's limit, had not her chances been handicapped by a too early discharge, contrary to advice, and which necessitated a return, the patient being in a much worse condition than on previous admission, within three days after her conditional discharge.

In this connection I would respectfully call your attention to the law, which must indeed be faulty, that fails to give a Superintendent, who alone can best be the judge of the mental condition of any State patient, the power of discharge. As the law now stands, this power is not vested in him, but rests wholly with your Board of Supervisors, who, however distinguished they may be in their profession, cannot have in a regular monthly visitation that opportunity for thorough observation and study of the insane their duties demand, and which daily contact alone can give. However valuable the Board may be, and this is not gainsaid, a short visit, or a hurried consultation with patients is devoid of thoroughness and not conducive to a clear understanding of any case.

Of all forms of disease mental disturbances require clearness of conception and soundness of judgment to enable one to act intelligently. In the same connection, I would refer to the inability of this Board and of the Superintendent, to grant a parole to any patient. This the law neither provides for nor permits. Instead, the Supervisors have the power to grant conditional discharges. Moreover, when such a discharge extends to a period of three years it may be seriously questioned whether recommitment without due process of law does not interfere with the inalienable right of every one to the enjoyment of liberty. Thus the present method, though economical for the State, is unsatisfactory.

Allusion is here made to these points, not in contravention of the Supervisors' rights and powers, or as a matter of criticism, but merely in the interests of the insane, who, in spite of their misfortunes and infirmities have certain rights equal to the best of us, which should be carefully preserved. It seems to me that if the law could be modified sufficiently to enable the Superintendent to exercise his best judgment in the matter of parole and discharge, without referring to the Supervisors, that the patients would be benefited, the rights of the Supervisors not invaded and the interests of the public fully guarded.

Of those d scharged within the same period, 55 recovered, and 58 were improved, thus showing that the hospital is doing a beneficent work within the intent and spirit of the law which established it. During the same period, there were 74 deaths—49 males and 25 females. The fatality based on the total number under treatment is not great—10.34 per cent—especially when it is remembered that soon after assuming charge in January, 1897, a severe epidemic of la grippe attacked patients and attendants alike. While a new regime, with the natural changes of attendants rendered the care of the patients exceedingly difficult and trying. I am happy to state none suffered by reason of neglect or want of suitable treatment

As will be noticed by reference to the appended table of ages at death, out of the 74 who died, 3 were between 80 and 90; 12 between 70 and 80; 19 between 60 and 70; 12 between 50 and 60, and 10 between 45 and 50, making a total of 56 persons who were 45 years of age and upward. Pneumonia was a frequent complication and sometimes the immediate cause of death, yet an important factor in the mortality was the weakened powers of resistance incidental to long continued mental disease.

Later in the season a case of measles was brought into the Asylum by a new male attendant, who had been exposed before he reported for duty, and though the spread of the disease was confined within narrow limits it was not altogether stamped out by isolation. Thus this additional charge on the resources of the Asylum already strained by reason of an inadequate number of attendants, together with the development of sporadic cases of erysipelas, greatly increased the work and lent additional anxiety to those who had the management and care of the infirmary wards already filled to overflowing. To their credit can be added words of praise for their fidelity and devotion. Since that time the general health of the Asylum has been reasonably good, for where so many are congregated together bodily ills must prevail to a greater or less extent.

ATTENDANTS.

It was seen soon after assuming charge that many changes were requisite in order to maintain effective discipline; to render administrative work successful and to elevate the character of the hospital. A process of elimination was immediately instituted. By degrees the inefficient and inapt employes in all departments gave place to those who could be effective and who would willingly and faithfully observe all instructions. The results attained attest the wisdom of the plan pursued, though they have not been accomplished without many attending difficulties and some feeling. The process of elimination, however, steadily continued until at present, it is safe to assert, the attendants are second to none in devotion to duty, in earnestness of purpose and in gentleness of management to those under their charge. This is evidenced by the elevated tone of the home, the general cleanliness and neatness of both halls and patients, and the increased comforts and contentment of the patients themselves. The female attendants, for more than a year, have been uniformed, which readily distinguishes them from the patients and adds in many ways to an enhanced morale so essential in any hospital of this kind. It is proposed ultimately to uniform the male attendants. The establishment of a training school, also, is expected to elevate the service.

IMPROVEMENTS.

Successful administration can only be effectual when the facilities at hand are right and proper; if none exist then it becomes apparent that administration must suffer and success be doubtful. This is as true of hospital management as it is of matters pertaining to war, whether on land or sea. Dewey, without proper ships and guns, could not have attained his splendid victory; so here, a good laundry, a good kitchen, a good bake shop and a good power house are requisite and important. Among the early improvements made was a re-arrangement and reconstruction of the laundry, the old affair having failed to accomplish the work expected of it. Saturday evening invariably found the work incomplete and inadequately performed. The old quarters, as I found them, were cramped, inefficient and untidy, as might be expected from the use and storage of coal in close proximity to washing machines and ironing boards. The new sterilizer, washing machine and wooden tubs, which were found unset, were immediately placed in position, and the rest of the machinery removed from the middle room of the laundry and reset in the washing room, save that the small, dilapidated drying closet was destroyed and the inefficient second-hand mangle exchanged for a new one. A new floor was laid, a large dry-room constructed, a new mangle capable of effective work was set, new folding ironing boards and heaters, heated by gasoline, were substituted for the old ones, and a sorting or distributing room, together with the necessary boxes for clothing, constructed. In addition pipes were laid from the laundry engine to utilize exhaust steam for both heating and drying purposes. These changes have proved of inestimable value in conducting the work which could not have possibly been done without them

Without going into a minute detail of the many changes and improvements undertaken, with all of which you are familiar, a rapid survey, not in actual sequence of work done, will indicate what these changes have been. They are a rebuilding of the oven in the bakery, necessitated by the caving in of its dome; the strengthening of 40 feet of the power house chimney with iron braces and connecting rods on account of its having become badly cracked and shaky; the construction of a locked store room for stores; the partitioning of a room in the basement for crude drugs and other medicinal supplies which the dispensary could not hold; the occupation of the bookkeeper's room for a dispensary or surgery, with the attending changes of new doors for convenience of access, the closing up of others and the building of shelves and drawers such as are found in every drug store, the old passageway giving place to a lavatory for the surgery's use; the formation of a medical library and the building of cases for it. A good working library is the tools with which the professional man works, and is as essential to his and the hospital's success as are farming implements to the farmer. It is, therefore, hoped that some provision will be made for the continuance and enlargement of this library. This will need to be done if the new Pathological building, now constructed and awaiting furnishing, is to prove of that degree of usefulness expected of it, and is to be an incentive to earnest, thoughtful work in advancing the interests of the insane, and in developing improved methods for their treatment and care.

Other improvements have also been instituted: the old dispensary has been utilized as a store room for dry goods and for the Matron's working room, and new shelving put in it; the walls, floors, ceilings and woodwork in many parts of the building have been cleaned, dressed and newly painted, notably on the south or male wing; a few halls, etc., on the north or female side have been freshened with paint and new window screens added; many of the iron gratings have been removed and replaced by ordinary wire mosquito netting, doing away with the prison-like appearance characteristic of this Asylum; some conveniences for the female attendants have been introduced, such as bureaus, commodes, wardrobes, etc.; strips of carpeting have been laid along the corridors on two halls; rugs have been put on some of the day room floors; portieres have been hung at the ends of corridors, and all the windows on the female side curtained; a case of books, formerly in the Superintendent's office, has been moved to the female convalescent hall, and many other trifling changes made, having in view the greater comfort and convenience of the inmates.

FIRE DOORS.

An important and valuable improvement has been the hanging of thirty-five doors in the basement and on the first floor of both wings, which, with the putting in of new hydrants, reduces the danger of fire to the minimum.

Digitized by Google

ANNEX.

Another valuable change has been the removal of gratings from the windows of the Annex, formerly called Shepley cottage; the complete renovation, repair, furnishing and occupancy of this building, which is now an open ward for the use of the quieter patients. This separation from the rest adds greatly to their happiness.

HEATING AND VENTILATION.

The changes made in the old heating apparatus of the south wing last year, which necessitated the setting of a new steam boiler, an alteration in the smokestack and much cutting out of floors, partitions, etc., has proved, though annoying at the time, eminently satisfactory. The fans, run by motors, furnish an ample supply of fresh air at all times, and insure thorough and efficient ventilation.

GROUNDS.

Not the least of the improvements made has been the grading of the grounds in and about the buildings. That in front has changed the general outlook and aspect of the whole Asylum. The old road has given place to a new and thoroughly macademized one, which enters on one side of the large lawn, passes through the porte cochere and out on the other side, first making a circuit about a large oval flower bed. On the north side the grading has been completed and a well grassed lawn adds greatly to the attractiveness of the place. To avoid an excess of surface water in early spring and late fall, the grounds being the natural drainage for our neighbors, four catch basins were built and connections made with each through a six and an eight inch drain pipe to a central one, and from this the water carried to the river through a ten inch pipe. On the south side the grading is still progressing. It will be treated in essentially the same manner with the addition of circuitous paths and a fountain in front of the Supervisors' door. Later, when opportunity presents, what is now a window in front of the female Supervisor's door, will be changed to a door, and the lawn, intersected with winding paths, and having a fountain in front, will be made to harmonize with the opposite side. In the rear of the Asylum, where the grounds fall rapidly away from the buildings, much filling in has been done. A large yard to be used by a class of patients who cannot be seen in front, has been fenced in, back of Ward 1, north, and will prove a source of relief to those who cannot take long walks without undue fatigue, and will secure to them opportunities for exercise and fresh air at all seasons of the year. Between Wards 6 and 7, and 8 and 9, on the same side, another fence is soon to be built to give the troublesome, excited and chronic insane opportunity for exercise.

On the male side the same plan is to be pursued, though from the exposure of the place and its proximity to the kitchen and criminal wards, it will be less secluded. These changes are essential to enable me to carry out plans for the more humane and successful treatment of the insane.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.

The purchase of a new steam boiler, which was rendered necessary by an extension of the heating system, and the fact that two of the engines which were belted to the smaller dynamos were nearly worn out (having been purchased as second hand machines at the time of their installation), led us to consider the advisability of purchasing a new engine and generator. This was rendered imperative by the possibility of an accident to the smaller engine, which, should one have occurred, would have prevented lighting half the plant. As a result of your forethought and promptness, a new self-oiling Ideal engine, with direct connection with a General Electric Generator, was secured. This particular make was chosen because its manufacturers offered it at a lower price than other competitors. The lighting capacity of this engine of 150 horse power, and of the generator of 75 kilo-watts, is about 1400 lights. Thus, with the addition of the old plant, we are now provided for all possible contingencies and have sufficient power for some extension of the present plant, provided that the second-hand engine now in use does not break down. The inadvisability, from an economical standpoint, of purchasing such worn out machinery as I have found here, has had ample illustration and verification. The new engine is noiseless, the generator proves thoroughly satisfactory, and we are reasonably secure against mishaps.

COLD STORAGE.

The construction of this valuable adjunct for the proper care and safe keeping of food products of various kinds has already proved of inestimable value; our meats are sweet and free from the effects of change in temperature; our butter is unacted upon by unhealthy and improperly constructed refrigerators, and our milk, which is here an important article of diet, is free from decomposition, and is not affected by electric storms. The refrigeration is induced by a generator of the York Manufacturing Company, of York, Pa., and at present is kept running night and day, the power being supplied by an electric motor, and the liquid used to secure refrigeration being anhydrous ammonia. The only regret is that we did not then, at small additional cost, procure ice-making facilities. This could have been done without enlarging the present generator, and would have furnished us 1600 pounds of pure ice daily, an amount in excess of our present consumption. This, however, is a matter for future consideration.

PATHOLOGICAL BUILDING.

Allusion has been made to the new Pathological building completed last winter. This building contains also the mortuary and lecture room. This with the new brick wall built around the criminal yard, and the cold storage plant just mentioned, was a part of legislative appropriation. In my opinion the expenditure has been most wise and judicious. The building is convenient, well constructed, without ornamentation and thoroughly adapted for the purposes for which it was erected, and is, I believe, second to none in New England. It will afford the medical staff, when properly equipped for scientific purposes, the long wished for opportunity for scientific study and investigation, the end in view being a comprehensive and minute study into the diseased conditions that terminate in insanity, that shall redound alike to the honesty and energy of original research, and the honor of the State, who has so wisely constructed the building. To make it useful, however, requires an additional outlay, no provision having been made for its furnishings or equipment. The auditorium or lecture room is to be used for lectures when the training school is established, and for various other purposes. It has already been used by the friends of deceased patients to hold divine services in on the occasion of their burial.

RESTRAINT.

After so much has been said about material improvements and new construction, it may well be asked what has been done for the patients, who should be the objects of our bounty and tenderest care. In the first place both the mental and physical condition of many was immediately improved by being removed from the unhealthy, ill-ventilated and unheated rooms in the basement with its cold cemented floors, to pleasant and sunny dormitories on other floors. The mechanical restraint was also removed—not at once, for the attendants, accustomed to old methods, could not be induced to acceed to a measure that seemed to them unwise, and bold even to rashness. Changes became imperative and orders were strictly enforced. General and specific rules were framed and established to cover every contingency liable to arise. That they could not fully accomplish this is evident from the nature of things, though they were sufficiently explicit to enable one of right intention to act intelligently in every emergency. Finally, on demonstrating to the attendants the advantages to be gained by a rigid adherence to non-restraint in the general tractableness of the patients and their easier and more successful management, the object was speedily attained.

For nearly sixteen months mechanical restraint has ceased to exist as a means for the care and control of the insane in this Asylum. The use of drugs, sometimes called chemical restraint, is as strictly forbidden as the other. The wisdom of this attitude is unquestionable.

In the next place great improvement has been made in the matter of diet: the variety has been increased; the quality improved and changes frequently made to relieve it from monotony. It now compares favorably with that furnished by any State hospital for the insane in the country.

In the third place much has been done to make the patients more comfortable and contented, and to eliminate so far as practicable the "alms house" characteristic so apparent on January 1, 1897, and to elevate the Asylum to the plane of a hospital for the proper care and treatment of insane invalids. While to many this must be a place of permanent detention, since from the incurability of their disease they can never be removed, yet much can and should be done to ameliorate their condition, and it is the province of the State to do this. But while she does it, she must not lose sight of the fact that though unfortunate, the insane should have all the rights and liberty consistent with the best care and supervision. Hence enactments should be wisely framed and be devoid of laxity of expression; it should be impossible to confine one within hospital walls when the question of insanity is an open one. In the interests of the insane and the rights of all, a revision of the laws relative to the examination, certification and commitment should be promptly made. The statute should be such as to make the admission of the non-insane to an Asylum absolutely impossible.

In the last place, without alluding to many other methods, all tending to "ministering unto a mind diseased," the last innovation is the doing away with the seclusion of patients. While it is too early to speak too confidently of its total abolition, I hope to be rid of its necessity before long. Of a total of 504 patients, but few, three or four at most, are secluded in their rooms, and then only occasionally, in order to avoid collision and trouble with other patients, or because of an impulsive tendency to be destructive. When the exercising yard is completed I hope it may modify even the necessity for this small amount of seclusion.

EMPLOYMENT.

So far as is possible employment has been given to those patients who are able to work. Many more, however, could be employed if the Asylum had a properly constructed and arranged workshop for industrial uses. I recognize the importance of employment for the insane and hope for such facilities in the near future. The men, as a rule, find opportunities for work on the farm and lawn, or in the garden, while the women, outside the sewing room, laundry and kitchen find no such healthful occupation, and with them industrial employment is a problem. The proper use of weakened muscles strengthens them; so the judicious exercise of a mind diseased under competent instructors strengthens it and fills it with something better than its vagaries. It is intended as soon as practicable to use some of the vacant basement rooms under the female wards for industrial purposes, and also to engage an instructor that mental employment may occupy the attention of some and, we hope, be a means of cure. The results in other hospitals for the insane attest its value.

FINANCES.

By reference to the financial exhibit it will be seen that there was chargeable to this biennial period $14,688.66 stock on hand June 30, 1896, which, however, on inventory, January 1, 1897, had diminished to $3,350.99. In spite of this fact and the extensive improvements and repairs made, the weekly per capita cost for the period has been $3.32, a result eminently satisfactory when the former condition of affairs is thoroughly understood. The increased cost over the first six months of this biennial period is twenty-one cents, and is due to a large expenditure for furnishings which should have been made at the time the new female wards were opened.

Digitized by Google

SUGGESTIONS.

I hold it to be your aim, as well as that of the State whose interests you represent and conserve, to elevate the standard of the Asylum and to make it a truly representative hospital for mental diseases. Your generosity and cordial support certainly suggests this It will be noticed that I have frequently used the word "Hospital" instead of "Asylum," when referring to this institution. I have done so advisedly, recognizing that though the word Asylum in this instance is a part of the proper legal designation of the place, it has now yielded to the use of the other in many States, under a conviction that it more fully represents what the character and object of the work is. Modern thought and tendencies show this, and though a hospital it is a specialized hospital for the care of specialized diseases, to-wit, insanity; and that in proportion as the work is carried along these lines, the success becomes more fully assured.

This change of name robs the place of many of its terrors, and removes the idea of abuses and inhumane treatment from the minds of the laity. Hence this movement to class every Asylum as a hospital is of positive advantage. To this end, and that the State may fall into this line of progress, I respectfully suggest that the Legislature be petitioned to change the present designation of the Asylum to the "Vermont State Hospital for the Insane."

The year and a half during which I have been associated with your honorable Board in this work, while it has brought added cares and responsibilities, has also shown me how much has been done, and how much more is still needed in the way of enlarged facilities to successfully conduct this work. The State, already committed to this plan with its extensive buildings and its patients in excess of actual accommodations, cannot now recede with honor to herself, and maintain the high standard she seeks. A new ward for the acute insane is imperatively needed. Though as good and thorough a classification of the patients has been made as could be expected, it is far from satisfactory in that the acute and chronic cases are of necessity obliged to associate with each other. This is wholly wrong though unavoidable. A new ward for recent or acute cases would obviate this and increase our facilities for their proper care and treatment and enable better work to be done. But if approved, it should be built after thoroughly recognized scientific principles, and in accordance with the most advanced ideas of hospital construction.

Another matter for consideration is what shall be done with the dotards, who now take up so much of our room which could be used to better advantage. As they require, not medical treatment, but physical care, the "bonded Somerville farm," if purchased as proposed, offers the correct solution to the problem. A comfortable but inexpensive building could be erected there for their use, and they transferred. The proximity of that farm to the main hospital buildings would secure to these people the necessary supervision and such medical treatment as they might require. This would insure us a much needed relief, but it would not be a substitute for the acute wards, before mentioned, as greatly needed.

NURSES' HOME.

Perhaps no greater need is felt than that of a separate building for our female attendants, where they can get away from the depressing influences and environments of their work. At present, when "off duty," they are obliged to take the ordinary school girls' "constitutional" on the street, or else seek their own rooms, which adjoin those of the patients on the same halls. On the excited wards this is especially objectionable. They are thus living in an atmosphere of constant and continued invalidism and unhealthy mental action. This is bad for the patients, also, who require at all times the invigorating influence of healthy and cheerful minds, and this, under the present arrangements, cannot be maintained. The best efforts cannot be obtained from those who are fatigued in mind and body in consequence of wakeful nights. Serenity of mind, and cheerfulness of disposition are not improved by bad hygienic surroundings, where noise, constant interruptions and never ending mental invalidism are ever present. A suitable home for these, when off duty, would afford them the much needed rest and diversion and would prove of incalculable benefit in rejuvenating and refreshing an overworked nurse. It is hoped that the necessity for the erection of such a home is fully apparent without further comment.

Until this can be done to attract nurses to this institution, I question whether the establishment of a training school can be made a success. Not that the home and the nurse are necessarily co-related, but because in the additional burdens imposed upon them by study and other duties incidental to school work and methods, without satisfactory provision for privacy, a hindrance, rather than an incentive will be found. Still, initiatory steps have been taken to insure the success of the training school. It is expected to be ready in the early fall and it is hoped that it will have the same influence in elevating our service that it has had in other hospitals for the insane.

DONATIONS.

During the past period we have been the recipient of magazines, journals, etc., from various people resident in Waterbury and elsewhere, to each and all of whom I here offer my grateful acknowledgement. Especially would I mention Mr. J. H. Colby for magazines and papers, Mrs. Fred Atkins for the Ladies' Home Journal, Mrs. M. A. Grant for magazines, Hon. Elihu B. Taft for magazines, serials, etc., the Burlington Free Press and the Vermont Watchman for exchanges, and Captain L. W. Page for pictures now hung in the wards. These generous gifts have proved of great interest and value to the patients.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.

Divine service has been held regularly every Sunday in the chapel during the entire period of my connection with the Asylum, save in the months of July and August. These services have been conducted by the Rev. Mr. Newton, Rev. Mr. Ladd, Rev. Mr. Willman and the Rev. Dr. William J. Harris.

OFFICIAL STAFF.

Several changes have occurred in the medical staff. Dr. Bidwell, the first assistant, who had rendered efficient service, resigned in October, '97, to engage in private practice. His position was filled by Dr. Geo. B. Coon, who came from the Taunton Lunatic Hospital. He, in turn, resigned to engage in another specialty. The position was then filled by advancing Dr. J. B. McKenzie from second to first assistant; Dr. C. G. Andrews, who was elected in October, '97, to fill the newly created position of third assistant, was advanced to second assistant, while his former position still remains vacant. Dr. J. H. Linsley of Burlington was elected in October, '97, to be non-resident pathologist of the hospital, but as yet has not entered upon the active duties of the position. The position of matron, which was filled in February, '97, by Miss S. Thomas, was relinquished after a little more than one year's service. It is expected that it will soon be filled by Miss Harriet A. Seaver, a graduate of the Boston City Hospital Training School. She is highly recommended by its superintendent, and has been matron of an Asylum on the Pacific coast.

CONCLUSION.

To my present staff of officers, who have shown rare fidelity and zeal in the prosecution of their work, and whose devotion has been untiring, I would extend my grateful appreciation. To all the other employes, who, all in their respective spheres, have lent their earnest endeavors to do honest and thorough work, I would offer my thanks. But to you, gentlemen of the board, who have sustained me in all I have undertaken, and by your advice, sympathy and cordial support have enabled me to succeed when at times the outlook seemed discouraging, I would offer my sincere and grateful acknowledgments.

Very respectfully,

FRANK W. PAGE,
Superintendent.

July 4, 1898.

SERVICE MANUAL.

Every nurse and employe undertaking work in this asylum must sign the subjoined agreement as a prerequisite for employment, to which they will be rigidly held.

The institution is not a place for indolent or indifferent people; nor will any person be employed who seeks work for a temporary period "simply to see what it is like" or to piece out a vacation. After two months trial, if satisfactory, every nurse, in accordance with the terms of the contract, must engage for two years, otherwise they will not be accepted. If they cannot accede to these terms they need not seek work here.

CONTRACT.

I hereby agree and promise to obey the rules of the Asylum, to faithfully execute all orders that may be given me by my superior officers, and to perform any duty assigned me, although not of the kind for which I specifically engage. I regard it as my bounden duty to promote the objects of the Asylum, to do my best to further the recovery of the patients, and to secure their comfort and safety to the best of my ability. I also agree not to bring into the Asylum any intoxicating liquors; to be careful of its property; to avoid all gossip as to its inmates, officers or affairs, and to endeavor generally by my own conduct and demeanor to sustain its reputation. If anything improper be done in my presence or to my knowledge, I pledge myself to promptly report the matter to the Superintendent or to one of the superior officers.

I acknowledge my engagement to be for two months, and if satisfactory, for two years, and agree to give one calendar month's notice should I wish to leave my situation.

I acknowledge the right of the Superintendent to discharge me without warning for acts of harshness or violence to patients, intemperance, misrepresentation, gossip or disobedience to orders.

As I recognize that every nurse who engages in the care of the insane is not by aptitude or temperament suited to the work, I agree that the Superintendent shall reserve the right to terminate such an engagement, without giving a reason therefor if he so thinks best, on either giving one week's notice or paying for this unworked service, to all of which I fully subscribe.

I also agree to the loss of one-half month's pay should I break my contract, and hereby accede to having this amount of my wages retained as an evidence of my good faith.

GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

As the care of the insane is unlike any other form of hospital nursing, the following rules, while nothing but an amplification, so far as it is possible to make them, of the above agreement or contract to which every nurse is expected to affix his or her signature, are formulated for daily instruction and guidance. They can by no means cover every possible contingency that may arise in this or any other institution; but as they are sufficiently explicit and broad enough, if thoroughly mastered, to subserve the purpose, they will enable nurses of honest intention and disposition to successfully carry on the work and faithfully execute their orders.

There is probably no place in the world where so many disagreeable, exasperating and aggravating persons are congregated together, as within the walls of a hospital for the insane. Hence it requires the persistent, long continued exercise of kindness and firmness, together with a gentleness of demeanor, and the highest degree of judgment and tact to get along with them. The work, therefore, has to be learned, and though persons without tact may simulate it in a way, tact—that is, great kindness of heart with thorough unselfish thoughtfulness of others, if not innate, can never be acquired, though it counts for very much in the association with and management of the insane.

The position must of necessity be more or less menial, for so long as sickness shall exist, and its character be as we all know it to be, nursing will be required and needed to be done by those especially trained for it. In many quarters it has become a serious question, whether the present system of education which leads nurses to feel that they are a little better than nurses, and half doctors, and make them forget the more menial part of their duties, upon which after all their capabilities as successful nurses so much depends, is not of more harm than positive value to them.

Real, high-minded earnest work in nursing possesses value, and is an unmixed blessing, but only in one way—when it is thorough, conscientious work and the nurse is alike faithful to the patient and loyal to the physician.

But whether this criticism be true or not, the position as nurse or attendant in any hospital or asylum for the insane, is one of great trust and responsibility, in that nurses have under their charge, those who through affliction, cannot care for themselves, and upon whose fidelity the comfort, happiness and safety of the patients depend.

RULES.

1. Nurses should therefore be examples of absolue truthfulness, neatness, order and propriety of conduct. They are to bear in mind that their whole time is to be given to the Asylum; and that under no circumstances are they to work for themselves, or to have patients work for them without permission of the medical officer.

2. They are not to engage in reading or writing without permission, as their duties will be from early morning until the hour of "off duty," at night.

3. Indiscriminate visiting and running about from one hall to another, and to the supervisor's rooms is strictly prohibited. The telephone service was installed for needful and reasonable use, and it is expected that nurses will make judicious use of it, and not unnecessarily absent themselves from their respective halls.

4. They are not permitted to have patients in their rooms, nor are they expected to enter them while on duty, save at stated times, to care for them, or to arrange their dress, and this only by permission.

5. They are not to allow patients in the bath room except at stated times of bathing, and never alone. Neither are they to permit them in the box or clothing room, except by permission of the head nurse. This will not apply to melancholy and suicidal patients, who must at all times be excluded therefrom, lest they be afforded the opportunity they so constantly seek.

6. As diversion by various means is a valuable adjuvant to the treatment of the insane, they are enjoined to do all within their power to interest and amuse patients, irrespective of their mental condition, since by it the excited are soothed, the melancholy comforted, and the impulsive, irritable, destructive and untidy checked in their habits.

7. In the employment of patients, it is desired that nurses shall work with them and thus make it appear that they are assistants, not servants. A patient is not to be overtaxed.

8. They are to treat patients with impartial consideration, showing no favoritism. This applies as well to supervisors and head nurses as to others, and it is equally applicable to the relations that should exist between the supervisors and others.

9. They should always address patients by the prefix Mr., Mrs., or Miss, and not by their given names. Neither should they allow patients to so address them. Familiarity leads to contempt, and sooner or later respect is lost, and then their opportunity for good.

10. In addressing patients, a gentle tone of voice should be used, never harsh, irritating language; and as from the peculiarity of their condition, patients cannot always be expected to be civil—at least experience proves that they are not—this fact should never warrant incivility on the part of nurses. They therefore should exercise extreme care to avoid incivility as well as rudeness towards any patient. Neither should they wilfully maltreat, abuse, neglect or wrangle with any patient—on the contrary, they are expected to take special pains to be always gentle, kind and attentive.

11. If any patient is abused or otherwise ill-treated by any nurse or employe, an arrest and prosecution will inevitably follow in accordance with an act passed by the legislature at the session of 1896.

12. They are not to lounge about the halls, nor conduct themselves in a boisterous, unseemly or unbecoming manner; they are to remember that at all times they are men and women.

13. They are responsible for the safe keeping of all the property in their respective halls. If anything be unavoidably destroyed, they shall report the fact without delay, and it shall be immediately recorded in the damage book.

14. Nurses and all employes shall see that no waste is permitted. Head nurses shall be responsible for the furnishing of their halls, and the property of the patients in them.

15. They shall keep an inventory of all articles therein, and see that everything is kept in proper repair, in accordance with their lists, making requisitions for repairs—through the supervisor—before 9 A. M. All old articles must be produced before being condemned, as a renewal will not be permitted without their production.

16. They shall in no case visit friends of patients or receive money or presents without special permission of the superintendent.

17. They are warned against permitting one patient to ill-treat another, and under no circumstances must they delegate their duties to a patient without express permission to do so.

18. They are expected to report every instance of ill-treatment of a patient, and any nurse concealing such conduct will be deemed guilty of a gross misdemeanor, and will be dealt with accordingly.

19. They are especially warned against mimicry, deception, or irritation of patients. All civil questions should be courteously answered, and all reasonable requests be performed. A respectful demeanor towards patients should be maintained, and no vindictive feelings expressed, or profane language ever indulged in.

20. Patients shall not be subjected to privation, seclusion or mechanical restraint, without a special order from the superintendent or assistant physician. By seclusion is meant, being placed in a closed room alone during the day time, and by mechanical restraint, any restriction of bodily liberty by some appliance—as muffs, strait-jacket, camisole, etc. Such appliances are sometimes used to protect patients against injuring themselves or others, but unless under sudden attacks of violence when, to avoid injury to other patients, a patient may sometimes be placed in a room with the door unlocked, no form of restraint is admissible or will be allowed without express permission. No patient is to be detained or placed in bed before the stated time without sanction of the head nurse.

21. Should force be absolutely required, it must never be used singly, but additional assistance immediately procured, and one of the superior officers be at once summoned, before force be resorted to. Should a struggle be unavoidable in controlling violence, the knees must never be placed on the body of the patient. Fatal results have often been unintentionally occasioned in this way. On no account are the limbs to be twisted or forcibly bent.

22. In all cases of a struggle between a patient and nurse, or when force is required to control an excited patient, whether from a maniacal condition, or supervening upon an attack of epilepsy, immediate notice must be given to the Supervisors, or, in their absence, to the assistant Supervisors, who shall always be present. This will be as much of a protection to the nurse as to the patient, and thus avoid the tendency towards unjust accusations against nurses.

23. All nurses are under the authority of the Superintendent and medical officers, and heads of their respective departments.

24. Nurses are expected to exercise a constant supervision over the patients under their charge, except those on parole, consequently, they shall not remain in their own rooms during the day, nor shall they leave their work during hours of duty except in the discharge of it. A hall must never be left alone without a nurse thereon, when patients are on it.

25. As cleanliness and tidiness are of the highest importance, it is imperative that nurses should never wear curl papers in their hair while on duty—nor dress their hair on the halls:—if neat and orderly in their methods they will never resort to such evidences of slovenliness.

26. Special and unremitting attention must be given to newly admitted patients—to the suicidal, dangerous, destructive, dirty, and those disposed to escape; and it must never be forgotten, that the seemingly quiet and gentle patients are at times liable to become dangerous to themselves, or to others.

27. Immediately on admission, a patient is to be given a bath and the clothing carefully searched for knives, scissors or other articles that may be improperly made use of, and these, with all moneys, jewelry, etc., found on the person, after a careful memorandum has been made, be taken to the book-keeper for safe custody.

28. No time must be lost in ascertaining the habits, tendencies and condition of newly admitted patients, as indicated by their talk, actions, etc. It is of the greatest possible import to nurses, that all bruises and injuries should be noted and reported at once.

29. No patient shall be taken out of a hall for any purpose, or by any person, without the knowledge of the head nurse or supervisor, and when taken out—unless paroled—must be returned to the head nurse, who shall make proper note of such return.

30. When patients are being transferred from one hall to another, they must always be accompanied by a nurse, and prompt notice given of their arrival to the nurse in charge of that hall.

31. In making reports of the condition of any patient, it is not to be done in the presence of, either the patient or of others: neither is a nurse to reply to complaints made in the presence of medical officers save as she is requested to do so.

32. All accidents, acts of violence, or destructiveness, refusal of food, difficulty in swallowing, bodily illness, unusual mental symptoms, eruptions of the skin, shivering fits, threatening suicidal or homicidal language, depression of spirits or attempts to escape shall be reported without delay.

33. There must be no change made in the treatment without express orders by the medical officers; any interference of treatment on the part of a nurse will be a gross misdemeanor.

34. No patient shall go beyond the grounds of the Asylum without express permission to do so, nor shall a patient be permitted to absent himself from daily exercise, save by reason of sickness, dangerous excitement or other valid reason.

The hours of work must be strictly adhered to—except as may be specially sanctioned.

35. All meals must be served with great care, and as neatly and expeditiously as possible, and one or more nurses must always be present to wait upon the patients. Ample time must be given to all patients to eat their food, and no effort made to induce them to hurriedly finish. All defects as to quantity or quality of the food must be reported to the Superintendent through the matron without delay.

36. All articles of dietary for the sick and infirm must be properly administered, and only to patients for whom they are ordered. Stimulants and medicines must be punctually and carefully given and always according to the prescribed directions.

37. Nurses must slowly and carefully feed those patients who are unable to feed themselves—remembering never to use force. Patients who are on a liquid or minced diet, that is, the paralytic and helpless, are to be carefully guarded against the risk of eating the ordinary or more solid diet.

38. Forcible feeding, that is, feeding by a nasal or esophagean tube, must never be undertaken by a nurse—but only by one of the medical officers in the presence of the Supervisor and such assistance as may be required.

39. Nurses must take special precaution in regard to knives, forks, spoons, scissors, medicines (including disinfectants) in fact, in regard to every sort of an article liable to be improperly made use of by those of homicidal or suicidal tendencies, and the loss of any article must be reported to the head nurse.

40. Knives, forks, spoons, scissors and the like, must be used only in the presence of a nurse; at other times, they must be kept locked. They must always be counted at the hour of meals, and before patients leave the dining room.

41. When a loss is reported, a thoroughly rigid search must be immediately instituted. Frequent losses indicate carelessness on the part of the nurse. Reports of such a loss frequently recurring in the experience of the same nurse will be regarded as a gross misdemeanor to be dealt with accordingly. They are to bear in mind that their carelessness may be the occasion of either a homicide or a suicide, for which they will be held strictly responsible.

42. Keys must be constantly worn, but with as little display as possible. They are not to be loaned to anyone—never to a patient—and never under any circumstances taken beyond the grounds of the Asylum without permission. In going out for their outing nurses must leave them with the supervisors—to whom they shall report—both in going out and coming in.

43. Nurses should not allow any unauthorized person to enter their halls without permission from the Superintendent; they will avoid talking to visitors and others about the patients. They will refrain from giving such the names, or indicate their peculiarities, referring all inquiries of the kind to the physicians.

44. They shall not correspond with the friends or families of the patients, nor mail letters surreptitiously for them; all correspondence and letters must come through, and be referred to the Superintendent.

45. Broken ware and crockery of every description must be immediately removed, and the broken pieces preserved to enable the supervisors to make requisition upon the proper officers to replace them.

46. Matches must not be brought into the Asylum—and only such "safety ones" used as shall be permitted by the superintendent. They must never be given to patients without an express order, and then only to smokers when out at work never when on the halls or in the building.

47. Suicidal patients must be carefully and thoroughly searched on retiring and be kept under special supervision. Nurses must always remember that every case of melancholia, no matter how mild or severe, is always suicidal to a greater or less degree, and the seemingly quietest patient is often the most desperate.

48. As light, good air and cleanliness are of the highest importance for the maintenance of good health in any household, so here, in the Asylum where so many are congregated, it is imperative that all dirt should be removed as soon as made; that the halls should be well aired, exercising care to avoid drafts on patients; that they should also be well warmed, and dry, and that both hot and cold water should be plentiful. Every part of the house is liable to inspection without notice, hence must be scrupulously clean at all times.

49. Nurses therefore will see that all loose refuse, dirt, etc., be promptly removed; the toilet rooms, lavatories and closets be thoroughly and frequently cleansed.

50. Unused food and refuse from the table must be speedily returned to the kitchen. The disposition to delay in these matters is reprehensible, and indicates a slovenly nurse, and will not be tolerated.

51. As they are responsible for the care and cleanliness of the patients under their charge, they must give special attention to those of dirty and destructive habits. Soiled clothing is to be sent to the laundry at appointed times with an accurate list of every item, which must be properly marked with the name of the owner, or the hall and number. Deficiencies are to be reported without delay.

52. Wearing of patients' clothing is strictly prohibited. If such be ever ascertained to be the fact, it will subject a nurse to a prompt dismissal, besides necessitating a possible arrest for misappropriating the property of the state.

53. Special and prompt care must be taken in regard to the clothing of patients suffering from infectious or contagious diseases. It must be sent to the laundry separately and the laundry-man be made aware of its nature that it may be properly sterilized. By strict attention to this rule, infectious diseases may be partially eradicated, if not completely stamped out.

54. No patient is to be placed in the halls and sitting rooms in the morning without the latter being made as clean, warm and comfortable as possible.

55. In the matter of bathing patients, there must be a proper division of the work; each nurse shall bear her own proportion of it. The head nurse shall supervise, and have the aid of another by turns, if there are three nurses and over on a hall.

56. When there are only two nurses on a hall they shall alternate in the work. The room nearest the beginning of a hall shall be the head nurse's room, and in arranging for room-mates, it shall be first and third, and second and fourth in all halls having over three nurses.

57. Discharged nurses will not be permitted to return to visit, under any circumstances whatever. It must also be understood that discharged employes will not be permitted under any circumstances to visit other employes, nor will visitors be allowed to any except by special permission, between the hours of 2:30 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The morning hours must be given to the work at hand, and for the special benefit of the Asylum. All employes were engaged for this purpose and this only.

58. Night nurses and watches will not be allowed in the general kitchen under any circumstances whatever. Their food will be properly prepared and served for them in their respective general dining halls, at 6 A. M. and 6 P. M. Their lunches for midnight, they can take with them in lunch boxes, as they leave the evening meal. When tea is allowed, the general night watch will attend to its preparation and delivery. This rule means, that all night watches must keep out of the kitchen. An infringement, save in manner indicated, will be regarded as a gross misdemeanor to be dealt with accordingly.

59. Nurses who go out with patients must exercise extreme care that none escape. Should any wilfully neglect, or connive at an escape of a patient a prosecution may follow, and when resulting from gross carelessness the expense—in part, or whole—rendered necessary for the return of such patient, may be chargeable to and deducted from the wages of that nurse.

60. Pet animals of any kind are not allowed within the Asylum except by permission of the Superintendent.

61. Male nurses are absolutely forbidden the female department, and the females, the male department, save in the execution of some duty expressly sanctioned by the Superintendent. Nurses of each sex must then always be present.

62. The kitchen, laundry, boiler and dynamo house are absolutely forbidden to all nurses and employes—except in the discharge of assigned duties.

63. Visitors are admitted to the visiting rooms only, except by special permission of the medical officers; at all other times relatives of patients may be admitted, though for the convenience of the officers and that the usual routine work may not be interrupted or interfered with, they are requested to confine their visits as far as possible to the hours between 10:30 A. M. and 4 P. M. When patients have visitors they must be kept under constant observation, except by special permission, which is to be obtained on each occasion.

64. Visitors on the Sabbath will not be permitted except in case of serious illness.

65. Nurses may receive visitors, but they shall be announced to the supervisors and head nurses, and on no account shall such visits unduly interfere with the work of the Asylum. They will not be admitted during the morning hours.

67. Leave of absence will be arranged by the Superintendent on as liberal a scale as is consistent with the work to be done, and the exigencies of each individual case, but it must be distinctly understood that no leave can be claimed as a right. But regular hours for "off duty" will be provided for all.

68. Before going out nurses shall see that complete and thorough provision is made for the performance of their duties during their absence, and the nurse relieving them shall be informed of all occurrences, since the last medical visit. In the absence of any nurse, the other nurses on the hall shall be held responsible for his or her duty

69. While testimonials are neither promised not refused, relinquishing work before the end of a year's engagement, will work a forfeiture.

70. The head nurses will be held responsible for the management of their halls, and the safety and safe custody of the patients in them; this responsibility must be shared by the other nurses, under them During the temporary absence of the head nurse, the second nurse must undertake the duties; these will include the administration of medicines, reporting of symptoms, peculiarities of conduct, whether of patient or nurse, the general care and management of their halls, the safe keeping of the property, and of the patients therein.

71. The head nurses shall also make such reports and keep such books as may be deemed best; they shall count all patients from time to time, at meal hours, when going or returning from exercise or work—and on retiring and awaking. They shall also accompany the medical officer on his visit, unless accompanied by the supervisor.

72. Head nurses shall see that all patients are safely in bed at the appointed hour without having secreted clothing or other articles except as such are allowed to do so by special permission.

73. The night watch and nurses shall take charge of patients by making a tour of inspection with the head nurses before they go off duty, and shall receive their instructions from them, unless otherwise ordered by the superior officers.

74. The head nurses shall take over the patients in the same way, every morning, first personally inspecting every patient and ascertaining the bodily condition and state of bedrooms and dormitories.

RULES FOR BATHING OF PATIENTS.

1. The head nurse on each hall must personally supervise the bathing of patients, which shall not be conducted during their absence without permission.

2. Every patient is to be thoroughly searched and immediately bathed after admission, and once a week afterwards, unless excused by medical order. Should there be the least question or doubt as to the advisability of bathing any patient on account of sickness, feebleness or excitement, the matter should be immediately reported to the medical officer.

3. To provide against catching cold, the head nurse will see that the bath rooms are sufficiently warmed at bathing times, otherwise postpone bathing until the rooms are heated.

4. Any mark, bruises, wounds, sores, pain or evidence of disease complained of by the patient, or noticed during any bathing operation must be immediately reported to the physician.

5. During the use of the bath, the room is never to be left by the nurse, except by special permission of the Superintendent. When the room is not in use the door must be kept locked.

6. Before putting a patient into the bath, observe that the water is of proper temperature. It should not be less than 88 degrees nor above 98 degrees.

7. Never turn on the hot water when the patient is in the tub.

8. While in the bath the body of the patient is to be well cleaned with soap, and in washing the hair be careful that no soap gets into the patient's eyes. After leaving the water, special care must be taken to thoroughly dry the patients and clothe them as rapidly as possible.

9. A separate towel must be provided for each patient.

10. Under no pretence whatever is a patient's head to be put under water.

11. A nurse must not attempt under any circumstances to bathe a struggling or melancholic patient alone.

12. Cold baths must not be given.

13. Neither before nor after a bath will patients be allowed to stand about unclothed.

14. The keys are never to be left on the bath tub, nor are they to be used by the patients.

15. After bathing has been completed, the tubs must be carefully cleaned and dried.

16. Under no circumstances whatever will the washing of chambers in the bath tubs be tolerated. An infringement of this rule will subject a nurse to an immediate dismissal.

17. The rules and regulations must hang in each nurse's room for frequent reference and consultation.

DUTIES IN CASE OF FIRE.

1. Every precaution must be taken to guard against fire, but should one occur, it is expected that nurses will be cool, orderly and display judgment in carrying out the necessary orders. Should a blaze be started by reason of the burning out of an electric fuse, they are to remember that it is easily and quickly smothered with a woolen blanket. Never use cotton fabrics, they easily ignite and simply add fuel to the fire.

2. When a fire is discovered immediate notice, by telephone or messenger must be sent to the Superintendent, or Assistant Physicians and Engineer, giving exact information as to location and extent of the fire.

3. Every door and room must be unlocked and every patient no matter what their mental or physical condition may be must be taken out of their rooms and dormitories.

4. If the location of the fire be in any hall or room, the nurse on duty will immediately uncoil the hose nearest the house hydrant and turn on the water. For this reason it is expected that each nurse will familiarize himself or herself with the location of the different hydrants. The water is easily turned on by opening the value. Always turn to the right. In uncoiling the hose be sure that there are no kinks or twists before turning on the water.

5. If the fire is in any other part of the building, they will first get the patients out of their rooms, and remain in the hall awaiting further orders.

6. If it becomes necessary to remove patients they will do so in a calm and orderly manner without haste, and by that exit the most remote from the fire. Haste and confusion in halls and on stairways should be carefully avoided.

7. After patients have been removed the nurses must remain with them, keeping them together and await orders from the Superintendent, Assistant Physician or Supervisors.

DUTIES OF THE SUPERVISORS.

1. The supervisors will be held responsible for the care of their respective sides, under the Superintendent of Nurses, and with her aid, and that of the medical officers, so plan their work, that it shall be properly divided, having relation to fairness and equality of work.

2. They shall have a general oversight of the halls and the patients, and the tact and care with which their duties are performed, will be an important factor in the well being of the house. It is expected that they shall see that all rules relating to patients are carefully and specifically observed; that all patients are treated with uniform courtesy, and it shall be their imperative duty to immediately report to the Superintendent or Assistant Physicians any instance of neglect, incivility or ill-usage of the patient or any violation of the established rules.

3. They shall see that all medicines prescribed by the medical officers are faithfully and properly administered. and that all directions of the medical staff are strictly obeyed.

4. They shall be expected to pass as much time on the halls as the proper discharge of their duties will admit. They shall instruct new attendants and nurses in their duties, and as much as possible assist them in their efforts to interest and employ the patients.

5. They must see that the dining rooms are furnished with the necessary utensils, that the attendants take proper care of the dining rooms, that the china closets are sweet and clean and in good order, and that the tables are neatly set and the meals properly served.

6. They shall have the general charge of the clothing of the patients and an oversight of the beds and bedding on the halls. They shall ascertain from the attendants any deficiency if any may exist, and it shall be their duty to see that such wants are supplied.

7. Immediately upon admission of a patient, they shall see that a bath is given and that the clothing is carefully searched for knives, scissors or other articles that may be made improper use of, and these, with all moneys, jewelry, etc., found on the person, after a careful memorandum has been made, be taken to the clerk for safe custody. They shall mark their clothing and enter it into a book provided for the purpose. All articles afterwards furnished or received will be accounted for in the same manner. They shall also see, upon the discharge of the patient, that the clothing, neatly packed and delivered at the general office, compares with that on record.

8. They shall lose no time in ascertaining the habits, tendencies and condition of newly admitted patients. They shall also pay special attention to the sick, reporting promptly at the office any change of symptoms, and see that they have proper attention, and that any diet is delicately prepared and served.

9. They must take special precaution in regard to knives, razors and other dangerous articles in possession of the patients, and shall examine regularly every week the clothing of all patients for every sort of an article that is liable to be improperly used.

10. They shall pass regularly through all the halls early in the morning in order to learn the condition of the patients with a view of making frequent reports to the physicians of any sickness or any other fact demanding attention before these visits, and they shall pass through all the halls at ten P. M. to see that all lights are extinguished.

14. In general, the Supervisors are expected to hold themselves in readiness to carry out in an efficient and practical manner the instructions of the Superintendent, and to use their personal influence in support of all rules and regulations.

RULES FOR LAUNDRY.

1. The laundry and laundry lists of nurses and employes must be carefully made out, tied in proper bundles and deposited in the designated places Sunday evening, not on Monday morning, with the patients' clothing. If the laundry is not at the stated place at the designated time it will not be laundered until the following week.

2. The nurses in making out their lists, must exercise greater care in preparing them correctly; errors in counting are too frequent. Accurate lists must be regularly made out on the printed slips.

3. All articles of clothing must be plainly marked with the owner's full name—initials and monograms will not answer—otherwise they will not be laundered.

4. No fluting or extra fine washing—as for instance white dresses—frilled and fluted gowns or jackets—will under any circumstances be undertaken.

5. Soiled clothing must be properly delivered at the laundry at an early hour—and must be returned every evening—carefully and properly sorted.

6. Employes who are in no wise connected with the work of the laundry will not be permitted therein. This rule applies as well to the nurses of both wings—as to employes in other departments.

Ready Rules for Nurses.

1. Avoid incivility, rudeness and undue familiarity; it leads to and merits contempt.

2. Avoid allusion to the peculiarity of patients and never comment thereon. Always shut the doors gently.

3. Be attentive to your personal appearance in all its details.

4. Make allowance for the irritability of patients under your care, and take special pains to be gentle and kind.

5. Be prompt and attentive to your duties.

6. Be firm when firmness is required, but never argue, at the same time exercise forbearance.

7. Be quick, yet never hasty.

8. Be courageous, yet never aggressive.

9. Be clean of speech, avoid boisterous laughter, and never indulge in loud talking.

10. Be neither too fussy, nor too demonstrative in your manner.

11. Avoid petty jealousies among yourselves and never show an appearance of discord or disagreement before patients. Show no favoritism, nor, on the other hand, exhibit special antipathy to any patient.

12. Above all things, be loyal to the physicians, no matter how many changes may be made. You cannot know what influences are at work to necessitate them.

13. Never talk about a patient's condition to the physicians in their presence, nor assume an air of superior knowledge because you are in constant contact with them. Physicians of long experience and great learning often have doubts as to the real nature of a case without prolonged study and observation. Why should not you?

14. Do not attempt to be diagnosticians. You cannot be nurse and doctor to.

15. Do not be conceited nor too humble—both are insufferable. You have certain rights, and a position to sustain; maintain both with becoming dignity and grace.

16. Do not by incessant talking, claim you are in love with your work, or that you are carrying out the "Lord's will"—both are unbearable. You are either ashamed of your work and are trying to bolster up a waning courage, or else you only half believe in it. Cease talking, or give up nursing.

17. Keep the affairs of the Asylum to yourself, and never gossip. You would not tolerate it about your own family—why indulge in it here?

18. Remember that in all mental cases both body and mind require careful watching; and that successful nursing is only attained by eternal vigilance.

19. Bear in mind that every case of melancholia is always attended with thoughts of self-destruction—either latent or active—and that such patients require careful, persistent, never-ceasing watchfulness and supervision to protect them against sudden, irresistible impulses; that in all cases of excitement, and those entertaining delusions of suspicions with false hearing, are dangerous and liable to acts of violence if not to actual homicide. Hence, be ever alert to soothe and soften their vagaries.

2. It shall be his duty in the summer to attend to all needed alterations and repairs in the steam heating apparatus preparatory to the demands of winter. He must at all times be intimately acquainted with the location and condition of all hydrants, hose and water-cocks, provided for the extinguishing of fire, that he may put them in instant operation if necessity requires it. Edwin Coyle, engineer, $30 per month and board.
Miss S. J. Durkee, matron, $25 per month and board.
John D. Brewster, M. D., physician, $200 per year.

BOARD ORGANIZED.

At the first meeting of the Directors in December, 1896, an organization was effected by the re-election of Egbert C. Tuttle of Rutland, as chairman of the board, and of Marsh O. Perkins of Windsor, as secretary. Mr. E. W. Oakes was re-appointed superintendent of the prison by an unanimous vote. Since that time, there have been frequent meetings of the board, and the auditing of the prison accounts each month.

REPORTS.

Your attention is respectfully called to the detailed reports of Superintendent Oakes, and of the prison physician and chaplain appended hereto. Those reports will be found of more than ordinary interest and show that the affairs of the prison have continued to be conducted in a careful, business-like manner and it is believed with thoughtful care and watchfulness for the physical and spiritual welfare of the inmates.

LABOR CONTRACT AND REPAIRS.

By reason of the favorable contract for the prison labor —seventy-two cents per day per man—and the large daily average of prisoners employed by the contractors—all the able-bodied men except the few reserved by the State for other work—the institution has been self-sustaining, notwithstanding many demands for extraordinary expenditures. Reference to these, and the amounts expended will be found in the report of the Superintendent. They include the installation of a larger steam power plant than the State possessed when Messrs. A. E. Mann & Co. entered upon their contract two years ago, the introduction of an improved heating system, provision for more adequate protection against fire, the purchase and erection of a steam laundry, etc., all with a view to an increased efficiency of the prison labor and management with the greatest economy to the State in the future, because of the permanency of the additions and improvements.

INCOME EXCEEDS EXPENSES.

The income of the prison, as shown by the Superintendent's report, has been $3,922.94 over and above all expenses of the institution during the biennial period preceding the date of this report. The total receipts for convict labor were $53,932.68. The amount expended in improvements, heretofore named, was $8,118.64, and there was paid discharged convicts, under the law providing for their aid and encouragement, $3,252.00.

APPROPRIATIONS.

Of the appropriations made by the last Legislature for the benefit of the prison, but one has been expended, viz: $3,000 for the purchase of the meadow in the rear of the institution. This is a valuable addition to the prison property, and will afford means for a reduction of some of the current expenses for the support of the inmates of the prison. The appropriation for the keeper's house remains unexpended, as the amount, viz: $2,500, has proved insufficient to buy, and is deemed too small a sum with which to build a suitable house desirably located. It is to be hoped that this appropriation may be renewed, that the directors may be prepared to avail themselves of any favorable opportunity that may present itself for carrying out the intent and purpose of the act, under which the appropriation was originally made.

CONCLUSION.

We again join with Superintendent Oakes, in an acknowledgement of appreciation of the faithful service rendered in behalf of the State by the keeper, Mr. E. D. Harpin, and by the matron, Miss Durkee, and others upon whom in part has devolved the duty of caring for the inmates, and of assisting in the maintenance and preservation of the high state of discipline which has so long characterized the administration of the affairs of this institution.

With an expression of thanks for courtesies extended the Board, and of hope that our official acts may have merited your approval, this report is respectfully submitted.

Report of Superintendent.

To the Honorable General Assembly of the State of Vermont:

GENTLEMEN.—I have the honor to submit my biennial report as superintendent of the Vermont State Prison, covering the period from July 1, 1896, to June 30, 1898. Appended to the report will be found statements showing the financial transactions of the prison; tables showing the number conditionally discharged or removed to other institutions; and statistics relating to the convicts, with the rules, regulations and by-laws for their government and discipline, together with a list of convicts, with the date and length of their sentences.

FINANCIAL.

I have prepared two statements relating to the income and expenses of the prison for the two years

Statement "A" shows the account of the prison with the State.

Statement "B" shows income and expenses in the several departments.

The income of the prison has exceeded the expenses by $3,922.94, as shown by these statements.

The total income of the prison has been $54,188.68. The increase in the earnings of the prison for the last two years is due to the increase in price paid for labor of prisoners, it being 72 cents per day while formerly it was 50 cents.

DAILY AVERAGE.

The daily average of prisoners for the two years has been 156 1-6, which exceeds slightly the average for the preceding two years. The minimum number during the time was 141; the maximum number was 167.

At the present time, July 1, 1898, the total number is 152.

CONVICTS DISCHARGED.

I have paid to discharged convicts during the two years, $3,252.00. This amount includes $16.00, paid to G. W. Taylor, who was granted a new trial after serving sixteen months of a sentence, and was resentenced to the House of Correction, his sentence having expired and he having been discharged.

Of the ninety-eight convicts discharged on account of expiration of sentence, eighty-one have, under the act entitled "An act to aid and encourage discharged convicts," gained all the time and money which could be gained by good conduct, having never been punished during their confinement. Of the remaining seventeen, twelve were punished only once.

IMPROVEMENTS AND REPAIRS.

Since the new contract, which took effect a little over two years ago, it became necessary, in order to properly run the plant, to incur some extraordinary expenses.

Expense for the above, together with a steam laundry plant, system for fire protection and an improved system of steam heating for the institution, cost about $8,000.00, all of which was paid from the earnings of the institution.

A detailed account of the extraordinary expenses incurred and of the improvements made, appears in the Directors' report.

BOILERS AND ENGINES.

During the two years covered by this report, there have been purchased a new Babcock & Wilcox's water-tube boiler and a Putnam engine. A boiler-house has also been erected for the new boiler.

HEALTH.

The health of the inmates of the prison has been generally good during the past two years, although we have received more prisoners from the courts in an unsound mental and physical condition than usual. There have been some cases of chronic diseases contracted outside, and a number of cases of measles.

There have been three deaths during the last two years.

For further particulars, see statistics and the report of our able physician, Dr. John Densmore Brewster, who still continues to perform the duties of Prison Physician in an able and efficient manner.

INSANE.

There have been during the last two years, six prisoners adjudged insane who have been transferred to the insane asylum at Waterbury, viz.: Eugene Martin, David J. O'Hearn, Charles Gaborie, Clark Milliard, Willie Rice and Royal S. Stroywiningham. Of this number David J. O'Hearn has been returned to the prison.

For further information see statistics and Prison Physician's report.

UNDER SENTENCE OF DEATH.

There are two prisoners confined in the prison under sentence of death, William C. Buzzell and Isabelle A. Marsh, both to be executed February 3, 1899. for the murder of Mr. Marsh, husband of Isabelle.

DISCIPLINE.

Good order and discipline among the prisoners have generally prevailed with as little trouble as possible to the officers.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

Rev. Joseph Wassall, who was appointed chaplin of the prison May 1, 1888, and who for nearly ten years administered to the spiritual welfare of the inmates in an earnest and faithful manner, died January 14, 1897.

Rev. A. U. Ogilvie was appointed chaplain to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Rev. Mr. Wassall. He has manifested great interest in his work and I have no doubt will continue to discharge the duties connected with his office faithfully and well. For information concerning his work and the prison library, I would refer you to his report.

CONCLUSION.

I wish to extend my grateful acknowledgements to Governor Grout and the Honorable Board of Directors. They have visited the prison frequently, and our relations have been most pleasant and harmonious. They have been willing counsellors and have uniformly given me that support which is necessary to the successful management of such an institution.

Mr. E. D. Harpin whose long experience in dealing with criminals, combined with good judgment, enables him to fill the position of Keeper in a very satisfactory manner.

The other subordinate officers, I am pleased to say, have also been faithful in the performance of their duties.

The Matron of the prison, Miss S. J. Durkee, still continues with her usual ability to discharge the duties of her position.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

EDWIN W. OAKES,

Superintendent.

Chaplain's Report.

To the Directors of Vermont State Prison:

GENTLEMEN—I have much pleasure in making my first report as Chaplain of the State Prison:

Since I assumed the duties of this office, a service has been held in the Prison Chapel each Sunday morning. It has been the aim of the chaplain at these services to present religion in a practical rather than an emotional way. He has appealed to the intelligence and conscience of the men, and he has been gratified in more than one instance with special response. The prisoners have invariably given him the best attention, and he could ask for no more inspiring audience.

He has always spoken as a man to men, and has appealed to those feelings, aspirations and convictions that are the possession of our common humanity. He has given special study to this service for the purpose of making it both interesting and effective.

In addition to this service for the men, a weekly service for the women has been held in their apartments each Thursday afternoon. The interest in this service has been well sustained, and several of the women have testified to benefit derived from it.

The Chaplain has, so far as his other duties have permitted, put himself at the disposal of the men and women for such assistance as he could render them. Nearly all of the inmates have been seen in person aside from those who have asked to see him privately. In every way he has found his duties both a privilege and a pleasure.

The prison library is in serviceable condition, and its value has been much increased during the year by the wise selection of a large number of books by Mr. Oakes. A catalogue is in preparation, and when printed will put the men in close contact with the many valuable books the library contains.

In closing, I wish to express my thanks to the officers of the prison for their uniform patience and courtesy to me as I have gone in and out among them. The Directors have every reason to feel gratified that the care of the prisoners is in such efficient hands. I am also under a debt of gratitude to the choir and organist for their kind co-operation and assistance.

Respectfully submitted.

A. U. OGILVIE,

Windsor, Vt., July 1, 1898. Chaplain.

Physician's Report.

To the Superintendent and Directors of Vermont State Prison:

GENTLEMEN—I herewith submit the following, as my biennial report:

In making this report I am happy to state that the past two years have been free from all preventable disease, with the exception of a slight epidemic of measles; the first case being contracted from a new convict; and one mild case of enteric fever, but no fatal cases occurred from these causes.

There has been the usual amount of general sickness, such as colds, rheumatism, neuralgia, etc., such as would naturally occur among an equal number of persons outside the prison walls.

The prison hospital furnishes comfortable quarters for those who may be suffering from severe illness.

The sanitary condition of the prison is still maintained in its former excellence; the ventilation of the cells is good, there being air shafts to the roof of the building, which communicate with each cell, and the doors being of grating allow a current of air from corridor to roof.

The water supply is perfect in every particular. The food supplied is of good quality, and each inmate is supplied with all he desires.

A visit to the cook room would satisfy anyone of the extreme neatness of the surroundings, and no one would object to partake of the food seen there

No better proof is needed regarding the health and welfare of the prisoners than the fact, which has been the case in the institution for years, that the inmates are in much better physical condition when discharged than when they enter the institution; the only exceptions to the rule being those suffering from pulmonary troubles, and these cases are generally recommended to the clemency of the Governor, as humanity demands that such cases should have the freedom and care of home life, and the choice of environments.

INSANE.

Six inmates having become insane were transferred to the Waterbury Insane Asylum: Eugene Martin, David J. O'Hearn, Charles Gaborie, Clark Milliard, Willie Rice and Royal S. Stroywiningham.

Digitized by Google

Two of these men were mentally unsound when they came here and had to be transferred to the Asylum about four months after coming here. One, David J. O'Hearn, was returned in an improved condition.

DEATHS.

There have been three deaths during the past two years; John W. White, who died suddenly of heart disease; James Mason, of general debility, the result of a very dissipated life; Martha Drown, of epilepsy.

My service as Prison Physician has been made much easier and pleasanter by the kindness and assistance I have received from the prison officers, and for which I wish to express my grateful appreciation.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN DENSMORE BREWSTER, M. D.,

Windsor, Vt., July 1, 1898. Prison Physician.

Report of Joint Standing Committee

ON THE STATE PRISON TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY 1896.

MONTPELIER, VT., NOV. 18, 1896.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

Pursuant to a joint resolution of the Senate and House of Representatives, your committee, accompanied by the Directors, have visited the State Prison, and report as follows:

Mr E W. Oakes, the superintendent, extended to us the liberty of the prison and very courteously assisted us in the inspection of every department of the institution. The prison proper, workshops, and, in fact, all the departments exhibit perfect order and system; cleanliness is primarily considered, and perfect discipline displayed.

We found the hospital deserted and universal health among the prisoners. Not a death has occurred during the past two years.

Beside the necessary repairs of the past two years, several important changes have been made under the personal supervision of the directors which we heartily endorse. New hard wood floors have been laid in the shoe shops and prison cook-room. A new steam pump and a receiver with automatic pump attachment for returning the hot water from condensed steam to the boilers, which has heretofore been wasted, have recently been put in and, together with a new eighty horse power engine, the power has been increased until they now have a well nigh perfect plant.

As this institution has now ceased to be a burden to the State, financially, by reason of the new contract just made with Messrs. Mann & Co., we would recommend further improvements by the putting in of a new steam laundry, a steam bakery, enlarging the prison library, and such other improvements as the directors may deem proper and necessary. The expense of which shall be paid out of the surplus.

We find that the appropriation for the purchase of the Harlow meadow and a house for the deputy superintendent. made at the last session of the legislature, was not used, and as we are confident that these are needful acquisitions to the prison property we would respectfully recommend the passage of the two bills pending in the House, appropriating again this year an amount large enough to cover such purchase.

We feel assured that the directors and officers are carefully guarding the interests of the institution and the State, and we think would use wisely any appropriation that might be made.

Rules, Regulations and By-Laws

FOR THE Government and Discipline of the Vermont State Prison, Windsor, Vt.

———:o:———

DUTIES OF THE KEEPER.

The keeper is the principal assistant of the superintendent.

It shall be his duty to attend to the opening and closing of the prison; to be present during divine service; to have a constant care and oversight, under the direction of the superintendent, of the internal affairs of the prison; to see that every subordinate officer strictly performs his duty; especially to attend to the police and discipline; to see that the rules and regulations of the institution and the directions of the superintendent are enforced.

He shall constantly be moving about the interior of the prison, inspecting the cells, yard, shops and other apartments; take every precaution for the security of the prison and prisoners; see that the shop-keepers and guards are vigilant and attentive to their duties, and report to the superintendent every neglect of duty and all impropriety of conduct on the part of any of the officers.

He shall attend to the clothing of the convicts, see that it is whole, properly changed and in order.

He shall see that the cells, shops, yard and all other apartments of the prison are kept in a proper state of cleanliness; that the rations are such as are allowed and required to be delivered to the convicts, and that they are properly cooked and served. He shall, morning, noon and night, see that all the convicts are locked in their cells before dismissing the officers from the hall or giving the signal calling the guards from the walls. And, in the absence of the superintendent, all the duties and powers of the superintendent, so far as the same relate to the discipline of the prison and the safe keeping of the prisoners, shall devolve upon and be executed by the keeper.

He shall see that the persons visiting the prison are treated with attention and politeness, and that they are admitted and conducted through the several departments at all proper times.

Digitized by Google

He shall see that the guards on night duty are vigilant and faithful, and report to the superintendent all delinquencies of any of the officers.

DUTIES OF THE SHOP-KEEPERS.

The shop-keepers and other officers shall act as the immediate agents of the superintendent and keeper in enforcing the police and discipline of the prison, and carrying into effect the provisions of the law for the government and punishment of convicts, and at all times while in the employ of the State are to be subject to the rules and regulations adopted for the government of the prison, and are to govern themselves in strict conformity thereto. They shall take charge of the shops and remain there during the working hours; and in no case shall they be allowed to leave the shop during the time the convicts are therein without being relieved by the keeper or guard. They shall require from the convicts a uniform, industrious, sober and orderly deportment. It shall be their duty to instruct them in all the rules of the shop and prison necessary for their government, and shall admonish them upon the least appearance of insubordination, and report them to the keeper whenever they shall refuse to obey the rules. They shall not allow them to leave their work or shop without permission, nor shall they be allowed to speak or to look at visitors, and no correspondence or conversation shall be allowed between them. The shop-keepers shall act as turnkeys, and in no case shall they leave the prison until dismissed by the keeper.

No shop keeper or any other officer shall receive any present or purchase anything from, nor shall they deliver to, any convict any paper, book or other articles without permission from the superintendent or keeper.

No shop-keeper will be allowed to read any book or paper, or do any writing, except to make the necessary entries, nor to engage in any other employment calculated to interfere with constant watchfulness and vigilance; neither shall he hold any conversation with contractors or others in the presence or hearing of the convicts, while on duty, other than relates to the business under his care and management. No officer shall beat, strike or punish corporally any prisoner except in self-defense or defense of others.

When prisoners refuse to obey the orders of any officer, firmness coupled with evenness of temper and impartiality shall be exercised in such a manner as shall secure instant and silent obedience.

DUTIES OF THE GUARD.

It shall be the duty of the guards to be at the prison during the whole time, day and night; to be vigilant and active; and when not on duty on the wall to repair to the guardroom, and there remain ready to relieve the shop-keepers when sent for; to show visitors through the prison; to attend to opening and closing the gate, and to perform all other duties and services as they shall be directed by the superintendent or keeper, at all hours of the day or night.

They shall at all times maintain towards each other, and all persons visiting the prison, a gentlemanly deportment. They shall not allow any person to go upon the wall without permission of the superintendent or keeper; nor shall they allow, under any circumstances, any intoxicated or riotous person to pass into the prison.

They are not to leave their posts on any pretext without being relieved, and are not to suffer a convict to pass through the gate or guardroom except in charge of a proper officer; and it shall be their duty to keep the arms clean and in good order, ready at all times for use, and they are to prevent, at all hazards, any convict from making his escape. No guard shall be allowed to hold any conversation with a prisoner except to direct him in his duty, nor shall he receive from or deliver to a prisoner any article or thing without the knowledge or consent of the superintendent or keeper.

It shall be the duty of the guard having charge of the hall while the convicts are in their cells, either at meal times or during the night, to use his utmost endeavors to suppress noise of any kind, and to report to the superintendent or keeper any violation of the rules of the prison by the convicts while in their cells. He shall examine the doors after the turnkeys have left the hall, and see that all are secure. He shall suffer no convict to speak to him except to make known his immediate wants, and, while on duty about any part of the prison, the guard shall keep a strict and vigilant observance of the convicts and not for a moment have his attention abstracted from the object of his charge, but be in readiness at all times for an exigency.

No person shall be admitted into the prison while the convicts are in the cells save the officers while on duty.

DUTIES OF THE CHAPLAIN.

It shall be the duty of the chaplain to conform in all cases to the general rules and regulations of the prison, subject to the superintendent as to his intercourse with the convicts. It shall be his duty to see that each convict is furnished with a Bible or Testament; to preach to the convicts every Sunday, or, when necessarily absent, to engage some regularly ordained preacher to fill his place. It shall be his duty to visit the sick and minister to their spiritual wants.

He shall have the liberty of visiting any prisoner who wishes to see him at any time, subject to the control of the superintendent. He is to use his best exertions to promote the moral and religious welfare of the prisoners, as well as the harmony and general interest of the institution. He shall not furnish the prisoners with any information or intelligence in relation to secular matter except by permission of the superintendent. Nor shall he have any intercourse with the prisoners other than such as shall be necessary and proper in teaching them the branches of education authorized by law, and imparting such moral and religious instructions as are best calculated to promote their subordination, reformation and spiritual welfare.

He shall have charge of the prison library and report to the directors the condition thereof in his biennial report, or oftener, if required to do so.

If any prisoner desires communication with the minister of his particular faith, on proper application to the superintendent and at his discretion it shall be allowed, under and in conformity with the general regulations of the prison, but such minister, on such occasion, must in all things conform to the rules and regulations for the government of the chaplain.

CONTRACTORS.

Contractors, their agents or foremen, shall hold no intercourse with any convict other than those employed or superintended by them, nor upon any subject whatever other than the business carried on by them.

They shall not be permitted to deliver to or receive from a convict any letter, paper package or parcel whatever. They are to confine themselves strictly to their business, and are not to leave the shop where their business is carried on to visit any other part of the prison.

They are not, under any circumstances, to inflict any punishment; neither shall they apply any opprobrious epithets to convicts, nor use any profane language in their presence, but shall report to the shop-keeper having charge of the convicts in their departments all violations of the rules and regulations of the prison. No foreman shall be employed by contractors, within the prison, without first obtaining the consent of the superintendent.

Teamsters or other persons in the employ of the contractors, who occasionally visit the prison, shall not be permitted to speak to, deliver to or receive from a convict any package or parcel whatever without permission from an officer. All scraps, shavings, chips, sticks and other waste must be disposed of each day, either for fuel or by removal from the prison grounds. No old trash or other material not necessary to carry on the business of the contractors may be permitted to accumulate within the yard or shops or on the prison grounds. All officers are expressly charged with the execution of the above orders, and directed to report any neglect or violation of the same.

VISITORS.

All persons not connected with the prison, except contractors, their foremen and employes and such persons as are authorized by law to visit the prison, are regarded as visitors and subject to the same rules. Visitors will not be permitted to enter the prison unless accompanied by an officer or guard, and when in the prison will be under the surveillance of the officer or guard accompanying them. Visitors will have no intercourse whatever with the convicts, and, when passing through the prison, will conduct themselves in a quiet and orderly manner, loud talking, laughing and personal allusions to convicts, by remarks, pointing or otherwise, being positively prohibited. Visitors must enter and depart through the guardroom.

It shall be the duty of any officer or guard when persons are found within the prison contrary to or in violation of any of the above rules, to see that they are at once stopped and leave the prison.

DUTIES OF THE CONVICTS.

The first duty of the convict is obedience, and it will be for his interest, as it is his duty, to be respectful and obedient to the officers, and conform to the rules and regulations established for his government.

At the ringing of the morning bell, he must turn out, dress, wash and comb, make up his bed neatly, sweep the cell and be ready for going out. At the signal he will open the door gently to the wall and march as directed.

On entering the workshop they will go directly to their several places of labor, and commence at once; and must be industrious and faithful in doing the work assigned them. In shops and other places of labor, they are to obey all orders promptly, exhibit no ill-temper when admonished by an officer; must not indulge in laughter, have no conversation whatever with another convict, nor communicate any intelligence in writing or by looks or signs, nor stare at visitors, nor speak to or answer them, nor receive from nor give to them anything whatever. They must approach their keepers in a respectful manner and be brief in their communications; they are not to speak to them on ordinary topics, nor address them except when it becomes necessary in relation to their work or their necessary wants. He must not leave or go out of his place of labor without permission, and, when permitted to go to any other department, will take the "pass" and go and return directly without unnecessary delay. If sick or unable to labor, he will make it known to his officer and act as he may direct. At the signal from the officer, and not before, without permission, they will leave their work, wash and take their places in divisions, for marching, as directed by their officers, and in passing the tables will take the first dish the hand is put upon and be careful not to spill or drop the food.

On entering the cell he must close the door and stand with his hands through the bars until the count is made.

He must be cleanly in person, clothing and cell, and must be quiet, orderly and decent in his behavior and never indulge in profanity, vulgarity, nor be guilty of any kind of indecency whatever; must use the spittoon when necessary and not spit on or through the door, nor on the wall or floor; must not wilfully or carelessly injure his work, tools or wearing apparel, nor mark or any way mar or disfigure the cell, nor injure, mark or misuse any book, dish or other article whatever allowed in his cell; nor work in his cell without permission of the superintendent, given through the keeper, or make any change, either by bringing in or carrying out any article from the cell contrary to regulations; nor call the guard except in case of sickness or absolute necessity; nor pass any article or thing to another convict while in prison without permission. At the ringing of the bell at night every convict shall go to bed immediately and observe a profound silence from that time until the ringing of the morning bell.

They shall always march in such order as may be designated by the officer in charge. While in the cells and while marching and at all other times, all unnecessary noise must be avoided. No convict shall sleep with his clothes on, but shall lay each article separately, that the guard on duty can see if this rule is complied with. All convicts are required to attend religious services in the chapel on Sunday, unless they are sick or excused by the superintendent.

Before entering the chapel they must remove from their mouths any tobacco or gum they may have in it; and when in the chapel will take seats as directed by the officers in charge and while there give strict and silent attention to the services. All disposition to cough, as far as possible, to be suppressed, and no shuffling with the feet, spitting on the floor or movement of the body calculated to disturb the order and quiet of the chapel to be indulged in. Whenever the convicts are turned out, all whose cells are unlocked must go out, unless they are sick or excused for other reasons.

Convicts obeying the rules will be allowed to see their relatives who wish to see them, and also such of their immediate friends as the superintendent shall, for any reason, allow them the privilege.

Interviews of relatives or friends with convicts shall not be oftener than once in four weeks, except for some special reason, and must be in the presence of an officer and not exceed twenty minutes at one time. At such interviews convicts must sit apart from their visitors and their conversation must be distinct, so that the officer can see or hear whatever is done or said, and he will allow no article to be passed from one to the other except it goes through his hands. Each convict, if he obey the rules, will be allowed to write to his friends once in three months at the expense of the State and but one letter per week at his own expense, except by special permission of the superintendent. All letters to be sent unsealed to the superintendent's office, with the name the writer is known by, signed in full. And convicts will write as distinctly as possible, so that their letters can be easily read before mailing; must never write between or across the lines and never on more than four pages of note or three pages of letter paper in any one letter. No correspondence for publi cation will be allowed, and all letters containing profane, obscene or disrespectful language, false statements, or misrepresentations will be destroyed, withheld or returned at the discretion of the superintendent; and the writer thereof forfeits the privilege of writing or receiving letters, and may be punished as the superintendent may direct.

Convicts will be allowed to receive such newspapers, periodicals or magazines from the office of publication and such transient papers as the superintendent may permit, but they will not be allowed to send them out to be taken away from the prison.

On being discharged, convicts will not be allowed to take away with them any letters, newspapers or pamphlets they have received, nor any writing or memorandum they have made while in prison. Any money a convict may have when he enters prison, or that he may receive afterwards from his friends or other sources, must be placed in the hands of the superintendent, an account of which will be kept, and if well behaved will be allowed to draw against it to pay for such articles as convicts are allowed to use, and the balance, if any, will be paid to him on his discharge. No convict will be allowed to use tobacco who had not contracted the habit of using it before coming to the prison; and only such an amount of tobacco will be allowed to any convict as the superintendent shall direct.

Any one detected in receiving or sending out letters, papers or any writing by any person, or in any other way than through the superintendent's office, forfeits the privilege of writing or receiving any letters or papers; or if detected in whistling, talking or in any way making a disturbance in his cell, or in defacing these rules, or any book which he has been furnished with, will be deprived of privileges or be punished therefor as prescribed by the superintendent.

For all violations of any of the above rules, convicts will subject themselves to severe punishment. It is the duty of officers in charge of convicts to see that the rules are promptly observed, as no officer except the superintendent has authority to suspend them or excuse their violation. Convicts should not forget that in proportion as they conform to these rules will they be likely to receive the "deductions" and "discharge money" allowed by the State of Vermont, printed below.

Section 26, Chapter 123, of the Revised Statutes: "If any person in the State Prison for a limited time shall escape therefrom, and shall be retaken and returned to the prison, the term for which he was sentenced to be confined shall be deemed as commenced at the time he is so returned, and he shall be confined after his return the whole term for which he was sentenced."

An act in relation to the discipline of the State Prison.

It is hereby enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Vermont:

SECTION 1. All persons who have been or shall be hereafter convicted of any offence against the laws of this State, and confined in the State Prison in execution of the judgment or sentence upon such conviction, who shall so conduct themselves for any month of such sentence that no charge for misconduct shall be sustained against them for such month, shall have a deduction of five days for every such month made from the term of their sentence, such deduction to be reduced five days whenever in any month such charge for misconduct shall be sustained against them, and shall be entitled to their discharge so much the sooner, upon the certificate of the superintendent of the prison, with the approval of the governor.

Directors' Report.

VERMONT HOUSE OF CORRECTION, RUTLAND.

To His Excellency, Josiah Grout,

Governor of Vermont:

In fulfilling the duties imposed upon us by the laws of the State, the Directors of the House of Correction at Rutland respectfully submit this, their biennial report, for the two years ending June 30, 1898.

We organized at the beginning of the biennial term by the election of Egbert C. Tuttle of Rutland, Chairman, and Marsh O. Perkins of Windsor, Secretary. This institution, and the State Prison at Windsor, have received such attention at our hands as the business of the institutions required, and our reports will show the results attained. The Board of Directors, under Section 3 of Act 67, Laws of 1896, appointed D. L. Morgan Superintendent of the House of Correction for two years from Dec. 1, 1896, and they have also appointed as regular Physician of the institution Dr. Charles S. Caverly.

ACCOUNTS EXAMINED.

We have examined and audited the accounts of the Superintendent of the House of Correction monthly, and we submit a table showing abstract of accounts examined for two years. For a full and detailed statement of all matters relating to this institution we refer you to the statistical report as made by Mr. D. L. Morgan, Superintendent. The Board of Directors caused to be made in 1894, for the first time, comparative tables showing the workings of the institution for twelve years, and those tables are continued in this report. We commend them to your consideration, as they show the history of this institution as complete as possible, and convey at a glance, valuable information.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Some of the members of the Board have visited like institutions in the United States and Canada, and have corresponded with the officers of the same so as to keep in touch with their management, and a large amount of information has been gathered thereby. These visits included among others, the Elmira Reformatory at Elmira, N. Y., and the Central Prison at Toronto, Canada. The Board was also represented at the 24th National Conference of Charities and Corrections of the United States and Canada held at Toronto, July 7 to 14, 1897, and at Austin, Tex., in December, 1897, when the National Prison Congress was in session. If the State gained through the knowledge thus obtained, we are satisfied, for it is a great problem to wisely and justly conduct these penal institutions so that the State and society shall be protected and the prisoners themselves benefited. It has been well said that humanity is best served when science and charity unite. Shall we regard those committed to our care as foes marching to war against us, or as weaker brothers and sisters whose capacities are less and whose opportunities were more restricted than ours? Many of them have somehow fallen behind in the race and a fatherly or motherly care is the just attitude of the State, but how far we shall carry this idea and protect all interests is sometimes a difficult thing to decide.

REPAIRS AND IMPROVEMENTS.

We have completed, practically, the repairs first begun in 1895, for which an appropriation was made in 1894. We have raised the roof of the old chapel building and made an addition to the north end of the same, which gives us a three-story brick building, size about 95x30 feet, connected with the brick jail and kitchen building erected a few years ago inside the main yard. (See Illustrations). This change furnishes us what the State Board of Health and our own physician have recommended as absolutely necessary, i. e., ample room for hospital purposes in the third story connected with the old quarters. The second story of this building makes us an enlarged chapel which we needed very much for Sabbath worship, and the first or ground floor will be used as a dining room for the prisoners.

The Directors were also influenced in making the necessary repairs and improvements, which they have just completed, by the advice of the Board of Visitors, of which the Governor is chairman, and by the report of the Legislative Committee of 1896, who visited the institution on Nov. 14 and reported as follows:

To the General Assembly:

"The apartments used as a hospital at the House of Correction are not well adapted for that purpose. The rooms are not of sufficient height and are poorly lighted and ventilated. With a moderate expenditure of money they could be put into suitable condition Your committee would recommend that of the surplus of the last biennial appropriation, so much be used by the Directors as may be necessary to render the present apartments adequate and suitable for hospital purposes.

[Signed] "C. W. PETTY, Chairman Senate Committee,
"GEO. B. BOYD, Chairman House Committee."

Their full report will appear in another part of this Report, and we refer you to the Physician's report as bearing on this subject.

UNEXPENDED BALANCE PAID STATE TREASURER.

We return to the State Treasurer $431.03, being balance unexpended of last appropriation. (See table).

ADDITIONAL IMPROVEMENTS.

We purchased of the Baxter estate a greenhouse, moved it with the labor of the prisoners, and under the management of Mr. H. M. Chatterton, have found it profitable to the State, as we have been able to raise for the use of the institution a large amount of produce which we have heretofore been obliged to purchase, and also have sold more than enough to pay for the entire expense to which we have been in the matter.

New rooms for some of the guards have been fitted up from those originally made for debtors' rooms when the institution was first erected.

We have leased and cultivated profitably the land adjoining on the north and west sides of the State grounds belonging to the Pierpoint estate, and if times were better we might think it advisable to have the Legislative committee investigate a proposition made us to purchase a part of the land on the north side of the present State property. In view, however, of the fact that the State expenditures, on account of the war, have increased, we shall not press this matter, although it can be purchased now to advantage, when later it might not be acquired so advantageously.

The recent changes made in the buildings have greatly improved the facilities for the care and successful management of the entire institution. We have maintained a night school five evenings in each week, and an average of 23 young men have received the benefit of the same.

CARE OF THE GROUNDS.

Many favorable comments have been heard about the lawn at the House of Correction, and how it is kept. The more noticeable features are the flower beds scattered about, and the variety and beauty of the flowers, which have been raised on the premises and placed under the direction of Mrs. D. L. Morgan.

Digitized by Google

CHANGE IN MANNER OF FEEDING.

The Board of Directors have taken a new and radical step, which they believe is for the best good of the institution, by deciding to try the experiment of allowing all male prisoners to eat in a common dining room, seated at tables, instead of eating as heretofore each in his separate cell. The female prisoners have for some time had this privilege accorded them There are many good reasons why this change is desirable. It is nearly impossible to prevent the dropping of food upon the floor and bedding in the cells, and our physician has advised us in the interest of health and cleanliness to make the change in our manner of feeding the prisoners. The Board has made careful inquiries and find that in other States where they have given this question the best thought, the action proposed has been adopted. We shall carefully guard the privilege granted to the prisoners, to see that they do not abuse the same, and the superintendent can order back to the cells any prisoners who do not appreciate these humane and reformatory measures. We can take much better care of the institution in this way, and more economically conduct its culinary affairs.

EXERCISES.

The prisoners are drilled every day except Sunday, at 5 o'clock P. M., in the yard, and calisthenic exercises consisting of 28 movements have been instituted, thus giving them nearly an hour of out door exercise, which adds to their physical condition very materially. (See illustrations). The Superintendent has taken a great deal of interest in this new departure, and its adoption was one of the results of our visit with the Superintendent to the Elmira Reformatory in 1897.

INDUSTRIAL TEACHING.

The superintendent has been anxious for some time to try industrial teaching for the young men committed to the care of the institution. We have not had sufficient room heretofore to give his ideas a trial. We may have an opportunity in the near future to try the experiment of trades teaching. The Superintendent believes that many of the young men when discharged would be better prepared to earn their livelihood if they could be taught carpentry or some other trade.

LABOR.

In a large number of States and Territories no attempt is made to provide shop or indoor labor in the prisons for those sentenced to short terms of confinement. Especially is this true at the south, the southern States working their short time prisoners to a large extent outside the prison walls. We have worked quite a number of prisoners at the House of Correction outside of the shop in connection with repairs and also to cultivate the land, which labor has produced for the State as good, if not better results, than would have been attained had all found employment in the regular way. The earnings of the prisoners in the shop have been increased from an average of 46 cents a day as per our last report, to 53 cents a day for the last biennial period. The favorable showing made is a credit to the manager, Mr. M. R. Brown. The Board of Directors,' who are conducting the work on State account, finds this to be a better result for the State than has previously been shown. If it were not for so many short term commitments a still better showing could be made.

STATISTICS.

From statistics gathered in the 1890 census report, it is ascertained that out of every million population, the ratio of persons confined in State institutions in the United States is 4,505, as follows:

1,315 as prisoners.
237 as juvenile offenders.
1,166 as paupers.
1,787 as inmates of benevolent institutions.

4,505

To those who make a study of the questions involved, the above table is interesting. As regards the number of inmates in State institutions in all of the United States in proportion to the population in 1890, Arizona stood at the top with 4,193 inmates, and Vermont fourth from the last out of the 45 States with 602 inmates but as regards the number of prisoners without reference to the population, Vermont stood seventh, as six other States had a less number in 1890.

FORMER SUPERINTENDENT.

Our former Superintendent, Mr. Geo. N. Eayres, who served the institution nearly 15 years, from 1878 until 1893, died in November, 1897. Mr. Eayres was a man faithful to the trust placed in him, and the institution over which he had charge was creditably conducted. He was succeeded in May, 1893, by the present Superintendent, Mr. D. L. Morgan.

TRAMP PROBLEM.

The tramp question, unsolved and unabated, is the perplexing problem of our civilization. Some say the tramp evil is the product of business depression; others that it is the unequal distribution of wealth; some that drink is at the foundation; others that improved machinery is driving men to idleness. No doubt all these agencies, and many others, contribute to this gigantic evil. When a tramp can live better than an honest working man; when he can collect off those who he says "owe him a living" money for drink; when, with a tale of woe, he can beg twice as much as an honest laborer can earn, why shouldn't he be like the birds of the air and take no thought for the morrow?

We find, however, a large number of young men who claim to be seeking employment, who are arrested by officers under breach of peace and tramp acts, and are sent here for two or three months. From inquiries made, we fear that the committee appointed by the Legislature of 1896, may have hit the trouble in some cases when they reported that "One cause which tends to the overpopulation of the House Correction is to be found in the amount allowed for mileage of to the committing officer, which is, in fact, his fee. We believe that it is a temptation to over-zeal. We favor the plan of a committing officer for the whole State to be under the direction of the Superintendent of the House of Correction."

The Directors would refer you to the committee's full report on pages 19 to 22 of 1896, House of Correction Report.

DISPOSAL OF FUNDS, SPECIAL APPROPRIATION.

We drew the appropriation provided by Act. 146, Laws of 1894, and expended it as per table on page 16 of 1896 report, but our repairs not being completed we had a balance on hand, which we now report on.

Expenditure of appropriation of $20,000, under Act No. 146 of 1894, for additions, hospital changes, new wall and general repairs, Vermont House of Correction.

EXPLANATION.

The employment of prisoners on repairs has saved to the State more than the shop earnings per diem, as they in most cases performed the work of free men who would have been paid $1.00 to $2.50 per day. We were enabled, by using the labor of prisoners so far as we could, and by economy in many ways, to save the State a goodly sum. and the Superintendent who looked after these matters carefully, is entitled to more than ordinary praise for his share in the work performed.

INVENTORY OF PERSONAL PROPERTY.

We have a complete inventory of the personal property of the House of Correction, which amounts to $9,534.89, divided as follows :

House furniture	$856 38
Prison furniture	2,155 30
Office furniture and supplies	555 46
Chapel furniture	227 85

This shows an increase in personal property on hand since our last report of $2,367.34

The itemized statement of this inventory is in the hands of the Superintendent, subject to examination at your hands.

SUBORDINATE OFFICERS.

As required by law, we report the number of subordinate officers and their salaries as established by us:

W. H. Richmond, deputy superintendent, $60 per month and board.
Daniel Bree, keeper, $28 per month and board.
William Borden, keeper, $27 per month and board.
John Holland, guard, $25 per month and board.
Delbert E. Sanders, guard, $25 per month and board.
Harley M. Chatterton, guard, $25 per month and board.
Mrs. Allen St. John, matron, $25 per month and board.
Mrs. D. L. Morgan, housekeeper, $25 per month and board.
Rev. E. M. Haynes, chaplain, $200 per year.
Dr. Charles S. Caverly, physician, $200 per year.
Teacher for evening school, $5 per week.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

The reports of the physician, chaplain and the teacher of the evening school are submitted in another part of the report, and we ask that these reports receive your careful consideration. There has been within the last two years only one death among the prisoners.

We are satisfied with the labor of the Superintendent, Mr. D. L. Morgan, his assistant, Mr. W. H. Richmond, and also with M. R. Brown, of the manufacturing department. They are faithful to the interests of the institution. We believe the State has also in all the subordinate officers, a staff of faithful workers.

Our matron, Mrs. Allen St. John, who had been employed since December, 1895, has proved to be very efficient in her work. Since January, 1896, Rev. E. M. Haynes has very creditably filled the position as regular Chaplain of the institution.

SUPERINTENDENT.

We can only report what we have said before. The position of Superintendent requires especially a man who is a good disciplinarian. Mr. Morgan's army experience fits him for this responsible office. His nearly six years service as Superintendent makes him all the more valuable to the State, which has in him a faithful officer.

FINDINGS OF GRAND JURY IN FALL OF 1897.

BE IT REMEMBERED, That, at a term of the County Court within and for the County of Rutland, begun and held at the City of Rutland in said County, on the second Tuesday of September in the year of our Lord one thousand eighteen hundred and ninety seven:

The Grand jurors within and for the body of the said County of Rutland, here in Court duly impanneled and sworn, upon their oath present:

That on the 22nd day of September, A. D., 1897, they visited the County Jail in the City of Rutland, and having examined the same find that it is in such condition that prisoners can there be safely and comfortably kept and that in their opinion no repairs are needed.

SPECIAL REPORT.

We think it proper to present in connection with this report the special report made by the committee of the Legislature of 1896, as it has a bearing on the appropriation made by the State.

REPORT OF THE JOINT STANDING COMMITTEE ON HOUSE OF CORRECTION TO LEGISLATURE OF 1896.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

Pursuant to a joint resolution your joint standing committee on the House of Correction visited that institution on Saturday, November 14, 1896, and now beg to submit the following report:—

Accompanied by two of the directors—Messrs. L. D. Hazen and Egbert C. Tuttle—Superintendent D. L. Morgan and Dr. Chas. E. Caverly of Rutland, the House of Correction physician, we carefully inspected every department of the institution, noting its state of repairs, sanitary condition and the work and discipline of the inmates. The office, corridors, kitchen, storeroom and laundry were clean and well ventilated; the cells were in as good condition of cleanliness as their size and furnishings would permit. While provision is made in each cell for the removal of foul air, the means for introducing fresh air do not seem entirely adequate.

The apartments used as a hospital are not well adapted for that purpose; they are not of sufficient height and are poorly lighted and ventilated. With a moderate expenditure of money they could be put into suitable condition. Your committee would recommend that of the surplus of the last biennial appropriation so much be used by the directors as may be necessary to render the present apartments adequate and suitable for hospital purposes.

The workshops were in good sanitary condition and the prisoners under first-class discipline. The food is of good quality and sufficient quantity, and the variety compares favorably with that furnished in like institutions.

Your committee was well pleased with the exterior of the building; it has a new and clean appearance, having been recently painted with a handsome shade of red. The new wall improves the exterior appearance of the institution, and is an additional security for the detention of the prisoners.

Your committee congratulates the State on the excellent and successful management of the institution, all of which is respectfully submitted.

We have presented a few illustrations in this report to better show to everyone interested how the Vermont House of Correction appears. They give a better idea than mere word description of what has been done by the Board.

In closing this report, the Board desires to thank you for your personal interest in the work of the Board, and we hope all that has been done meets your approval. The same is respectfully submitted.

It will be noticed that the amount of repairs previous to 1894 had been very small, but there always comes a time when public buildings must be thoroughly repaired, especially when the population of an institution shows such a large increase as this table indicates.

The total number confined during this biennial period was 980.

Superintendent's Report.

VERMONT HOUSE OF CORRECTION,
SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE.

To the General Assembly of the State of Vermont:

GENTLEMEN—I herewith submit the tenth biennial report of the Vermont House of Correction for the two years ending June 30, 1898, and, realizing that many of your number may not find time to closely examine and compare the various tables and statistics presented, I have briefly summarized some of the more important and respectfully call your attention to them.

EXPENSES.

The entire gross expense of the institution (which includes the Rutland county jail) for care and maintenance of prisoners, salaries and subsistence of officers, for several small buildings erected, repairs on prison interior, improvement of grounds, etc., all of which is fully explained elsewhere, was $32,310.77. This sum averaged a yearly gross expense of $111.62 for each prisoner.

RETURNS.

Returned to the State Treasurer for earnings, fines and board	$19,964 77
Excess of cash on hand over last report	628 00
	$20,592 77
Increase of Personal Property Inventory	2,367 34
	$22,960 11

POPULATION.

The average daily number of inmates was, in round numbers, 145, an increase of 29 per cent over the previous term.

Inmates of House of Correction, June 30, 1896	112
Inmates of Rutland County Jail, June 30, 1896	11

COMMITMENTS AND CRIMES.

The following show an increase over last term:

For tramping, from 120 to 150.
For breach of the peace, 101 to 134.
For larceny and burglary, 121 to 136.

The following show a decrease:

Violation of liquor law, 176 to 152.
Intoxication, 148 to 141.
Crimes of a lewd character, 31 to 26.

The persons sentenced for breach of the peace were largely transients, and this class, with those sentenced for tramping, impose a large expense upon the State for trials, commitments and maintenance, and furnish matter for your serious consideration.

Of the persons sentenced for intoxication, 101 were for first or second offenses, and were confined in the Jail, all being from Rutland county. Their time represents 1615 days of idleness in this jail alone, with board and lodging at State expense. I respectfully suggest that this class of prisoners, also those held for "non-disclosure", should be made to work when practicable.

The fact that of the 722 prisoners committed to the House of Correction, 187 had served one, and many of the number several, previous sentences here, leads me to again ask your consideration of the indefinite sentence which has been tried in many states and found so successful as a reformatory measure and deterrent from crime.

IMPROVEMENTS.

During the last two years quite extensive minor improvements have been made. A carriage house, wagon shed, piggery and hen house have been erected. A large greenhouse, purchased of the Baxter estate, removed and re-erected, a retaining wall built, and a large amount of filling done upon the bank of East creek, where the water was encroaching. In the interior, the school-room has been neatly plastered and decorated, two additional sleeping rooms arranged and furnished for officers, the upper story of the central building, used as a hospital, plastered throughout, painted and newly floored with hard pine. The roof of the vegetable cellar has been lowered to the grade of the yard and coated with asphalt.

In accordance with the recommendation of the Committee of the Legislature of 1896, who visited and inspected the institution, the unexpended balance of the appropriation of 1894 has been applied to the improvement of the one-storied building formerly used as an office and store-room, and later as a chapel. This has been altered and rebuilt into a fine three-storied edifice, its exterior greatly improving the appearance of the prison buildings, while its interior, completed, will afford many conveniences and benefits for the moral and physical improvement of the inmates. The area of the first floor alone measures 2,650 square feet, and is divided and arranged into a large and convenient dining-room, pantry, meat cooler and ice room. The second floor is a commodious, neatly furnished chapel.

The third floor, used for hospital purposes, is being finished into a number of pleasant, well-ventilated rooms for a sick-ward, and so arranged that one or more of these, with bath room can be completely quarantined in cases of contagious disease, meeting a long-felt and urgent need in this direction, as only recently the institution was threatened with a serious epidemic of diphtheria, introduced by incoming prisoners, and for the nine cases that followed, the only place available for a complete quarantine was the Rutland County Jail room, which was temporarily used.

THE WOMEN'S DEPARTMENT

In charge of Mrs. Allen St. John, Matron, although overcrowded for many months, and now containing twenty women, has been conducted in a most satisfactory manner. The ladies of the Episcopal church of this city have held weekly religious meetings in this department with much interest and profit to the inmates.

HEALTH.

For information as to the health of the inmates, I refer you to the very complete report of Dr. C. S. Caverly, who, with Dr. Hammond, his able assistant, has been indefatigable in his care of the sick and ailing.

EDUCATION.

The evening school has been maintained with gratifying results, many of the younger men who have been its pupils showing marked improvement and gaining at least the rudiments of an education. A short lecture course was arranged last winter, and the institution is indebted to the Hon. J. C. Baker, Hon. F. A. Field of Rutland, and Rev. C. L. Leonard of Poultney for services gratuitously rendered.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.

Religious services have been maintained each Sabbath by our chaplain, Rev. E. M. Haynes, and I refer you to his carefully prepared report of the moral condition of the inmates and his efforts in their behalf. For many months during the past year a series of weekly religious meetings for men were conducted under the direction of Mr. Johnson, Superintendent of the Y. M. C. A. of Rutland. While attendance of prisoners was entirely voluntary, but very few failed to attend, and the influence of the meetings for good was very marked. To Mr. E. L. Temple, who delivered a series of lectures on Bible history, the institution and its inmates are greatly indebted.

EXERCISE.

Physical exercises and military drill were introduced last winter and have proven very beneficial, not only as a health measure, but in imparting to the men self-respect, neatness of dress and improved personal appearance generally. A small military band, composed entirely of prisoners, has added greatly to the interest of these exercises. The physical exercises proving so beneficial to the men, were adopted for the women later, and are now part of their daily routine.

In closing, I desire to acknowledge my obligations to Governor Grout for his kindly interest in the institution and its inmates; to the Directors for their aid and counsel on many occasions, especially to Mr. E. C. Tuttle, Chairman, who, as resident Director, was most frequently called upon for advice and direction; to Mr. Richmond, who so ably and acceptably fills the position of Deputy Superintendent, and to all my officers for their loyal support and hearty interest for the good of the institution.

D. L. MORGAN, Superintendent.

Chaplain's Report.

The Honorable Board of Directors of the House of Correction:

GENTLEMEN:—I have the honor to submit the following report:

Well aware that no formal report will add to your knowledge of the Chaplain's duties or the nature of his services in the institutions over which you preside, nevertheless it affords me great pleasure thus to assure you that I have, it is hoped, to the limit of my ability, fulfilled the obligations enjoined upon me both by the regulations of the prison authorities and the requirements of those confined therein.

That a public or general religious service shall be observed at least once each Sabbath during the year, seems to be the principal office of the Chaplain. This duty has been cheerfully undertaken, and chapel exercises have been held regularly each Lord's day, with but one omission, during the whole biennial period covering this report. This is somewhat remarkable, since the prison, in consequence of extended repairs, amounting to a reconstruction in several departments, has been without a chapel from March to August the present year, and it has been necessary to hold the meetings out of doors, under such extemporized conditions as could be made. Yet these arrangements have been entirely satisfactory, and for most of the time the elements have been propitious.

During the past winter months the prisoners have been invited to meet in the chapel for a mid-week religious service, one evening in the week, and although the attendance was made voluntary, most of them availed themselves of the opportunity to exchange their quarters for this service.

It should be said that these meetings were held under the direction of Mr. Johnson of the Y. M. C. A. and others invited to assist him, and of course under the sanction of the Superintendent. At such times the men were allowed to participate to the extent of reciting passages of Scripture, pieces of poetry and prose appropriate to the occasion, asking questions of the conductor for the time being, and to freely express themselves upon subjects there presented, and occasionally relating parts of their own experience.

At suitable times, also, during the winter evenings, the Superintendent has secured the services of gentlemen to deliver lectures to the prisoners upon topics of a practical nature and of current interest. These lectures have been favorably received, often receiving great attention among them, and no doubt they were benefited by them. Probably the directors, as well as the general public, will heartily approve of these moral and religious instructions given to the inmates of the House of Correction, although they may not apprehend any large or specific results to follow. Surely such earnest and benevolent efforts ought not wholly to fail in their high purpose. And it is firmly believed that the influence thus exerted, reinforced as it is by the entire system of treatment received during the period of the prisoners' detention, through the directors and the prison officials, will not be wholly void of beneficent effects.

Some tokens of good have now and then appeared to afford encouragement to continue in this kind of work. As, for instance, in several cases those who have been visited in their cells, those who have been seen after their release, and others who have been heard from through reports of their friends and their own correspondence have not only expressed a strong desire, but apparently a resolute purpose to reform. The language of their resolutions has been: "Oh, sir, I shall take your advice and avoid the liability of coming here again. I shall surely try to be a better man." At least six within my knowledge during the present year, their time having expired, have enlisted in the military service of the United States, and one in the navy. Others have found good positions in the city or elsewhere, and are doing well.

I am deeply impressed with the judiciousness and the importance of the discipline of the institution under its present management. I believe that its tendency throughout is to constrain those temporarily confined here toward a higher sense of manhood and good citizenship.

It has become the custom here to observe Fasts, Memorial and Thanksgiving days (annual and special) Fourth of July, Christmas and Easter seasons, by ceremonies intended to bring before and impress upon the mind, the thoughts and sentiments they are each designed to perpetuate.

In connection with religious services on Thanksgiving, the Superintendent has furnished a dinner for the people detained here, consisting of a choice and wholesome variety of food, differing in quality from the regular prison fare, and in abundant quantities, when they have been set down together and served as guests. The occasions have been made to resemble, as much as possible, the good old New England festival.

The Fourth of July is a day entirely given up to amusements. The prisoners are excused from work, and in addition to a dinner furnished and served in the same manner as above described, they have been allowed to engage in sports and competition games in which the winners receive a prize, and in recreations not unlike those in which many of them would find enjoyment were they free from all restraint.

The Christmas season is observed in a manner calculated to recall its sacred and joyful significance to the world.

The new chapel is now completed and in all respects is a great improvement over the low, dingy room formerly occupied for religious services. The new room is situated on the second floor of the reconstructed building, is light and airy, finished in natural woods, furnished with windows of tinted glass, and is ample in its dimensions, with accommodations for visitors, of whom there are many, who usually attend our Sabbath service. The chapel has also been supplied with a new organ.

On the occasion of its dedication several of the clergymen of the city and others were present and participated in the public ceremonies, and many of the people of Rutland and vicinity were in attendance.

As an improvement with decided moral tendencies, permit me to bear testimony to the great usefulness of a system of calisthenics and military drill, recently introduced here, and now daily practiced by the men. Aside from the healthfulness of the exercise, they stimulate pride, tend to a more dignified deportment and manful exertion. It is believed that they greatly relieve the dull monotony of confinement and relax the strains of labor, and the good effects of this discipline upon the spirits of the men are apparent, both in their manners and behavior.

It gives me great pleasure to acknowledge the uniform kindness of your board, the courtesy and constant co-operation of the Superintendent, the Deputy Superintendent and their assistants, without which there would be little encouragement or hope of success in my religious office and ministrations.

I am, gentlemen, with great respect,

Your obedient servant,

E. M. HAYNES, Chaplain.

Death of G. N. Eayres, Former Superintendent of the House of Correction.

George Nelson Eayres died at 9 o'clock Saturday night, November 13, 1897, after a short illness.

Mr. Eayres was born in Rutland, December 12, 1824. He married Almira A. Allen on September 19, 1849, and moved to Pittsford in 1855. He bought what is known as the Hitchcock farm, where he lived for over twenty years. He acted as selectman of Pittsford for five terms between the years of 1868 and 1895. He also represented the town of Pittsford in the legislature of 1876. He moved to Rutland in 1877. After an extended visit in the West, chiefly in Wisconsin, where he had business interests, he returned to Rutland and in 1878 he received the appointment of superintendent of the House of Correction, which place he held for nearly fifteen years, until May 1, 1893. Mr. Eayres was a Republican. He was deacon of the Congregational church of Pittsford for several years.

There has been but one death among the prisoners, that of Tom Jones, who died of acute miliary tuberculosis, July 20, 1897, after being in the institution only 20 days. An infant, prematurely born here, died after about 3 weeks.

The following prisoners have been given conditional pardons on account of sickness:

Horace Blanchard, discharged Nov. 23, 1896.
Timothy O'Mara, discharged Jan. 19, 1897.
E. L. White, discharged Feb. 5, 1897.
Dennis Nash, discharged Feb. 27, 1897.
Perley Baker, discharged April 28, 1867.
Susan J. Hunter, discharged Nov. 4, 1897.

All these had incurable diseases and it was better for both the institution and themselves that they be discharged.

The following have been sent to the Waterbury Insane Asylum:

Charles Harris, April 15, 1897.
John Atherton, May 25, 1897

Returned cured, Aug, 30, 1897:

William Knight, July 30, 1897.
Richard Carroll, Sept. 7, 1897.

Returned cured, Nov. 29, 1897:

Lewis Coutnoir, Sept. 25, 1897.
Arthur J. Allen, April 20, 1898.
Millie Wilson, Aug. 25, 1896.

The number of cases of sickness has increased somewhat since the last biennial pediod. During that period there were 351 cases recorded, while the above table sums up 385. A comparison of different classes of ailments for the two periods throws some light on the causes of the increase.

During the period of 1895-96, there were 59 cases of acute disease of the digestive organs; and during the period 1897-98, there were 65 cases in this class.

During the first period there were 34 cases of infectious disease, and during the second, 71.

During the first period there were 69 cases of diseases usually attributable to exposure, such as colds, bronchitis and rheumatism, and during the second, 77.

Of venereal diseases, during the first period there were 34 cases, and during the second, 24.

Of injuries requiring surgical treatment, there were during the first period, 18 cases, and during the second 21. Most of the injuries in both periods were such as will occasionally occur among laboring men.

Prisoners are frequently committed with wounds of various kinds. The most serious wounds we have been called upon to dress were incised wounds of the face and neck, which were self-inflicted, and an infected punctured wound of the hand which resulted in the loss of a finger.

There was a marked falling off in the prevalence of LaGrippe in the last period. The comparisons above made are instructive; there was a slight increase in the prevalence both of diseases of the digestive organs and of those due to exposure. There have been several sudden outbreaks of cholera morbus and intestinal disease, such as comes from improper food or drink. The food of the institution is still prepared by prisoners. Its quality, as bought, is good, and I have taken pains to examine frequently the general condition of the kitchen and the cleanliness of both it and the men employed there. It has not been possible to trace the outbreaks spoken of to the food and I am sure the kitchen arrangements are now as good as is possible while the work is wholly entrusted to the prisoners.

Digitized by Google

In this connection, however, I must repeat my recommendation of last year, that a kitchen superintendent or experienced cook be employed from outside, who shall have full authority over this department of the prison and who shall be held responsible for its cleanliness and general condition, as well as for the food prepared there. There was a suspicion that the outbreaks mentioned came from impure water, inasmuch as they coincided with a turbid condition of the water drawn from the House of Correction faucets. The water supply of the institution comes from the blind end of a city main, and there is a deposit here of dirt and iron rust which is plainly visible whenever the end is "blown off." Some plan should be devised by which this pipe may have a constant circulation through it, or the supply should be taken from another main.

The comparisons made show also a slight increase in the number of cases of colds, bronchitis and catarrhal affections. I know of no way in which these complaints can be avoided, and I presume they will prevail to some extent whatever the employment of the inmates.

It will be noticed that there was a marked increase in the prevalence of the infectious diseases, especially of phthisis, diphtheria and measles. Each of these is due to a specific germ, each is contagious, and neither arises de novo. The original cases were imported, of course, but when is uncertain. Once in such an institution, they stay for an indefinite period, unless the most perfect hygienic conditions prevail, and the cases are isolated from the other inmates until every trace of the disease has disappeared. With these facts in mind we have taken extraordinary precautions with diphtheria and measles and have quarantined each until there was no possible danger of their infecting others. There is always the possibility, however, that others may have been exposed before the discovery of the disease, and that the corridors or shop may have been infected with some of the expectorated matter before the case was quarantined. The corridors and cells occupied by these patients have always been carefully cleaned and disinfected, of course, after the cases have been discovered, but the difficulties in the way of adequate disinfection are increased by the fact that the patient may have left infected matter in the shop or elsewhere, and in places that defy absolute disinfection. Defective ventilation and crowding make it especially difficult to manage these infections in such an institution. Impure air enchances the danger to others who are confined with those sick with these diseases, and especially if with this, we have overcrowding. The ventilation of the cells here is provided for, and, while it is very questionable if the present provisions for this are adequate, still they are an improvement over no ventilation. There should be instituted a complete system of ventilation, which should include corridors, hospital and jail-room under the direction of a competent and experienced engineer. As to overcrowding, it is sufficient to say that there have been, at times in the past two years, over forty more prisoners than there was cell room for. To meet this condition two men have been placed in a cell, unoccupied rooms on the second floor have been provided with bunks and even worse crowded than the cells, and unoccupied hospital beds have been utilized. Such a condition of things should not be allowed to occur again; it goes without saying that it is generally unhealthy and that it is especially favorable to the spread of infectious disease.

Measures should be taken at once to anticipate the influx of prisoners that comes quite regularly with cold weather. It is utterly impossible to prevent the appearance here occasionally of these infections, diphtheria, measles and consumption, and some of the conditions that render them especially dangerous and difficult to stamp out are those alluded to above.

The House of Correction is being improved and enlarged, at the present time, with a view of giving more convenient chapel accommodations, adding a dining room and a hospital. These changes are necessary and will be an advantage to the health of the inmates in at least two particulars; the dining room, continguous to the kitchen, will allow the prisoners to be fed more systematically and orderly, and will dispense with the unwholesome necessity of conveying their food and eating utensils to their cells; the new hospital will furnish much-needed room for the proper isolation and care of the sick. This institution is a reformatory of broken physical constitutions as well as bad morals. There will always be a large sick list here, on account of the antecedents of the great majority of the inmates, and the frequent changes in the population. The hospital is a very important adjunct of the institution, and the new accommodations, when properly equipped with modern appliances, will meet an urgent demand.

I must commend the system of daily military drills, instituted here the past year, as sure to be of benefit to the health of the prisoners, as well as beneficial in other ways.

The officials of the institution are entitled to much credit for their devotion to their varied duties. and espcially to the comfort and health of the prisoners. They have invariably rendered every assistance possible in the care and treatment of the sick.

My acknowledgments are due Dr. S. W. Hammond and Dr. W. W. Townsend for their efficient professional aid in caring for the health of the prisoners.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES S. CAVERLY, M. D.,

Prison Physician.

Teacher's Report.

To the Directors of the Vermont House of Correction:

GENTLEMEN:—I hereby present my report as teacher of evening school for the two years ending July 1st, 1898.

The average attendance for the winter months has been twenty-five, for the summer months twenty-one, and for the entire term, twenty-three.

Most of the inmates of this institution are deficient, and many are very illiterate, some not even knowing their letters.

The school is composed largely of the young men of both classes.

The majority make fair progress, while some learn rapidly and make an excellent school record.

A young man was recently discharged able to compose an excellent letter, who did not know the alphabet on entering the school twelve months previously.

The branches taught are reading, writing, spelling, United States history, arithmetic, and have taught three inmates bookkeeping.

The benefits of the physical exercises have been very noticeable among the scholars, their voices growing stronger and clearer, and all manifest greater interest and disposition to study.

I sincerely hope the time will come when the young men of this institution may have more time to devote to study, so many are mere boys and sadly in need of mental and moral training to become good men and good citizens.

The newly finished white walls and electric lights are a great improvement, and have added much to the comfort and convenience of the schoolroom.

Thanking all for their hearty co-operation,

I am,

Respectfully,

H. M. CHATTERTON,

Teacher.

Section 5. On the arrival of male prisoners the deputy will see that they are thoroughly cleaned, and that they are all supplied with a suit of the prison uniform. He will personally examine them for indications of disease, and promptly report to the superintendent when such indications are discovered, who may order his beard removed or his hair cut close if it shall be necessary; he will see that their "citizen's dress" is cleansed, repaired if necessary, marked and put away. He shall explain to them the use of the bells as signals, see that each has a copy of the rules for the government of prisoners, and impress upon them the policy, as well as the necessity, of obeying them.

RULES AND REGULATIONS APPERTAINING TO NIGHT WATCHMAN.

Section 1. It shall be the duty of the night watchman during the interval from locking-up time until eight o'clock to exercise constant vigilance by moving silently around the block of cells and upon the galleries, that he may be able to detect any improper conduct of the prisoners, and to report to the superintendent any infractions of the rules by the prisoners while in their cells. During the remainder of the night he shall pass along in front of the cells at short intervals examining the same to see if each is securely locked, containing its inmate, and that the fires and lights and everything about the prison is properly cared for; and he shall be vigilant to discover signs of fire about any part of the institution, and upon the slightest discovery of that nature will alarm all of the officers.

RULE VI.

RULES AND REGULATIONS APPERTAINING TO THE KEEPERS AND OVERSEERS.—RULES FOR THE SHOP.

Section 1. Men whose special duty it is to guard prisoners will be called keepers.

Section 2. Men whose duty it is to instruct prisoners in their work will be called overseers; other men employed will be called workmen.

Section 3. The overseers have the privilege of selecting the men for the different kinds of work in the shop, subject to the approval of the superintendent; but in all cases when men are called upon to do work outside the shop, it must be such men as the keepers select, and they are to give their orders or make their suggestions to the prisoners in a kindly and gentlemanly manner, and in case of disobedience to such orders so given they are to report the same to the keepers.

Section 4. Keepers are to pay strict attention to see that the prisoners are industrious, obedient to orders given as provided for in No. 3, and respectful in their manner to the overseers, keepers, and to each other. They are to listen patiently to the complaints of overseers concerning misconduct of prisoners, and being satisfied of its necessity they shall reprimand the prisoner kindly and coolly, but firmly, and if he persists in wrong-doing they are to report him to the superintendent or deputy immediately, or at the close of the half day, as the necessity of the case may call for. They are required, if possible, to manage so that one of them shall be at their stands all the time, and but one in the stand except on business, and then their stay shall be no longer than is necessary. When they leave their stands, one at a time, to vary the monotony, they are bound to guard the same portions of the shop as when watching at their stands. They are to allow neither overseer, workman nor prisoner to remain at their stands.

Section 5. Neither overseers nor workmen are allowed to receive anything from any of the prisoners to carry away, or bring anything in for them except it passes through the office of the superintendent. They are to hold no conversation with prisoners, except such as is necessary to inform them what to do and how to do it.

Section 6. No loud or boisterous talk will be allowed in the shop, and any misunderstanding which may arise must be talked over at some other time if at all.

Section 7. Visitors will be admitted to the workshop only by permission of the superintendent.

Section 8. The keepers will not leave their posts without being relieved. They will not allow a prisoner to pass out of the shop except in charge of a proper officer, and it shall be their duty to keep their weapons in good order; it shall be required of them to prevent any prisoner from making his escape at all hazards.

Section 9. They shall march their men to and from the cells in close order, taking the lock step, and shall use their utmost endeavors to enforce non-intercourse and obedience to all the rules and regulations necessary for their government.

RULE VII.

RULES AND REGULATIONS APPERTAINING TO PRISONERS.—RULES FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF PRISONERS.

Section 1. The first duty of a prisoner is obedience, and it will be for his interest, as it is his duty, to be respectful and obedient to the officers, and to conform to the rules and regulations established for his government. Prisoners will rise in the morning when the bell rings, dress, wash, comb, make up their beds neatly and be ready for breakfast. When the doors are opened they will pass quietly out, receive their breakfast and return in an orderly manner to their cells.

Section 2. After breakfast prisoners will put their cells in order, making everything as neat and clean as possible, and be ready at the proper time to go to their work. When the doors are unfastened and the order given, prisoners will leave their cells and form in line in the corridor, standing quietly at attention while the count is made. At the order they will march in lock-step to the shop and at once take the places assigned them for work, which they must not leave without permission or direction from the keeper or foreman. When in shops and other places of labor they are to obey all orders promptly, exhibit no ill-temper when admonished by an officer; must not indulge in laughter, must have no conversation whatever with another prisoner, must not communicate any intelligence in writing, nor by looks or signs, nor stare at visitors, nor speak to or answer them, nor give to or receive from them anything.

Section 3. They must approach their keepers in a respectful manner and be brief in their communications; they are not to speak to them on ordinary topics, nor address them except when it becomes necessary in relation to their work or necessary wants. They must not leave the place of labor without permission from the keeper.

Section 4. If a prisoner is sick and unable to labor he will make it known to his keeper and act as he directs. When the shop bell rings for dinner or supper they will form in a line as the keepers shall direct, and march to the kitchen window and receive the food, which they will carry carefully without spilling or dropping, to their cells. In all cases where a prisoner enters his cell he will hold the door firmly closed until it is locked. At the ringing of the bell at night the prisoner will retire and observe a profound silence from that time until the ringing of the bell in the morning. Prisoners will not be allowed to sleep in the clothes worn during the day, and are required to lay each article separately, that the guard on duty can see that this rule is complied with.

Section 5. Every prisoner shall bathe at least once in each week, unless excused by the physician or superintendent. All prisoners are required to attend religious exercises in the chapel on Sunday, unless they are sick or excused. While in the chapel the strictest order and decorum must be observed, keeping their faces towards the desk and treating the chaplain and instructors with becoming respect.

Section 6. All noise in the prison is expressly forbidden, and there must be no talk or other communication between prisoners on any occasion without permission from an officer of the prison.

Section 7. The destruction or unnecessary injury of any article of clothing, bedding, furniture, books, or any marking or defacing of the walls or these rules, or the waste or improper use of food, will be deemed a cause for punishment.

Section 8. Prisoners having formed the habit of using tobacco before entering the prison, will be allowed such an amount of tobacco as the superintendent shall direct. Spiting tobacco juice upon floors or walls of cells or corridors or through the grated windows is strictly forbidden. Prisoners disobeying this rule will lose their tobacco allowance and be otherwise punished. Smoking is positively prohibited. Male and female prisoners are not allowed to communicate with each other under any circumstances without permission of an officer and in his presence.

Section 9. Each prisoner, if he obeys the rules, will be permitted to write to his friends once a month at the expense of the state, and but one letter per week at his own expense, except by special permission of the superintendent; and all letters are to be written as plainly as possible and upon the lines of the paper, as no cross writing is permitted, and sent unsealed to the superintendent's office with the writer's name signed in full.

Section 10. All letters containing any false statements or improper language will be destroyed, and the prisoner so offending forfeits the privileges of writing and receiving letters. Any money a prisoner may have when he enters the prison, or that he may receive afterwards from his friends or other sources, must be placed in the hands of the superintendent, an account of which will be kept, and if well behaved he will be allowed to draw against it to pay for such articles as prisoners are allowed to have, and the balance, if any, will be paid to him on his discharge.

Section 11. For all violations of the above rules the prisoner will subject himself to severe punishment, and a deduction from good time gained. It is the duty of the officers in charge of the prisoners to see that these rules are promptly observed, as no officer except the superintendent has authority to suspend them or excuse their violation.

Governor of Vermont:

As required by law the trustees of the Vermont Industrial School herewith respectfully submit this their biennial report for the two years ending June 30th, 1898.

The school for the past two years has experienced a continuation of prosperity. With the largest number of inmates in the history of the institution, we have had but little sickness and no deaths. The buildings, farm, and other property of the State are in excellent condition. There has been no abating in the efforts of the superintendent and his assistants to make the institution what it was intended to be, a place to make good and useful men and women out of boys and girls whom circumstances or heredity have inclined to go wrong. Faithful effort and service have resulted and are resulting in a fair measure of success.

The school is growing and under present laws is bound to grow. Hereafter it will be an exceptional case where County Courts in their discretion shall not for ordinary crimes and misdemeanors requiring imprisonment commit boys and girls under seventeen or eighteen years of age to the Vermont Industrial School. Our truancy laws have swung the door wide open, not only to willful truants, but also to that far larger class of friendless children whom poverty and want have driven from school. There is a growing tendency on the part of some of our towns and cities to make this institution a convenient alms house in which to place their destitute boys and girls. Thrifty overseers of the poor find ways by which to relieve themselves of the care of this class of paupers. The pinch of poverty will make a truant or develop a thief. There is nothing that will cure one kind of truancy like a sack of flour and a little milk and meat in the child's home. Not long since a small, ill-clad, pinched-face boy came to us convicted of the crime of stealing ten pounds of pork. Upon investigation we became satisfied that something might be wrong with the boy and entirely satisfied that something was wrong with the town. Both need to reform. We do not recommend going back to the old system of "town aid." There is hardly an inmate of the school today but that is better cared for than he possibly could be out of it, but there would seem to be no good reason why a town in sending us a truant and at the same time relieving itself of an actual pauper, a member of a family that is being partly or wholly supported by the town, should not do something toward paying the expenses of keeping that boy at our State institution.

About nine-tenths of our inmates come from our cities and incorporated villages; and more than 50 per cent of the whole number come from certain towns whose aggregate population is about 15 per cent of the entire population of the State. This may mean that our larger towns breed bad boys or that the laws are more rigidly enforced here than in the smaller places.

So far as possible, we have continued the practice of "placing out" in respectable families boys and girls whom we believe may be trusted. This system makes a saving to the State and at the same time supplies a kind of training and education which cannot be obtained in the school itself. In the school the boy learns to obey. He is told when to go to bed and when to get up, when to work and when to play, and he does as he is told. He is held in place by outside pressure. But on the farm and in the shop, away from the necessary fixed rules and regulations of the School, he gains self-reliance and a proper independence of action. The "placing out" system needs more good places for some of our deserving inmates.

The girls' department is coming to be a more important annex of the institution than it has in the past. There are now twenty-four girls in the school, all of whom are given careful instruction in the common branches, good morals, and gentle manners; also thorough training in sewing and needle work which is put to practical use in making and mending the clothing of the boys. During the past year the superintendent and matron have commenced in a limited way to give the girls instruction in the art of cooking and housework. It being the aim of the management to so equip the girls that they will be self-supporting as housekeepers or servants when they come to leave the school.

We have to report for the term two extraordinary items of expense in the way of permanent repairs or additions: the old system of lighting by gas had practically failed, had become dirty, dangerous and insufficient; and in the early winter of '96 and '97 was replaced with electricity at an expense of $596.96. Our lighting facilities are now perfect in every particular, and all things considered, will prove, we believe, as cheap as the old system. One year ago we were obliged to put in three new tubular boilers, and replace some of the piping in order to properly heat the building. This was done at an expense of $2,133.98. The old boilers were never sufficient in capacity and had become so impaired as to make it unsafe and unwise to attempt to winter with them. Without forcing the fires we can now have ample steam for present or prospective needs.

There is a need of a substantial addition to the present barn room. The farm under present management is producing sufficient to carry nearly double the the amount of stock now fed on the place, but there is a lack of room to house the stock and store the hay. With plenty of help at hand to harvest the hay and grain and take care of the stock we believe it would be good economy and good business to furnish barns sufficient to meet the requirements. We estimate that an outlay of $1,000 would make the needed additions.

We have carefully complied with the statute requiring us twice a year to inquire into the cause of commitment of each person, and in a private examination giving each child a chance to make any complaint that he desires in regard to his treatment. It may be a satisfaction to know that at no time has any inmate had a word of complaint to make against our excellent superintendent or his good wife. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews are giving their best energies and all of their conscience to the work in hand.

The one fact that we have to record with profound sorrow is the death of Hon. Carlton W. Read, which occurred at his home in May last. He was a faithful friend of the School, a helpful, agreeable associate, and an able, conscientious trustee.

Letters from the Children.

MY DEAR FRIEND:

I was very much surprised when I read your letter. I cannot recall an instance where my deportment has not been good. I have tried to conduct myself properly at all times, but as you say there are probably a number of persons who would like to have me recalled. I shall make every effort to retain my liberty. I suppose the boys will have a great time this afternoon. Please remember me to Mrs. Andrews and all the officers who took such a kindly interest in my welfare during my stay at the school.

Hoping for a reply, I remain,

Yours truly,

JUNE 11, 1898.

DEAR MR. ANDREWS:

I will write you a few lines to let you know how I am getting along. I am at home still and am well. I am going to remain at home this summer and help on the farm. I like here very much. I expect to attend school next winter, although it is three miles distant. I wish I could have stayed there till I had a better education. I see now where I missed it in not studying more while there.

My brother is attending school and working for his board—has a good place. I would like to hear from the boys and the teachers.

Your friend,

MAY 10, 1898.

MY DEAR MR. AND MRS. ANDREWS:

I got home all right. My father and mother were glad to see me. The term was so near out they did not think best for me to go to school. I will have a long vacation. I will come this summer to see you.

How are the boys? Remember me to Miss Fiske. I thank you all very much for your kindness while I was there.

From your friend,

JULY 1, 1898.

DEAR FRIEND:

I had a very nice time when I came up on the excursion, and things looked natural on the Lake and Creek. I am in need of a little money as I want some shoes and a few other things to wear. I wish you would be so kind as to send a little of that I left with you. How are all the boys and officers? I would not care if I were back there.

Your friend,

DEC. 26, 1897.

MY DEAR MR. AND MRS. ANDREWS:

Yours of the 15th inst., duly received. It pleased me ever so much. I am attending school every day and am getting along well in all my studies. I have passed examinations in all of them excepting arithmetic. I should like to go and visit the school but can not just now, may go later.

Your friend,

FEB. 14, 1898

MR. ANDREWS:

As I have not written you for some time I will now do so. I hope you and Mrs. Andrews are well and all your family. School is out so I do not have very much to do. I have fifty-two dollars a year with the privilege of attending school. My time is out the 29th of March. Had I better remain another year? I wish you would advise me about it. I have gone as far as I can in the graded school. I would like a place where there is some chance of advancement. I think I can furnish good recommendations.

Hoping to hear from you soon,

I remain,

Your friend,

JAN. 30, 1898.

DEAR FRIENDS :

I will write you a line or two to let you know that I am alive and well. I am working in the mill and have been for about a year. I work in the sorting room and like my work very much. I go to church Sundays and am trying to be good. I will send you one of my photographs. How many girls and boys have you ?

I will close hoping to hear from you soon.

Yours truly,

DECEMBER 12, 1897.

MR. ANDREWS:

I will write a few lines to you to let you know how I am getting along. I have enjoyed very good health ever since I came here. I am pretty busy with my school work and with the work around the house. I do not mean that I have to work hard, for I do not. I have found Mr. ——— to be a very considerate man. All of the family have been very kind to me. I send my report card of the term. I have joined the Y. P. S. C. E. and shall try to be regular in attendance. I will close for this time.

Yours truly,

DEAR MRS. ANDREWS:

Something tells me that you are wondering how I am getting along. I think very well. I am working in the same place and boarding with the same people. I am going home next Saturday to spend the Sabbath. Mr. F. sent me the children's pictures and they are fine.

I was at church this morning; it is nice and cool, but for the past week it has been very warm. What makes you think I go on Sunday excursions? That I have never done. I go home on Sunday occasionally, and would seldom go if I did not go then.

Remember me to Mr. Andrews and all inquiring friends.

Lovingly,

REMARKS.

Our work for the past biennial period has differed but little from that of former years.

For thirty-two years this institution has received delinquent boys and for over twenty years has received girls of the same class.

During that time 1,123 boys and 129 girls have been committed to the school.

We are often questioned regarding the cause of so many children, especially the younger and apparently innocent ones, being in our school.

Honest as well as vicious poverty, death, desertion or neglect of parents, evil associations, pure meanness, and cigarettes as well as whiskey are some of the sources which feed the constant stream of depravity into this school.

Again we are asked, "When the twig is so sadly bent how is the tree to become erect?" We have no fixed rule but we think the most practical method is to supply what has been lacking in the child's life—kindness where there has been unkindness, firmness for weakness, mental, moral and religious training in place of ignorance and vice, or in other words to supply, as far as a public institution can do, a well regulated home with such provision and supervision as are needed for the perfect development of a child.

During the past biennial period the number of wards has increased, 141 having been committed, the truancy legislation being in part the cause for the increase. Forty-four truants have been committed, coming largely from the cities. There have been placed on furlough 103 boys and 10 girls. Letters from parents, guardians and agents, as well as from the children themselves, attest the majority are doing well. Only 18 have been returned, the majority of those from no fault of theirs. No trouble is found in securing places for all who are old enough to work. As probation officer, I have not visited the children as often as I ought on account of the time and expense required.

The Legislature of 1896 gave the County Court discretionary power to commit children over 16 years of age. Under this act seven children have been committed.

We have had the largest number of girls in the history of the school, and their improvement has been more marked. There are many hopeful cases, and all are susceptible of improvement. As usual, the girls have been employed in making and repairing the boys' clothing as well as their own, and they are also being taught to cook.

Their quarters have been improved by new ceilings and paint; also iron bedsteads with wire springs.

Never since our connection with the school has there been as much cause for encouragement in this department.

The increased number of small boys has necessitated a morning session of the school, as it was impossible for the teacher of the second school to give proper attention to them in the afternoon. If the number should continue to increase another teacher will be required.

The advancement in school work has been marked, and we think the work done compares favorably with that in the public schools. The morale of the school has been good, and although more liberty has been given, we have had fewer cases of discipline and a less number of attempts to elope.

No more important duty devolves upon the Superintendent than the instruction of the juvenile wards in morals and religion. We endeavor to give non-sectarian instruction and to inculcate the simple truths of morality and religion. Services of song are made an important feature, being enjoyed by the children, and are, we think, very helpful to them. As in the past, we have been welcomed to the services of the several churches in the city and the pastors visit us frequently, helping us by words of instruction and encouragement in our chapel exercises.

The health of the children has been uniformly good. Many come to us in a poor physical condition, but as a rule children committed to our care soon improve in that respect. This we attribute largely to the improved dietary, regular habits and sanitary conditions. During the winter of 1896 and 1897 we had an epidemic of over 40 cases of measles, and in 1897 we had several cases of scarlet fever. That no fatalities occurred we think is due to careful nursing and the skillful treatment of Dr. E. W. Shipman, who has ever promptly responded to our call, and whose timely advice relative to sanitary measures we, at this time, desire to acknowledge.

In my last report I called attention to the poor condition of our gasolene lighting plant. An estimate for repairing it was so large that it was decided best to light with electricity, and in the fall and winter of 1896–97, at an expense of $600, the buildings were wired for 230 lights, the Vergennes Lighting Company contracting to furnish the current at reasonable rates.

While the expense for electric lighting may be a little more than by the former system, the results secured, viz., better quality of lights, greater safety, especially in the barns, the lessening of expense in whitening walls and the higher sanitary condition justify the change.

It was with difficulty during the winter of 1897, on account of the condition of our heating apparatus, that we were able to keep the buildings warm. The boilers were old and of insufficient capacity, and much of the piping defective.

The contract was given the G. S. Blodgett Co. of Burlington to furnish two 35-horse power tubular boilers and one 20-horse power tubular boiler for cooking and laundry work. Although the expense was considerable, the plant is first-class, and we think it a good investment. With new plumbing, boilers and electric lights the school is better equipped than ever before. With a few inexpensive repairs, such as laying a floor in sleeping hall and painting of roofs, the property will be in good condition.

In August, 1897, lightning struck the large barn and completely destroyed the weather-vane and damaged the roof. For a time we thought the entire barn would be consumed, and it seems almost a miracle that it was not. The insurance was adjusted by appraisal, and the amount received was paid the State Treasurer.

The large room in the third story of the arsenal building, formerly used for a store room, has been recently fitted up for a gymnasium, the work being done by Mr. Pratt, the Assistant Superintendent, with the help of boys. It is used in inclement weather, being much enjoyed by the boys.

The farm, as in the past, has been made a training school for the larger boys, the majority of whom will, of necessity, if they remain in this State, become farm laborers. Nearly all are taught to milk and to do general farm work; also to care for and drive team horses.

The farm has yielded large crops of hay and a fair amount of grain. The potatoes and other vegetables raised have lessened the subsistence account.

Our stock is in good condition. From Ayrshires, purchased a few years ago, we have a herd of thoroughbreds and grades that compare favorably with the best.

With increased products we require more room for forage. At present we have quite an amount of hay stacked and no barn room for grain, which will necessitate its being threshed out of doors, and the straw, which we need for children's beds, we shall also be obliged to stack. This is necessarily wasteful.

The piggery, which is an annex to the cow stable and has a good cement basement, could be readily and with little expense converted into a hay loft and stable for young stock, and the pigs removed to a new piggery to be built at a proper distance from the other barns. This would enable us to keep more stock, which we can easily do with the present amount of farm products, and would be economy for the State, as we could use all of the beef produced. I recommend that an appropriation of $1,000 be made to build piggery and repair stables.

Those who deal with juvenile delinquents have to meet with discouragements, but we close the year feeling that we have met with some degree of success. We are grateful to the institutions whose publications we regularly receive, keeping us informed of what is done in similar institutions.

In conclusion I wish to thank the Board of Trustees for their wise direction and continued willingness to sustain me.

If my administration has in any way been successful it is largely due to the co-operation of my assistants.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

S. A. ANDREWS, Supt.

Vergennes, Vt., July 27, 1898.

REPORT.

To the Honorable the General Assembly of Vermont:

The Trustees of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College respectfully present their seventeenth report for the collegiate years, 1897, 1898.

HISTORY AND CHARTERS.

"An act for the purpose of founding a University at Burlington" was passed by the Legislature of Vermont, November 2d, 1791, of which the following are the preamble and first section:

"Whereas, the education of youth is necessary for the advancement of morality, virtue and happiness, and tends to render a people or State respectable; to promote which establishments for seminaries and colleges have ever been patronized by all good governments; and, whereas, several grants of land have already been made by the State, and private liberal donations have been offered, for promoting so needful an establishment within the same, which demand the attention of this Legislature for laying the foundation for an institution so beneficent to society; therefore:

Section I. It is hereby enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Vermont, that there shall be and hereby is a College instituted and established at such place in the township of Burlington, in the county of Chittenden, as the corporators hereinafter named shall think most convenient for that purpose, to be known and designated by the style of the University of Vermont."

A subsequent act gave to the corporation of the University "full power, right and authority to appropriate to the use and benefit of the said University forever all such lands as have been already granted and reserved by the authority of this State for the use and benefit of a college."

The act of incorporation vested in the Trustees of the University of Vermont full power "to appoint, elect, support and remove from time to time all such officers and servants as they shall find necessary; to direct the studies of the youth; to establish professorships and professors, and provide for their support; to make and establish all necessary rules, regulations and by-laws for the orderly government of said University (provided always that the said rules, regulations and by-laws shall not tend to give preference to any religious sect or denomination whatsoever); to grant and confer all such degrees, literary titles, honors and distinctions as other universities, colleges and seminaries have done or may of right do; and to do any other thing which may be found necessary for the government and welfare of such an institution."

With the consent of the Corporation certain changes were made by the Legislature in respect to the number and the mode of election of the trustees of the University by Acts passed November 2d, 1810, and October 31st, 1823, but these were with like consent repealed by the Act of October 30th, 1838, which revived and confirmed the provisions of the original charter, which charter remains in full force at the present time, with such modifications as the Corporation of the University accepted in 1865, in accordance with the provisions of the charter of The University of Vermont and State Agricultural College.

In 1862, largely through the exertions of Hon. Justin S. Morrill, then Representative and since Senator from Vermont, Congress passed an "Act donating public lands to the several States and Territories which may provide colleges for the benefit of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts." Under the provisions of this Act, the Legislature of Vermont chartered in 1862 the Vermont Agricultural College, which, failing to receive the support necessary to put it into operation, was by an Act approved Nov. 6th, 1865, incorporated with the University of Vermont into one institution by the name of "The University of Vermont and State Agricultural College." This corporation is invested with the property, rights, powers and privileges which belonged to both or either of the corporations so combined, and "shall be and remain a body corporate forever, for the purpose of carrying out the objects contemplated in the respective charters" of the two institutions.

The "objects contemplated" in the charter of the Vermont Agricultural College are stated in the exact language of the Act of Congress providing for Colleges of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts, as follows:

"The leading object shall be, without excluding other scientific and classical studies, and including military tactics, to teach such branches of learning as are related to agriculture and the mechanic arts, in order to promote the liberal and practical education of the industrial classes in the several pursuits and professions in life."

The objects contemplated in the charter of the University of Vermont are stated in the Preamble and Sections as given above.

The Charter of the University of Vermont and State Agricultural College requires that "there shall, at all times, be maintained in the institution hereby created such instruction in the various branches of learning as is contemplated in the several charters of each of the institutions hereby united; and more particularly including a four years course of studies, similar to such as are generally taught in other colleges and not inferior to that recently taught in said University of Vermont; and in addition to that which is usually taught in other colleges, the instruction in this institution shall include such enlarged facilities, and extended scope and variety in the study of those branches which relate to military tactics, agriculture and the mechanic arts, as shall render the whole instruction in conformity with said Act of Congress, as well as with the several charters aforesaid."

Section II of the Charter provides that, for the purpose of receiving property by gift, grant, bequest or otherwise, and for certain other purposes therein specified, each of the original corporations shall be deemed and treated as having continued in life.

Gifts and bequests may therefore be made to (1) The University of Vermont, (2) The Vermont Agricultural College, (3) The University of Vermont and State Agricultural College.

By the provisions of "An Act to apply a portion of the proceeds of the public lands to the more complete endowment and support of the colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts, established under the provisions of an act of Congress, approved July second, eighteen hundred and sixty-two," the institution receives from the United States Treasury an annual appropriation to be applied "only to instruction in Agriculture, the Mechanic Arts, the English language, and the various branches of mathematical, physical, natural, and economic science, with special reference to their applications in the industries of life, and to the facilities for such instruction."

THE TRUSTEES.

Since the issue of the last report, the University has lost two of its Trustees by death, Hon. Crosby Miller, who died Nov. 22, 1897, and Hon. Homer Nash Hibbard, who died Nov. 15, 1897.

Judge Miller was at the time of his death the oldest Trustee, in term of service, with the exception of Senator Morrill, having been kept in office by successive re-elections by the Legislature since 1877. He has also been a member of the Board of Control of the Experiment Station during its whole existence. He was a typical Vermont farmer, and one of the best specimens of the type, intelligent, thoughtful, conservative, wise in all public affairs, interested in every good enterprise, well educated by reading and reflection but a believer in an education higher and broader than his own. He gave much time and thought to the affairs of the University, especially to the agricultural department. With great patience and earnestness he strove to overcome the prejudices against agricultural science entertained by some of his brethren in the early stages of the movement, and no small measure of the kindly feeling now entertained by the farmers of Vermont toward the institution and its work for agriculture is due to his twenty years service as a member of the Board of Trustees.

The term of service of Judge Hibbard was only one year less than that of Judge Miller, he having been elected a member of the Corporation of the University of Vermont in 1878. During all this time, though residing in Chicago, he was constant in his attendance upon the meetings of the Trustees, having missed only one or two sessions during twenty years. Bred under the old classical regime, and keeping up his scholarly tastes and sympathies to the last, he was broad and open-minded in his views of education, and heartily accepted and enthusiastically supported the new courses and new methods which the University, in common with all the progressive institutions of the country, was installing during his term of service. Genial, hearty, vigorous in speech and kindly in feeling and manner, he was a conspicuous and always a welcome personality in all college functions, and will be missed, not only in the meetings of the Board, but wherever the strong and faithful friends of the University have been wont, in years past, to make themselves heard and felt in her interests.

The Trustees whose terms will expire by limitation, and whose successors are to be chosen by your honorable body, are Hon. Justin S. Morrill, Gardner S. Fassett and Hon. Cassius Peck. In view of the highly useful relation which these gentlemen have long maintained to the institution as a whole, and especially to the agricultural and industrial departments, it seems hardly necessary to express the hope that you will see fit to re-elect them as Trustees for another term.

There is also a vacancy in the group holding office from November, 1895, to November, 1901, occasioned by the death of Hon. Crosby Miller.

The vacancy in the Corporation of the University of Vermont caused by the death of Judge Hibbard was filled by the Board, June 29th, by electing out of three persons nominated to them by the suffrages of the Alumni of the University, Hon. Benjamin F. Fifield of Montpelier.

THE FACULTY.

Since the publication of the last report, but few changes have been made in the Faculty. The completion and equipment for use of the Williams Science Hall has necessitated the employment of a number of assistants in the laboratories, and will in time call for an increase in the teaching force, if the facilities afforded are to be utilized to the greatest advantage. At present the great cost of maintaining the building in good physical condition prevents further expenditures in the line of instruction.

As it has seemed desirable that the mathematics in the Engineering Department should be pushed forward more rapidly in order to be available for application in the studies of the department, Mr. A. D. Butterfield, Instructor in the Worcester Polytechnic Institute, has been appointed Instructor in Mathematics in the Engineering Department.

In the department of chemistry, John B. Stearns, A. M., has been appointed Assistant Professor of Chemistry, and will give instruction in mineralogy, taking the position vacated by Prof. Loomis. Mr. Stearns was for three years assistant to the Professor of Chemistry, and has for the past two years been pursuing chemical and mineralogical studies in Harvard University. Charles F. Whitney, B. S., who has faithfully served as assistant in the laboratories during the past year, has been appointed Instructor in Chemistry. Henry A. Torrey, A. B., of this University, and Ph. D. of Harvard, who has been pursuing his studies in Germany under the privilege of a Harvard fellowship, has been appointed Instructor in Chemistry.

On the expiration of the detail of Capt. Tutherly as Professor of Military Science and Tactics, the War Department, at the request of the University, detailed, as his successor, First Lieutenant Charles J. Bailey, First Artillery, U. S. A. Lieut. Bailey came to us highly recommended by both army men and civilians who had known him, and has fully justified the high reputation which had preceded him. Strict in discipline and commanding respect for all soldierly qualities, he is courteous and genial in his relation with students, and has succeeded in bringing the military department to a high state of efficiency. The War Department in calling Lieut. Bailey into active service gave promise that if the condition of the service should permit he would be returned to his post in the University at the beginning of the next college year.

THE SCIENCES VERSUS THE HUMANITIES.

The question between the advocates of the old and the new education reduces itself to this: what is the relative value in preparation for life of the two groups of studies known as the classical and the scientific? The discussion is familiarizing the public with an older and better term for the former group—the humanities, the studies which center about man and his institutions, namely: language, literature, history, politics, philosophy, art. The latter group busies itself with the material universe, its facts, laws, forces, and especially their adaptation to the uses of life. By long usage the term "liberal" is applied to the education which is largely made up of the former studies, on the assumption that a man so educated is made broad minded, generally capable, that he has conferred upon him the freedom of the world. This kind of education is understood to be the natural gateway to the professions of law, divinity, politics and literature. The other education leads in one direction toward higher attainments in pure science, in mathematics, astronomy, geology, biology, physics, chemistry, and in another direction toward invention and progress in material arts and industries. It is in this latter view, and in this only, that scientific education is regarded as more "practical" than the other. Research in pure science, or conducted in the purely scientific spirit, is no more "practical", that is, it bears no more directly upon life, its resources and conveniences, than researches in language and philosophy. And it is equally true that studies into the attainments and possibilities of human nature, into the life and works of man as showing what he may be and ought to be are no less practical than the studies which expend themselves upon the things which touch man only on the outside.

Although historically there is no ground for any such distinction, yet in this country the "College" has come to stand for the "liberal education", so called, and the "University" for the broader scope which embraces both kinds of education. The University of Vermont, since its resources have been enlarged by the national grants, is, within its limited sphere, a University in this sense. It maintains the old curriculum of arts and letters, the old and ever new studies in languages ancient and modern, in the great literatures of the ages past and present, in philosophy, history, politics and art. It has all the old faith in these studies as liberalizing, humanizing, fitting for the large and full life of the citizen, the man of letters and of culture, the man of affairs, the patriot and Christian; and it has faith also in the disciplinary and practical value of the scientific studies, and calls upon the friends of education to rejoice with it in the generosity of benefactors which has made possible so large an extension of its resources in this direction.

THE WILLIAMS SCIENCE HALL AND FACILITIES FOR SCIENTIFIC AND TECHNICAL INSTRUCTION.

In addition to his gift of the Williams Science Hall described in our last report, Dr. Williams has contributed $60,000 for furniture and apparatus, most of which has been already expended. The result is an equipment for instruction and research in the four departments of chemistry, physics, electricity and biology which will bear comparison with that offered by any institution of learning in the land. In order to give the members of the Legislature, and through them the general public of Vermont, some knowledge of the facilities for scientific and technical instruction now offered by the University of the State, a somewhat detailed description of the apparatus provided and the work done in the several departments here follows, as furnished by the heads of the departments.

I. CHEMISTRY.

The portion of the Williams Science Hall devoted to chemistry includes practically the entire northern wing of the building in three stories and basement.

On the third floor the main laboratory was planned for elementary general chemistry and qualitative analysis, and has desk accommodation for sixty-four students. This laboratory is 40x43 feet. It is provided with seven ventilation hoods, besides a hooded copper steam bath for evaporations and two hooded sinks. The steam bath has drying chambers beneath it.

Accessory rooms comprise a stench room with the working spaces all hooded, a small room for special work like spectroscopy, and a store room about 18x19 feet, containing shelves and drawers for the storing of apparatus.

On the second floor, the main laboratory of same size as the one above was planned for advanced work in quantitative analysis, with desk accommodation for twenty-four students. The plain hoods, of which there are eleven, are provided with water, gas and steam jets for heating and evaporation purposes. There is also a soapstone drying chamber heated by coils of steam pipes. The accessory rooms are: room for combustion analyses, balance room, volumetric analysis room and store room.

On the first floor, the main laboratory was designed chiefly for work in organic chemistry. It is of dimensions: 40x21½ feet, and has desk room for 18 students. It has two plain hoods, one hooded sink, and hooded copper steam bath with drying chambers beneath.

All these copper steam baths mentioned are so arranged that, besides the free steam which plays about the bottom of an evaporating dish, warm air may be blown upon the surface of an evaporating liquid, thus accelerating the rate of an evaporation by about one-third.

Every desk in the laboratories is supplied with gas, water, blast and exhaust, the blast for blow-pipe work and fusion analyses, and the exhaust for acceleration of filtering. In the organic laboratory, each desk is further supplied with steam, likewise the benches in the stench room. The stench room is piped for supply of hydrogen sulphide and the combustion analysis room is piped also for oxygen and hydrogen, but the connecting plants for these supplies have not yet been put in.

On the first floor is the lecture room with seating capacity for eighty-one students. Accessory rooms on this floor are: store room, balance room, and a room serving as a preparation room to the lecture table.

In the basement is located the assaying department, at present arranged chiefly for the assaying of gold and silver ores. The laboratory is 30x18 feet, and is furnished with three Judson muffle assay furnaces, and two crucible furnaces. A class of six may be accommodated. In the boiler room are placed the special twelve horse-power vertical boiler which supplies the steam for working purposes to all of the laboratories, and the pump which supplies the blast and exhaust to all of the desks. This pump is a Deane steam vacuum pump, the steam end of which is of the variety known as the "direct acting" Deane engine.

II. BIOLOGY.

The Biological Laboratories occupy the south half of the third floor of Science Hall. There are two large rooms, one for the study of animals and one for that of plants. Each of these has tables for 25 students. They are intended for use separately, but in case of need they can be thrown together and both used as one. Besides the main laboratories there are several smaller rooms which are used as private laboratories for instructors or advanced students The lighting of the rooms is such that microscopic work can be carried on in any part of them, though, naturally, the permanent tables are placed near windows. These are supplied with electricity and gas. All the rooms have been furnished with tables and chairs specially made according to the plans of the instructors and have proved, after a year's trial, exceedingly satisfactory. The tables of solid oak are unusually large and firm and are so constructed that each student has ample light and space for carrying on whatever investigation he may wish. Numerous drawers fitted with compartments for the reception of minor apparatus, reagents, etc., add to the convenience of these tables. There is a good supply of excellent compound microscopes, so that each student has his own instrument assigned for use during his biological course. There are also a number of Reichert Microscopes fitted for bacteriological work with objectives up to 1-12 oil immersion, one of the largest binoculars made by Crouch, furnished with all needed accessories and a considerable number of Leitz dissecting miscroscopes. The laboratories are also furnished with five microtomes, camera lucidas, imbedding ovens, incubators, balances, condensors, klinostat, electric motor, and such other apparatus as is needed for all ordinary biological investigation.

The study of both plant and animal structure is greatly aided by the use of a fine series of models made by Auzoux and Deyrolle, demonstrating the anatomy of the principal groups of animals and plants as well as enlarged models of various organs and structures.

There is also a nearly complete series of Auzoux models for the study of human anatomy and physiology such as complete manikin, large model of the brain, series showing the development of the ovum, models of the eye, ear, digestive, circulatory and other systems.

Adjoining the botanical laboratory is a finely equipped herbarium. On the floor above is a small but very completely supplied conservatory with tanks for aquatic plants, etc., so that living plants are at all times available for study. This also contains a carpenter's bench, tools and apparatus suited to experimental work in physiology of plants. A well furnished lecture room with a full series of Leuchart and Nitsche zoological, and Kny and other botanical charts is provided for the use of the biological instructors. There is a very convenient dark room thoroughly equipped with cameras and other apparatus for photographic work.

III. PHYSICS.

The physical department occupies the two lower floors and the basement of the south wing of the William Science Hall.

Digitized by Google

The second floor is devoted to the laboratory work of the first year students. The main laboratory on this floor is a large, well lighted room provided with gas, hot and cold water and pipes for exhausting or compressing air. The cement floor absorbs all vibrations and permits the performance of very delicate experiments which would be beyond the reach of students in ordinary laboratories. The laboratory work is conducted on the "class plan" and the student is able to follow his course of experiments in logical sequence. The apparatus is a part of Dr. Edward William's magnificent gift and is as complete as can be desired. The course consists of 63 carefully chosen experiments in mechanics, sound, heat, light, electricity and magnetism. The laboratory course is taken simultaneously with a course of lectures in which the relation is emphasized between the principles involved in the experiments and phenomena too general to be within the reach of any laboratory. The student is expected to become familiar with the principles involved, to acquire the habit of careful, systematic observation and to be able to draw his inferences logically before passing from the course.

The first floor is devoted to the lecture room and the laboratories for advanced work in the special topics of heat or electricity and magnetism.

The lecture room is admirably equipped with a slate top lecture table, an electric projection lantern and screen, electrometer, galvanometers and scale, curtains with hydraulic cylinder for raising and lowering together, etc. A complete equipment of lecture apparatus has been provided by Dr. Williams.

The electrical laboratory is supplied with tables to rest on piers separated from the floor and a fairly complete equipment of apparatus including a tangent galvanometer, magnetometer, sensitive galvanometers of various types, Kelvin balance, potentiometer, secohmmeter, variable standard of self-induction, condensors, resistance boxes, etc. The laboratory work in electricity and magnetism includes a series of experiments involving the accurate measurement of current strength, resistance, magnetic permeability of iron under various stresses, capacities, self and mutual inductance of circuits, etc.

The laboratory work is accompanied by a course of lectures on the determination of the various units in terms of the standard units of length, time and mass, on the sources of error in the various methods of measurements and a discussion of the modern theory of electricity and magnetism, of electro-magnetic waves, their relation to light and their application to the process of telegraphing without wires.

The basement contains suction and compression pump for supplying the laboratories with compressed or rarified air, a small pump for liquefying carbonic acid gas, a mercury still and a Rapp's mercury pump.

Digitized by Google

IV. ELECTRICITY.

The more important lines of practical electrical engineering are dynamo and transformer designing, theory and practice of electric street railway engineering, electric power stations and distributing systems for electric lighting, and especially the study of the generating, transmitting and transforming devices involved in the electric transmission of power by alternating currents. These are thoroughly treated in the lecture room and laboratories so far as the time and facilities available will permit. The laboratories now afford excellent facilities for experimental work in these several lines. The laboratory work in the electrical engineering is performed in four rooms in the Williams Science Hall, two other rooms, one for photometry, the other for electro-metallurgy, yet remaining to be equipped. One room is devoted chiefly to work with direct current machines by Sophomores and Juniors. It contains one dynamo of 350 lights capacity which is used by students for making tests of regulation, etc., and for charging storage batteries and driving motors; it contains also two small machines which can be used either as dynamos or motors, especially designed for students' work; they are each of about five horse-power capacity and are provided with easily removable parts. A second room is devoted chiefly to alternating current experiments by Seniors and Juniors, but contains besides alternating current dynamos an arc light dynamo and arc lamps. One of the machines in this room is arranged for use as a mono-phase, di-phase or tri-phase generator, or as a rotary converter; and another unique machine is the twenty horse-power tri-phase motor with revolving primary which receives current from the mains of the commercial company and drives all the shafting in these rooms besides serving the students for testing purposes. The list of transformers contains nine of various sizes ranging from ten to one-half horse-power capacity. In a third room are two fifty horse-power street railway motors, a series-multiple controller, large friction dynamometers, rheostats for heavy currents, and the necessary measuring instruments for making complete efficiency and regulation tests of the motors under conditions similar to those met in practical work.

The fourth room is used chiefly as a work shop, but contains, besides a lathe, band saw, emery wheels, etc., a five horse-power two phase motor which is available for testing purposes.

A large assortment of portable instruments of the most approved types enables students to perform a wide range of experiments, and batteries, banks of lamps and large rheostats make it possible to test all the apparatus under conditions identical with those to be encountered in commercial work.

Digitized by Google

DEPARTMENT OF ENGINEERING.

The most important step to be noted in the engineering department is the provision by which hereafter all engineering students will have separate instruction in mathematics.

This change enables the department to increase the entrance requirements, and hereafter engineering students must be prepared in solid and spherical geometry in addition to the preparation heretofore required. The number of recitations per week, the topics to be studied and the ground to be covered can now be arranged without consideration of the effect upon the work of students in other departments, and the whole course in mathematics can now be taught so as to best meet the needs of the engineering department. The effect of this change will be to save about one-half year in time given to this subject and to enable the students to commence their study of mechanics at the beginning of the junior year with a working knowledge of the mathematics employed in this study.

During the year, also, the work in several courses of study in the department has been more completely organized and strengthened. Mr. Smith, in charge of the freshman drawing, has brought new features into this work by which its value has been increased and marked progress shown. The testing of materials of construction, while occupying no more time than heretofore, has been planned so as to show more fully the qualities of the material under different conditions. In the testing of cement, two brands were selected, one of Portland and one of natural cement. Complete tests of these cements in respect to their rate of setting, soundness and expansion were made, and also of their strength under tensile, compression and transverse forces. These latter tests were made after periods of twenty-four hours, of one and two weeks, and of one, two, three, four and five months. The effect of freezing and of mixing with coarse and fine sand in different proportions was also noted. From twelve to eighteen tests were made in each case and the averages plotted on cross section paper. From the study of these plots a careful estimate was made of the character and value of the cements used. Building stone, several kinds of timber and many varieties of iron and steel were also carefully studied in the laboratory.

In addition to the regular work in the testing laboratory, tests were made of paving brick and broken stone for road material, samples being furnished by the road officials of several towns. The department has excellent facilities for the making of such tests and if the different towns of the State should avail themselves of this opportunity of determining the value of proposed road material the knowledge thus gained would be of much service to them.

The work of the summer school of surveying has often been seriously inconvenienced by the difficulty of finding suitable accommodations for the class. This year its session will be held at Greensboro, Vt. Comfortable quarters at moderate cost have been secured and the region is one which affords excellent opportunity for the various kinds of work to be undertaken. It is proposed to carry on the work in that region for several years and to make an accurate topographical map of many square miles of that section of the State.

There has been an increase in the number of students in the shops also this year, the number in the different classes being fifty-one.

Some students have attended more than one class and are counted twice in the above number, but there are thirty-nine different students in the several classes.

A new tool room has been built and fitted up, and there have been added to the shop equipment one fourteen-inch engine lathe, four wood turning lathes, a wet emery grinder, two sets of carpenter's tools, and various small tools for the machine shop. The students have built for the shops also one pattern-maker's bench and an eight horse power vertical engine. There have been many valuable additions to the equipment of the electrical engineering course as noted in the report of the professor in charge of that course.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

The course of instruction in the agricultural department for the past six years has been as broadly scientific as any in the institution, yet has included a large proportion of such theoretical and practical branches as pertain directly to agriculture. It has been of collegiate grade in fact as well as in name. The young men whom it has attracted stand on a par, mentally and socially, with the students in other courses. The last graduating class, ten in number, included two students who ranked second and eighth in the class of fifty-five, while four of the ten received conspicuous notice upon the honor list. In short, its students are a credit to the institution, and should prove good citizens and good farmers.

The department has felt in some measure the effect of low prices for agricultural produce. The older generation of farmers is prone to believe it folly to spend time and money in agricultural education, while the members of the rising one, too often impressed with the idea that "farming doesn't pay," study classics, law, or perhaps medicine rather than agriculture. It goes without saying that the farming methods of our fathers seldom pay today. Yet modern farming operations, based on scientific principles, intelligently applied, offer a reasonable probability of success as a reward of well-directed and earnest effort. Herein lies the best argument for agricultural education: that it fits the student to grapple intelligently with the problems of actual farm life and improves his chance of success. How to do a thing is better understood if one knows why it is done. The union of science with practice—knowing why linked with knowing how—helps in agriculture just as it does in other lines.

Tuition, room rent and incidentals are free to students in the four years agricultural course. There are, moreover, opportunities in connection with the work of the Experiment Station and on the college farm for a limited number of Vermont students to earn an amount sufficient to defray a portion of their board bills.

Few if any better opportunities exist for the ambitious and earnest young men of our State to get a broad scientific education at minimum outlay, than are to be found in the four years agricultural course at this University.

To those who do not wish to undertake the full four years course, the department offers the privilege of a selection of special studies of a more purely agricultural nature for shorter times, ranging from a few months to two years.

DAIRY SCHOOL.

The most successful short course thus far conducted at the University, one purely technical in its nature and hitherto overcrowded with students, is the dairy school. Its seventh annual session began on Monday, January 10th, and closed Saturday, February 5th, 1898. The science and art of butter making, the handling of various kinds of dairy apparatus, the care and testing of milk, are the main points covered by the course. The school is open not only to the professional creamery worker, but to all who may wish to learn modern dairying methods.

There were ten separators and a variety of other dairy apparatus in use, from 700 to 1,000 pounds of milk were handled daily, and all the work was conducted so far as possible under creamery conditions with a view to giving students practice in the operation of the machinery, and a clear understanding of methods. Instruction was also given in pasteurization, and in the use of the Babcock and other tests. Text books were used and the class quizzed daily. Three courses of lectures were given, twenty-four upon the constitution and production of milk, etc., by the professor of agricultural chemistry of the University; twenty-four by prominent dairymen in the State, various professors of the University, and others on topics allied to dairying; and four evening lantern lectures.

No entrance examination or tuition fees were required. Certificates of proficiency were given to those passing examinations upon the theoretical and practical work of the school.

The attention of your honorable body was called in the last two reports to the pressing need of larger quarters and more apparatus, to the overcrowded condition of the school, and to the fact that in almost every other State offering dairy school instruction, State funds have been voted for the erection and the equipment of a building. The Vermont school cannot offer the best of dairying instruction in its present inadequate quarters.

THE EXPERIMENT STATION.

The work of the experiment station during the past two years has continued along the same lines as those hitherto pursued, viz: dairying, animal husbandry, composition of field crops, analysis of commercial fertilizers, plant diseases, horticulture, etc.

April—No. 64, Analyses of Commercial Fertilizers, 16 pages.

During the nineteen months included in the above summary the station has published 697 pages of printed matter. The eleventh annual report, containing about 250 pages, will be issued late in the fall.

The above showing, however, does not indicate the entire range of the station's activities during the past two years. Its relation to the public is shown in a four-fold manner:

1. By the publication and distribution of the results of experiments in the form of bulletins and reports.
2. By articles appearing in the agricultural and general press.
3. By direct correspondence with individuals of all classes, particularly with farmers.
4. By the personal contact of members of the station staff with the farming community at institutes, fairs, by visits, etc.

Much time, thought and energy are devoted by several members of the station staff to correspondence in reply to farmers' letters, and in attendance at farmers' institutes, etc., which, it is thought, are proving mutually helpful, enabling the farmer better to comprehend the station's work, and its officers to appreciate more clearly the needs of the farming community.

The board of control believe that the station is proving more helpful to its constituency every year. This is shown by kindly words of appreciation, by the increase in the number of calls for analytical work and advice, and by the rapid growth of the station mailing list. In view of the limited resources of the station these latter tokens of approval are becoming positively embarrassing. The more the work, the better its appreciation by the public, the larger editions of bulletins and reports need be printed and the greater the cost of diffusing the results.

LEGAL RELATION OF THE STATION TO THE STATE.

It is the popular notion that the station is a State institution and that it is supported by a State appropriation. Nothing could be further from the truth. Its income is obtained from three sources: first, a United States appropriation, derived solely from the sale of public lands; second, from the sale of produce of its farm; third, from the fees for licensed fertilizers. No State funds have been appropriated to the station for any purpose whatsoever since 1890.

Notwithstanding this fact a State law (Section 263, Vermont statutes) requires among other things that the station analyze miscellaneous matter of an agricultural nature for the citizens of the State without charge. This class of work is not considered legal by the United States authorities. Doctor A. C. True, Director of the office of Experiment Stations of the United States Department of Agriculture, writes, concerning the Vermont Station, in Bulletin 50 of that office as follows:

"It appears from the report of the director for 1896-97 that, though, 'no State funds are appropriated to the station for any purpose whatsoever,' an increasing number of routine analyses of miscellaneous agricultural materials are made for private individuals by the station under a State law. The State for a time made an appropriation for this work, but withdrew financial aid in 1890. The United States funds are not properly used for this purpose, and in the absence of a State appropriation specifically for this work it should not be allowed to be a hindrance to the investigations for the public benefit for which the station is maintained."

Another requirement of the State law is that the station publish bulletins and annual reports for free distribution, yet, as above stated, it makes no provision for the expenses incurred in compiling, printing and mailing the same. Similar requirements are made by the United States law.

Nearly two-thirds of the stations established under national auspices receive more or less State aid, either directly by appropriation or indirectly through the granting of the State printing privilege. The annual reports, and generally the bulletins issued by the experiment stations of all the other New England and Middle States (except Delaware), are printed at State expense.

For the past eight years the station has furthered Vermont's agricultural interests without costing its treasury or its citizens a penny. In view of the attitude of the United States officials touching the station's compliance with the State law, and of the quite general grant of the State printing privilege to the stations of other States, and of the fact that for the past eight years the station has spent thousands of dollars from its own resources, gratuitously serving Vermont farmers and the interests of Vermont agriculture, the Board of Control would respectfully suggest that the reports and bulletins of the station be hereafter printed at State expense as an offset against expenses necessarily incurred in complying with the State law; or, as an alternative, that the law which imposes obligations without meeting expenses be repealed.

THE MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

Owing to the absence of the Professor of Military Science and Tactics, who was called by the War Department into active service in May, no detailed report of this department can be presented. We are happy to state, however, that the student body has during the past year entered into the work of the military department with the greatest fidelity and enthusiasm. A high state of discipline has been maintained. Drills have been attended with unusual punctuality. The theoretical element has entered into instruction more largely than ever before. Lectures have been given on the organization of armies and on campaigning, on which creditable examinations have been passed. The high efficiency of the battalion is evinced by the fact that after Lieut. Bailey's summons to the front, drills were maintained under the command of student officers, and with no visible falling off of discipline. It is also highly creditable to the student organization that the senior officer under Lieut. Bailey, Major Robbins, received a commission as Adjutant in the Vermont Regiment of Volunteers.

THE LIBRARY.

The number of volumes on the shelves in the general library, exclusive of duplicates, is 40,260, of which 1,610 were added during the past year, 655 by purchase and 955 by gift. The number of pamphlets has been increased by 816. The total number of volumes, inclusive of the choice George P. Marsh collection (12,507), is 52,767. Of the Marsh Library we have a printed catalogue on the "dictionary" plan. The most important sections of the main collection are indexed in a card catalogue, to which about 2,500 titles were added during the last summer vacation. Several sets of State geological surveys have been completed during the past year, so far as they were still obtainable.

Worthy of special mention among the gifts of the year just closed is the elegant set of Fac-similes of Manuscripts in European Archives relating to America, 1773-1783, compiled and edited with notes, references, translations and index by Benjamin F. Stevens, Esq., now of London, Eng., but always a Vermonter, and once, for a time, a student in the University. These twenty-five foolscap-folio volumes, costing $500, were presented by Dr. W. Seward Webb, Hon. R. D. Benedict, Major Z. K. Pangborn, John H. Converse, and the editor. They constitute a notable addition to our resources for independent historical investigation, and contain, as the compiler says, many documents of special interest to Vermonters.

General Rush C. Hawkins of New York City, to whom we were not long since indebted for a fine portrait of the Hon. George P. Marsh, has again testified his interest in the University of his native State by the gift of five imperial folios of extreme rarity and value, three of them photographic reproductions of priceless codices in the Ambrosian Library at Milan. One of these is the Syriac version of the Old Testament, made from the Hebrew, and known as the Peshito, from a manuscript of the sixth century, 2 vols. Another is the Syriac version made from the Hexaplar text of Origen in the beginning of the seventh century. Of the first named, there are but three other copies in the United States; of the second, but two; while of the other two folios—one of them containing fragments of the Iliad with exceedingly choice illustrations—there are no other examples on this side of the Atlantic.

It is hoped that our already valuable collection of books on Vermont may be augmented soon by the purchase of a private library which has been fifty years in process of formation. This contains over two thousand titles, and may now be obtained at about one-half its reputed value. Certainly it ought not to be broken up and scattered. If it were secured and deposited here, it would go far to make possible the writing of that authoritative history of the Green Mountain State which those who are best entitled to an opinion say is still a desideratum.

The use of the library by students increases year by year and a larger use than formerly is made of original sources in investigations; while the already liberal supply of works of reference is constantly receiving additions. The list of literary and scientific periodicals is a large one, carefully selected with reference to the needs of the different departments. These are procured, in part, by the proceeds of a small fee paid annually by the students.

GIFTS.

The last report contained the announcement that Mr. Henry Le Grand Cannon of Burlington had bequeathed to the University his valuable collection of East India curios, consisting of weapons, implements, carvings, hangings, embroideries, etc., illustrative of eastern art and civilization. He added to the gift two thousand five hundred dollars for the purpose of constructing a suitable room in connection with the University Museum for preserving and displaying the collection. The building thus provided for has been erected as a wing of the Museum. The collection has been received with additions made to it by members of Mr. Cannon's family, has been very effectively arranged for the display of the various articles, and is on exhibition at stated times to all interested.

The Belcher legacy for the benefit of the library, mentioned in the last report, has not as yet brought in any revenue, but a careful investigation of the estate made by the treasurer gives assurance that the library will in time receive substantial benefit from this bequest.

The University has been very fortunate in finding, through inquiries made by the historian of the University, Prof. Goodrich, an admirable miniature of Hon. Ira Allen. This miniature was doubtless made in Paris, as its workmanship shows, and is one of the finest specimens extant of the art of its time. Mr. Thomas W. Wood of New York and Montpelier has succeeded in painting from this miniature a very fine portrait of Col. Allen, which now adorns the Billings Library and is fittingly labeled "Col. Ira. Allen, Founder of the University of Vermont." For the thought of securing this portrait and the expense of painting and framing it, the University is indebted to the generosity of one of her sons, Charles A. Hoyt of Brooklyn of the class of 1858.

General Rush C. Hawkins has continued his benefaction to the University by presenting to the library a set of rare and valuable books of which further mention is made under the head of "The Library."

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

President M. H. Buckham:

My Dear Sir:—I respectfully submit the following report of the Medical Department of the University of Vermont:

The Faculty of the Medical Department of the University have made every effort to keep abreast of the increasing demand for higher medical education. The requirements for entrance have been kept up to the standard of the Medical Schools of the State of New York. In fact, the Regents of the State of New York have appointed Prof. S. W. Landon of Burlington, examiner, so that students who wish can take the New York State Regents examination here.

The course has been extended to four years of six months each. Laboratory courses in chemistry, histology, pathology, bacteriology, and uroscopy, and practical courses in anatomy, physical diagnosis, obstetrics and surgery have been included in the curriculum. The final examinations have been made more rigid, the candidates for graduation now having to pass seventy per cent in each of the seven branches of Medicine. Seven instructors have been added to the number of teachers during the last year. The teaching force of this department is as follows: Regular professors, seven; adjunct professors, four; professors of special subjects, nine; instructors, seven; laboratory instructors, two; instructors in practical courses, three; demonstrators, two; total, thirty-four. In several instances two places are filled by the same person, so that there are twenty-seven men employed.

It was expected that the inauguration of the four years course would materially lessen the number of students, but this has not been the case.

We are under great obligation to the management of the University for providing a room for a Histological and Pathological Laboratory, which the Medical Faculty have equipped with microscopes and the necessary apparatus for the work in these departments. We still lack room necessary to successfully carry on the work of the department, and earnestly hope that some way may be provided to supply rooms for laboratory and recitation work

The Board of Directors of the Mary Fletcher Hospital have made it possible for the Medical Faculty to give to the medical students superior clinical advantages, by extending the use of the hospital for clinics, both medical and surgical.

The time has arrived in the history of medical education when the securing of a diploma does not mean so much as it did formerly. Many states require an examination by the State Board before giving a license to practice Medicine, and if the standing of a Medical School is not equal to that of the State Boards, the diploma is practically valueless. It is the desire of the Medical Faculty to give to the students in this department, such instruction and advantages as will fit them to successfully compete in every way with students from similar institutions. I think this has been accomplished in the past, and it is to be hoped that some way may be opened to provide still better facilities for doing this work in the future.

Very respectfully,

H. C. TINKHAM, M. D., Dean.

CONCLUSION.

The trustees commend to the careful consideration of your honorable body the foregoing exhibit of the growth during the past two years, the present prosperous condition, and the favorable prospects of the University of our State. In all those respects which enter into the prosperity of an institution of learning, in financial safety and enlargement, in facilities for instruction, in the number of students in attendance, in the intellectual and moral spirit prevalent in the academic body of teachers and students, and in the favoring opinion and patronage of the public, the Institution has made and is making steady and continuous progress. We are of the opinion that it would make still more rapid and widespread growth if a little more State funds and State loyalty were manifested in its behalf on the part of leading men in our communities, enough at least to prevent teachers in our High Schools and Academies from exerting a positive influence against the Institutions of the State which gives them maintenance. No State in the Union affords better material for making scholars and scholarly men and women than our own, and it is no boast in present circumstances to say that no Vermont boy or girl need go out of the state in order to secure the essentials of a collegiate education.

Respectfully submitted for the Trustees,

M. H. BUCKHAM,
President.
